McGrath Asks Boost Of $18,600,000 in U.S. Payment to District

$30,600,000 Grant Would Guarantee City Pay Increase, Restore House Cuts

By Thomas Winship
Post Reporter

Chairman J. Howard McGrath (D., R. I.) of the Senate District Committee yesterday introduced a bill boosting the Federal payment to the city to $30,600,000 for this year only.

The bill, calling for an additional outright $18,600,000 Federal grant for the 1950 fiscal year, would permit restoration of House cuts in the Commissioners' 103-million-dollar "austerity" budget and guarantee $330 retroactive pay raises for District workers.

The present Federal Government contribution to city expenses is 12 million dollars.

Asks' Tax Investigation

The Democratic leader also filed a Senate resolution authorizing a $50,000 investigation of the city tax structure with instructions to recommend a permanent tax program "at the earliest practicable date."

The plan to boost the Federal payment got a chilly reception from many sales tax advocates on the House side—members who are still smarting over the 2 per cent sales levy defeat on the House floor Monday.

While many House members yesterday indicated support of a four to six million dollars increase over the present 12-million-dollar Federal payment, they did not think an 18 million boost was "justified" or has "much chance of passing" the lower house.

Calls For "Scientific Solution"

McGrath emphasized his plan was strictly a "stopgap" expedient for the coming year only. He said:

"This program I am proposing is one in which the Federal Government will make a contribution this year, adequate to meet the District needs and come up with a scientific solution next year on a permanent basis.

"We are spending 18 millions in many places all over the world on situations that are not half as important as keeping the Nation's Capital on a sound fiscal basis."

He said there never has been a "scientific" approach to the District tax problem, adding that brief committee investigations in the course of writing a revenue bill "cannot help but be political."

Both McGrath bills were referred to his Senate District Committee. Should the measure authorizing the 18.6 millions Federal hike win committee approval, McGrath said it would probably be tacked onto the District appropriations bill on the Senate floor.

'Not All Innocent,' Says Dean

Virginia University Probing Girls' Visits to Men's Dorms

Charlottesville, Va., March 17 (Spl.).—Unchaperoned girls and women are entertained "at all hours . . . in the dormitory rooms" at the University of Virginia, the Dean of Students has reported to President Colgate W. Darden.

Dean J. H. Newman, who made the report, said that "while it is believed the greater part of this practice is innocent, there is reason to believe much of it is not."

President Darden told The Washington Post today that the university is attempting to put a stop to such practices and that enforcement of rules against such conduct "has materially improved" in the past six weeks.

Dean Newman reported also "the drinking of alcoholic liquor is an increasing problem everywhere today and it is a particularly serious problem here at the university."

Undergraduates queried by The Washington Post called reports of heavy drinking and promiscuity with women on the campus "greatly exaggerated."

Jack Hunter, editor of the university newspaper, The Cavalier Daily, said:

"Newman gives absolutely no consideration to the students' viewpoint and it's unfortunate he had to make remarks which reflect on the entire student body rather than on a few offenders."

Don Hood, president of the Student Council, said that since University President Colgate W. Darden took office in 1947 there had been a marked "stiffening" of university rules.

Henry St. Clair, president of the Interfraternity Council, contended the university is "not as bad morally as many others."

The problem, he said, is that the university "lets things out that other schools would suppress."

Opinion from several old-time residents of the city followed the same line. Former Charlottesville Mayor Roscoe Adams, who now operates a book store, said the conduct of students in the past four or five years is "the School Health Bill Approved In Senate Unit

Measure Provides 35-Million-Dollar Grant for Childern

A bill to provide 35 million dollars annually for medical services to all school children was agreed upon yesterday by a Senate Labor and Public Welfare subcommittee, Chairman Lister Hill (D., Ala.) disclosed.

Hill said he hopes the full committee will act favorably on the measure at the same time it acts on a bill to provide 300 million dollars a year in Federal funds to help States pay school teachers salaries and other school operating expenses.

The Alabama Senator said he expected the committee would meet today and was hopeful it could complete action on both measures.

The new measure would provide medical examinations and related health services—such as dentistry—for all children, whether they attend public, private or parochial schools.

States would have to match the Federal contribution to avail themselves of the fund in much the same manner as the school lunch program is carried out. Richer States would contribute on a 50-50 basis, while contributions for the poorer States would range down to a ratio of 75 per cent from the Federal Government and 25 per cent from the State. The contributions would be figured on the per capita income of the States.

The subcommittee was composed of Senators Hill, Paul Douglas (D., Ill.), Robert Taft (R., Ohio) and H. Alexander Smith (R., N. J.).

The measure will probably be introduced, Hill said, by Senator Elbert D. Thomas (D., Utah) chairman of the full committee. It will have an imposing list of bipartisan sponsors.

Hoover Urges Army Drop Rivers Control

Report Recommends Four-Part Split Of Interior Dept.

By John W. Ball
Post Reporter

The Hoover Commission for Reorganization of the Government came up with its most controversial recommendation yesterday — to take rivers and harbors improvements and flood control away from the Army Engineers.

The proposal, rumored for months, was contained in the Hoover Plan for reorganization of the Interior Department. Active opposition to the suggestion began in Congress two months ago, even before the Commission had reached a final decision.

Pressure by the opposition was not limited to Congress. Hundreds of inspired appeals to save the civilian jobs for the corps have flooded Administration leaders, while numerous protest meetings have been whipped up in localities where the engineers have directed Government projects.

In answer, the Hoover report quoted from a report by its Task Force on Public Works that "the argument that rivers and harbors work can be directed only by the Army Engineers becomes even more absurd when it is realized that less than 200 Army Engineers are involved and that the remainder of the personnel under their control are civilians who supply most of the detailed knowledge and continuing direction."

Former President Hoover a month ago told congressional committees that, speaking as an engineer, he saw no military benefit to the Army Engineers from their present civilian activities. He argued, and the report yesterday also stated, that the present division of flood control and river development activities with the Reclamation Service brought "over-

Bill Will Ask Slot Machine Referendum in Prince Georges

By Roger B. Farquhar
Post Reporter

Annapolis, Md., March 17—A bill to authorize a referendum on the use of cash-payoff slot machines in Prince Georges County will be introduced in the Maryland General Assembly Friday.

The bill is sponsored by the entire Prince Georges delegation to the House of Delegates and its sponsors claim it would bring $214,000 a year into the county coffers.

Perry O. Wilkinson (D., Prince Georges), delegation chairman, said the amount would pay the cost of carrying a three-million-dollar or four-million-dollar bond issue for capital construction.

Use of the conventional side lever-operated slot machine commonly called the "one-armed bandit" is specifically outlawed in the bill.

But electrically-operated slot machines of the "console" type such as those in use in three other Maryland counties—St. Mary's, Calvert and Anne Arundel—would be legal.

Wilkinson explained that there are many "console" type machines. Most rest on the floor, are about waist high, and use either numbers or horses on which the player "bets." Some use the traditional fruit symbols—cherries, pears, apples, bananas, etc., which, when they fall in line, pay off.

Odds for the nickel play usually run 10 or 15 to 1 but sometimes the machines pay off as high as 30 to 1.

There are about 900 coin-operated amusement devices, without a cash payoff, now in the county from which the county derives no reve-

Agriculture Boasts New Pest Weapon

Here's bad news for pests—the insect kind. The Bureau of Entomology and Plant Quarantine of the Department of Agriculture yesterday announced a development "comparable to the synthesis of rubber."

It is a synthetic chemical resembling pyrethrum, the most potent bug killer known that is also not dangerous to humans. For use against such pests as houseflies, mosquitoes and cockroaches it is far more effective than DDT and much safer.

The Department's announcement said it means the end of the housefly.

Heretofore this country has imported annually up to 20 million tons of pyrethrum flowers from their native habitats, Japan and the Belgian Congo. The pyrethrum flower is one of nature's ways of controlling insect pests.

Solutions made from the flower were developed during the war for use in sprays and other insecticides. It is the chief ingredient in the Army-developed aersol bomb.

The discovery was announced at a departmental news conference. Two scientists at the Beltsville, Md., experimental stations, F. B. LaForge and M. S. Schechter, developed the chemical. It took them 15 years, the department announced.

3 in School Jobs Fight X-Ray Test As Against Creed

District legal authorities are studying whether three Christian Scientists may be compelled to take chest X-ray examinations in order to continue working at a children's institution here.

Miss F. Bessie Baker, a temporary teacher, and two house mothers at the Hillcrest Children's Village, 4119 Nebraska ave. nw., have declined to take the examinations on the grounds that they are contrary to their religious convictions.

The District School Board requires all teachers including workers in child care institutions to take the chest tests before the organizations may be licensed.

Assistant Corporation Counsel Hubert B. Pair is preparing an opinion on the problem and expects to submit it to the Commissioners by Monday. He noted yesterday that under the Communicable Disease Statute of 1946, the city heads have authority to promulgate regulations in the interest of public health.

Pair said he did not have the names of the two house mothers and officials of the children's institution declined to give them out.

The Christian Science Committee on Publication here said that Christian Scientists did submit to physical examinations imposed by military regulations rather than violate the law, but the present position by the women is taken on the basis that religious freedom guarantees are being violated.

The committee, which intervened in the case, cited an opinion dealing with compulsory tuberculosis tests for teachers by the attorney general of California. The group contends this ruling exempts Christian Scientists from compulsory tuberculosis tests.

Mrs. Doyle Resigns Her Post On D. C. Board of Education

By Elsie Carper
Post Reporter

Mrs. Henry Grattan Doyle, member of the Board of Education for 21 years and its president for 14, resigned yesterday.

Her resignation, effective March 25, was submitted in a letter to Chief Judge Bolitha J. Laws of District Court.

Mrs. Doyle said that she had decided some time ago to ask Judge Laws not to consider her name for reappointment when her current three-year term ends July 1. She said she is resigning at the present time to accompany her husband, Dean Doyle of George Washington University, on a two-month trip abroad.

In Europe Dr. and Mrs. Doyle will visit their daughter, Mrs. Charles E. Campbell, jr., her husband and the two Campbell children in Heidelberg, Germany.

Mrs. Doyle asked that her resignation be accepted so the work of the board would not be delayed by the absence of a member and that she be freed of responsibility when she leaves for Europe.

"I am deeply appreciative of the confidence that you and the judges for the past 21 years have shown in me by seven appointments to the Board of Education," Mrs. Doyle said.

"I have thoroughly enjoyed all of my 21 years of service. The Parliament Bogged Down

1 Killed, Many Injured as Italy Debates Atlantic Pact With Bombs, Clubs, Words

Rome, Italy (Friday), March 18 (U.P.).—Italian Communists fought against Italy's participation in the Atlantic Pact with words, clubs, bombs and strikes today in a nation-wide struggle that already has left one dead, countless injured and parliament bogged down in a tumultuous Red filibuster.

Communist mobs attempted to force their way into the United States and British consulates in Milan but were beaten back by police.

Steel-helmeted police beat back demonstrators outside Parliament. Weary deputies clashed inside the chamber. Jeep-borne police sped at 50-miles-an-hour to clear the streets of Rome. Workers and police battled at Terni—Molotov cocktails vs. charging jeeps.

In Milan, an armored column broke up Red rallies at the Porta Vitoria and Piazza Loreto. In Canosa di Puga, near Bari, several persons were injured in a riot.

Police were stationed in double lines around Parliament during the night while the filibuster droned on. At 2:30 a. m. (8:30 p. m. EST Thursday), the longest Parliament session in Italian history was in its thirty-fifth hour. The filibuster had passed its 24-hour mark with the 115th straight leftist speaker still on his feet, and 40, perhaps 50, speakers to come.

The government said "the situation is under control everywhere and the demonstrations in Rome constituted no real threat to security." A spokesman added that "the Communists can talk themselves out."

Armed Forces Press Bureaus To Be Merged

Forrestal Orders Civilian Control Of New Organization

By John G. Norris
Post Reporter

Defense Secretary James Forrestal yesterday ordered the public information branches of the Army, Navy and Air Force merged into one office under civilian control.

The move—aimed at strengthening the Defense chief's authority over the armed forces and ending their rivalry for headlines—followed congressional charges of "security leaks."

Forrestal announced the forthcoming merger after discussing it with the House Military Appropriations subcommittee. Chairman George H. Mahon (D., Tex.) called him before the group after sharply criticizing the armed forces for revealing too much about vital defense plans.

The reorganization actually has been in the mill for some time. However, the individual services were understood to be objecting

Atlantic Pact To Be Made Public Today

By Murrey Marder
Post Reporter

The text of the North Atlantic Security Pact, which seeks to unite the moral and physical power of North America and Western Europe for mutual defense, today will be placed before the public.

Formal invitations for Denmark, Italy, Iceland and Portugal to sign the proposed pact with the eight nations which negotiated it, were issued by the State Department yesterday.

The eve of public release of the draft was marked by violent demonstrations in Italy where the Communist Party filibustered against it as an instrument of "aggression," and a solemn protest by the French Communists against France's participation.

Despite these demonstrations, political observers in both countries said they would not prevent approval of the treaty by the respective governments.

The invitations to Italy, Portugal, Denmark and Iceland are seen here as strong indication that all will join it, together with the United States, Canada, Great Britain, France, Norway, Belgium, the Netherlands and Luxembourg.

The 1040-word text will be released for publication at 11 a. m. today, and at 10:30 p. m. tonight, Secretary of State Dean G. Acheson will make a Nationwide radio broadcast explaining its terms.

Basic terms of the treaty—which has to be formally approved by each government after the signing ceremony here in early April before the treaty is effective—have been generally known for some time.

An armed attack on any signatory will be regarded as an attack

Senate Unit Votes States Rent Control

Bill Would Become Effective as Soon As Law Is Enacted

Post Reporter

The Senate Banking Committee last night reported out a "States' rights" rent control extension bill giving State governments power to decontrol, if they choose, as soon as the law becomes effective.

The bill, as reported to the Senate, grants what Chairman Burnet R. Maybank (D., S. C.) described as two "automatic" 5 per cent increases, the first to take effect October 1, 1949, and the second April 1, 1950. This was in lieu of the House-passed "reasonable return on a reasonable value."

Controls would be continued, where State Legislatures permit, for 12 months beyond their present March 31 expiration date. Tenants would be given an additional three months after that during which they could not be evicted nor their rents increased.

Houses and apartments which became vacant during those months, however, would be decontrolled.

A 15 per cent over-all ceiling was set on rent increases over the rent charged for the unit on June 30, 1947, except for hardship cases.

In other words if a tenant's rent had been raised 15 per cent under the present law's provision permitting such a boost in exchange for a lease no additional increases could be assessed under the proposed new law.

But if a tenant's rent had been

Board Awards Barber $8500

Sam Perticone, a barber, was awarded $8500 compensation yesterday for an aggravated hernia he suffered while stooping to hunt coins he lost while making change at a cash register.

The Bureau of Employes Compensation found that the injuries were suffered in the course of the barber's employment.

The injuries were inflicted on Perticone, who resides at 656 E. Capitol st., in July, 1945, while he was manager of the Union Station Barber Shop, according to the attorneys.

Substitute Plan Provided

Released Time Religious Courses Ruled Out in Fairfax

Released time religious education was thrown out of the 1949-50 school program in Fairfax County last night by the county school board.

Instead of one hour a week religious instruction during school hours, the board agreed to incorporate in next year's program an authorized substitute course. This course would embody "character-building on Christian principles" and a study of world religions, according to the board's decision.

The released time program has been criticized as in violation of the Supreme Court McCollum decision in which the Court's 8-to-1 decision declared released-time courses unconstitutional.

However, J. Lindsay Almond, the Virginia Attorney General, said that there is no violation of law as long as the counties keep their instruction nonsectarian, noncompulsory, not supervised by the school and not supported by public funds.

The released time issue was raised early this year with respect to schools in Arlington County. Following public hearings and a ruling by the school board's attorney that the courses are legal, the Arlington board voted to retain its courses of released-time instruction.

Fairfax Superintendent W. T. Woodson, in recommending that released-time classes be discontinued, said school authorities are completely denied supervision over the instructors as well as over the type of classes they teach because of the prohibition against schools having any official connection with or checks on religious courses.

He also objected to the program on the ground that the religious courses are sectarian in nature.

Southerners, GOP Unite To Override Truman Bloc

Coalition-Forced Change in Code Requires 64 Votes To Invoke Gag

By Robert C. Albright
Post Reporter

The Senate last night overrode the Administration leadership to approve the coalition-supported change in Senate rules invoking cloture by a two-thirds vote of the entire Senate.

The vote was 63 to 23.

Every change in the so-called rules compromise was voted down under a prior understanding between members of the controlling GOP-Southern Democratic coalition.

Breaks Long Stalemate

The vote broke a three-weeks Senate stalemate just three days after a Southern filibuster against more sweeping Administration cloture proposals folded up.

Though the Administration took a licking the vote cleared decks for the Senate to tackle a log-jam of Truman measures piled up behind the rules fight—rent control, ECA, reciprocal trade extension and long-range housing among others.

The new compromise rule would invoke cloture by a two thirds so-called constitutional majority of the full Senate (64 votes) to stop filibusters on anything but further changes in the rules.

But any motion to call up a rules shift would be subject to unlimited debate. Thus Southerners, who joined Republicans to force the change received a virtual guarantee against one thing they fear—majority-vote cloture.

Twenty-nine Democrats (19 of them Southerners) voted with 34 Republicans in support of the compromise rule. Only 15 Democrats and 8 Republicans voted "No."

The coalition actually rang up 11 more votes than the group's original strength of 52 Senators.

The final vote came at 11:15 p. m., after more than 12 hours of continuous session. At 11:18 p. m., the Senate adjourned until noon today.

Administration Lacked Strength

Administration leaders never held any real hope of defeating the GOP-Southern combine. They lost their first test when the Senate voted down, 57 to 29, an amendment by Senators Raymond E. Baldwin (R., Conn.) and Leverett Saltonstall (R., Mass.) to invoke cloture by a simple two-thirds of those voting on everything except further changes in the rules.

The Democratic leadership supported this amendment with the Administration's full strength but it wasn't enough.

Jailed Youth Says He Tried Break-in To Get Legal Fee

Thomas Maurice Harley, jr., 22, of 363 O st. sw., was sent to jail yesterday for six months because he tried to raise money to pay a lawyer to keep him out of jail.

Convicted of attempting to break into a Safeway store at 2620 Connecticut ave. nw., early yesterday, Harley told Judge Armond W. Scott in Municipal Court:

"I was just trying to raise some money to pay my lawyer."

Wesley S. Williams, the attorney, was at that moment in District Court where Harley was due to answer another burglary charge. Because of the defendant's absence the case was continued until April 4.

When reporters told Williams of Harley's statement, the lawyer replied: "I told this guy not to come back unless he had some money. He told me he was working."

Conductors Vote Pullman Strike

Fear Empty Bins

Mine Closing Starts 'Run' On Dealers

Pittsburgh, March 17 (AP).—Householders fearful of being caught with empty coal bins during the current mine work stoppage today created a "run" on retail stocks.

This was especially true in the eastern Pennsylvania anthracite region.

A coal dealers' spokesman in Pittsburgh said continued cold weather could whittle down stored-above-ground supplies faster than had been expected. When the work stoppage of some 463,000 hard and soft coal miners started Monday, the Nation had 70 million tons of mined coal—a normal 45 days supply.

The miners were ordered out Monday east of the Mississippi by UMW president John L. Lewis. He said he wished to pay tribute to dead and injured miners and to protest appointment of Dr. James Boyd as director of the United States Bureau of Mines.

Howard Gibbs, secretary of the Pittsburgh Retail Coal Merchants Association said: "Coal stocks at the start of the mine shutdown were larger than normal due to the mild winter. The present cold wave has brought a flood of orders but not enough to deplete stocks seriously."

In western Pennsylvania and West Virginia, acts of violence marked the mine tie-up.

A strip mine operator, a picket and a truck driver were arrested at Tyler, Pa. Police said a fist fight broke out after pickets saw strip mine employes operating a nonunion tipple. The picket and the truck driver charged each other with assault and battery and the mine owner also was arrested. All were held for court.

In Harrison County, W. Va., yesterday about 20 carloads of pickets forced nine trucks to dump their cargoes at the side of the road. State police said the trucks were hauling coal from nonunion mines.

Other nonunion mines near Clarksburg, W. Va., were reported operating without interference. The number of roving pickets was said to be smaller than in mine shutdowns of past years. Production from nonunion strip mines is very small compared to the total 580,000,000 tons of soft coal mined in 1948.

The Scranton (Pa.) Times today demanded that Lewis end his coal mine work stoppage. The newspaper, published in the heart of the anthracite region, declared in a page one editorial that Lewis had made "a mistake." The editorial added:

"The memorial has lasted long enough, too long, in fact. Mine workers are suffering. The complete stoppage, coming after three months or so of short work weeks, has dented the pocketbooks of workers and has left the cupboard bare of many of the necessities of life."

Yesterday, hard coal operators disclosed they had asked Lewis to end the work stoppage in the anthracite fields.

John L. Lewis gave a new indication yesterday that his United Mine Workers of America will ask the soft coal mine operators this spring for an increase in the 20-cent-a-ton royalty which finances the union's welfare and retirement fund.

Lewis told 12 visiting Swedish labor leaders that, although the fund is "functioning," the 20-cent royalty which the operators pay on each ton of coal mined is "not enough" and must be increased, one of the Swedes disclosed. He reiterated previous statements that he wants the retirement age for miners under the pension plan cut from 62 to 60.

New York Herald Tribune News Service

Chicago, March 17 (U.P.).—The Independent Order of Railway Conductors said today that 2500 Pullman car conductors will be called out on strike on the Nation's railroads March 31.

The strike also would affect Pullman sleeping cars operating in Canada.

A. G. Wise, executive vice president of the union, said a strike deadline of 6 a. m. local time March 31 was set after the Pullman conductors voted overwhelmingly to strike.

Wise said the strike would be called in a dispute with the Pullman system over working rules. Conductors will man all sleeping cars still en route when the deadline is reached, Wise said, but will refuse to work on any trains moving after that time.

Despite the strike deadline, it appeared a walkout easily could be averted. The National Railway Mediation Board presumably would be asked to intervene, and Wise said the union would "cooperate."

If mediation failed, the board could ask President Truman to appoint a fact-finding board, automatically staying a strike for at least 60 days.

Wise charged that the Pullman company had failed to comply with working rules for conductors in accordance with their interpretation by the National Railway Adjustment Board. He said the dispute involved cases in which the company failed to pay compensation awarded by the board or to accredit hours of service.

Carroll R. Harding, president of the Pullman Co., charged the threatened strike was the result of a dispute over working rule interpretations which apply only to a "comparatively small number of special operating conditions of Pullman service."

Railroad Is Tied Up For 3d Day by Strike

St. Louis, March 17 (AP).—Trains on the strike-bound Wabash Railroad remained idle today for the third straight day with no indication of a settlement.

Some 3000 operating employes are on strike. If no back-to-work arrangement is made, 9000 other employes are due to be laid off beginning Saturday.

President Truman has signed an order calling for a 60-day postponement of the strike while a fact-finding board considers the dispute.

But union leaders said once a strike has started there is no compulsion for them to send the men back to work. They said they are awaiting official notice of President Truman's order.

At Key West, Fla., President Truman tonight appointed Chief Justice R. J. McDonough of the Utah Supreme Court to head the three-member emergency board to investigate the strike.

Mr. Truman named Curtis G. Shake, former member of the Indiana Supreme Court and John W. Yeager, associate justice of the Nebraska Supreme Court, to serve with McDonough.

Unions involved are the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen, the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen and the Order of Railway Conductors.

Wages are not an issue. The strike was called over approximately 100 individuals' claims against the railroad. The Wabash operates in Illinois, Michigan, Ohio, Missouri, Iowa and Indiana.

Industrial effects of the strike are being felt.

The Lincoln-Mercury assembly plant at Robertson, Mo., said it will lay off 1500 workers if the dispute isn't settled shortly. The Decatur (Ill.) Milling Co. said it will have to shut down in a few days.

Lewis Asks Court To Set Aside Fines

By The Associated Press

John L. Lewis yesterday asked the U. S. Court of Appeals to set aside the $1,420,000 contempt-of-court fines levied on him and the United Mine Workers during a strike last year.

Lewis' attorneys filed a brief in the appeals court, in preparation for formal hearings next Monday.

The brief attacked the constitutionality of the national emergency provisions of the Taft-Hartley Act which provides an 80-day injunction to halt major strikes. The law was invoked in the UMW strike over pensions from March 12 to April 19 last year.

Justice T. Alan Goldsborough fined the UMW chief $20,000 and the union $1,400,000 for failure to obey a court order April 3 for a prompt end to the walkout.

Agency transfers to and from the Interior Department, as proposed by Hoover Committee

Montgomery Again Seeks School Power

Annapolis, March 17.—Defeated once in efforts to wrest school board appointive powers from the Governor, Montgomery County legislators today tried a new tack.

Senator Roy Iasco Davis (R., Montgomery) introduced a bill requiring the Governor to select Montgomery school board members from nominees submitted by the County Council.

At present, according to Delegate Anders R. Lofstrand, jr., Montgomery delegation chairman, Governor Lane appoints county school board members on the recommendation of the Democratic State central committee of the county.

Six Democrats are now on the Board of Education and there have been no Republican members in recent years, he said.

Earlier Attempt Defeated

The new attempt follows by only two days defeat in the House by a 74-40 vote of a bill providing for popularly-elected school board members in Montgomery.

In leading debate against the measure before the Tuesday vote, Chairman Bernard S. Melnicove (D., Baltimore), of the House judiciary committee, charged it would upset uniformity. He said the Governor should appoint school board members all over the State.

The House alcoholic beverage committee killed a bill which would have enabled clubhouses of veteran and fraternal groups in Montgomery and 16 other counties to sell liquor. The legislation had been sought by Montgomery veterans groups. Delegate Lofstrand, a committee member, led the fight against the measure.

Would be "Opening Wedge"

A similar measure had been rejected by the Montgomery delegation earlier on the ground approval would be an "opening wedge" for all other groups.

The Prince Georges County delegation announced it would introduce on Friday a bill "freezing" the number of alcoholic beverage licenses to be issued in the county.

Another Prince Georges measure to be submitted Friday would authorize the county commissioners to appoint a county recreation board of four members and issue up to $60,000 annually in bonds for three years to develop playgrounds and other recreational facilities.

Mill Lays Off 200 Due to 'Lack of Orders'

Harrisville, N. H., March 17 (AP). The Cheshire Mills, manufacturers of woolen garment fabrics, laid off 200 of its employes this week because of "a lack of orders."

John Colony, jr., plant manager, said the closing was "temporary" and that it was anticipated regular operations would start again "within a few weeks."

lap of effort" and "disastrously wasteful conflict."

"An example of duplication and conflict may be found in the plans for a project at Hell's Canyon, Idaho," the report stated. "These were duplicated at a cost very roughly estimated at about $250,000 each by the Corps of Engineers and the Bureau of Reclamation."

Reservoir Conflict Cited

The report emphasized the "inherent conflict in the use of reservoirs for flood control and their use for power or irrigation."

"With the Reclamation Service in control of one function of some reservoirs and the Engineers in charge of others," it continued, "there can be only continued friction. The consolidation of these agencies is the only remedy."

The report on Interior indicated that it was one of the most difficult for the commission. Two investigating committees—the commission calls them "task forces"—made recommendations, one titled "Public Work," the other "Natural Resources."

The commission didn't follow either, but used parts of both reports. In introducing its final decision, it stated:

"We propose that the Department of the Interior be given more clearly the mission of development of subsoil and water resources.

"As these activities require large public works, we recommend that other major public works also be managed by this department."

The commission itself sharply disagreed on nearly all proposals. As in other Hoover reports, the majority's recommendations were accompanied by numerous dissents.

It proposed that the department be divided into four services, with the following agencies:

1. Water development and use, to include reclamation, rivers and harbors improvement and flood control, Bonneville Power and Southwestern Power Administrations, and the division of power.

2. Building construction, including public buildings and community services from the Federal Works Agency, construction for the Coast Guard, hospital construction for other departments, civilian airport construction, etc.

3. Mineral resources, including Geological Survey, Bureau of Mines, division of oil and gas, administration of mineral leases, title records and reservations and leasing of mineral lands (now in the Agriculture Department). This section also would take over investigations into natural gas resources from the Federal Power Commission, and the operation of the Government's tin smelter at Texas City, Tex., from Reconstruction Finance Corporation.

4. Recreation, including public parks and monuments and wildlife and game fishing.

The Interior Department meanwhile replied to criticism in a previous Hoover report. That accused the department of grossly "underestimating" the cost of several major reclamation projects.

The department contended that the commission failed to take into account new facilities ordered by Congress after the cost of the projects had been estimated.

The commission proposed, over protests by four of its members, to transfer the Bureau of Land Management to Agriculture. The only Government construction work exempt from Interior's blanket authority under the recommendations would be those of the Atomic Energy Commission.

Willys Announces Price Cuts Of $25 to $270 on Entire Line

Toledo, Ohio, March 17 (AP).—Willys-Overland Motors today became the second automotive manufacturer to cut prices in the last two months.

The company announced price reductions ranging from $25 to $270 on its complete line of jeeps, passenger cars and two and four-wheel drive trucks.

General Motors Corp. last month announced price cuts of from $10 to $40 on all GM passenger automobiles and Chevrolet trucks.

James D. Mooney, president and board chairman of Willys-Overland, said four major factors made its price reductions possible.

He listed these as improvement in steel and other supplies; easing material shortages, results of Willys-Overland policy of maintaining its basic models instead of making annual model changeovers, and the company's "functional design, which eliminates wasteful use of materials in frills that add nothing to a motor car's performance or comfort."

Mooney added that "our price reductions are based upon confidence that this country will be wise enough to move costs downward without breaking the productive spirit that is the secret of our strength.

"We are counting on the utmost cooperation from our workers and our suppliers," he said. "We are making our bid on the basis of a continued high level of efficient production."

MacArthur Statement Seen As Conflict With His Foes

Tokyo (Friday), March 18 NYHT. There was much speculation here today over the reasons for Gen. Douglas MacArthur's statement yesterday that he intends to remain at his post until a Japanese peace treaty is signed, unless he is assigned elsewhere, and that predictions of civil control of Japan were mere rumors.

In his statement General MacArthur said he had "no intention of seeking relief from my heavy responsibilities here" and said that the sources of reports of impending civilian control were "cloaked in anonymity." He reiterated his desire "to see this job through to the signing of a peace treaty."

In American circles here, the general's statement was taken as a dramatic bid for his own continued control of Japan in open conflict with any adviser to President Truman who may be wishing to move the State Department into the general's functions and relegate the Army to mere garrison duties here.

They picture General MacArthur as throwing down the gauntlet to his political foes at home and saying, with all the prestige of a national hero, that he is staying here until removed.

British Fear of Depression Held Cause of Stock Drop

London, March 17 (AP).—Fear that a depression may be approaching—here and in the United States—appears to be a strong factor behind a prolonged drop in London stock prices.

Both Sir Stafford Cripps, the nation's economic boss, and wary investors on the stock exchange have weather eyes cocked on Wall Street and the condition of the American economy.

Sir Stafford, at an American news conference, declined to say he expects a recession in the United States. Perhaps by spring, he said, we can tell whether lower prices and other changes in American business represent a continuing trend or just something temporary.

The London Financial Times, a paper which reflects and sometimes shapes the thought of British investors, asked editorially:

"Is America now to be afflicted by all the horrors of a business depression?"

When this disquieting thought was voiced, the decline in the London market had barely begun. Since then almost every sector of the market except government issues has been in an uninterrupted slide. (In the New York Stock Exchange prices on the average have see-sawed in the past two weeks after declining to the lowest level in about a year at the end of February.)

England is going through the same postwar pains that are now gripping the United States economy.

Some industries have run into shrinking markets. Inventories are catching up with long depletions. Supply is now outstripping demand in some significant sectors of the British economy.

Truman Sees Tide Turning in Greece

Despite a gain in the number of active Communist guerillas in Greece, President Truman said yesterday there are signs the tide is turning against them.

He cautioned Congress, however, against expecting a swift or easy victory.

In his sixth quarterly report on the American military aid program to Greece and Turkey, Mr. Truman spoke of "growing discouragement and dissension" among the Communist leaders and added:

"The guerilla movement is approaching bankruptcy in the eyes of the Greek people."

The military outlook in Greece is more promising than it has been for some time, the President said, but "unfortunately, experience must warn us that this does not necessarily presage a quick and easy victory.

"The guerilla leaders are ruthless in their methods and are willing to ruin Greece in order to dominate her. Much has been accomplished in training and equipping the Greek armed forces; however, much remains to be done."

Mr. Truman made no mention of additional money to carry the aid program for Greece and Turkey through June 30, 1950. Officials are now working on details of such such a bill. The amount is expected to be from 150 to 300 million dollars.

In summarizing operations thus far, the President said $280,492,885 has been allocated in Greece. The total for Turkey is $96,870,761.

Mr. Truman estimated there are about 23,000 active guerillas in Greece now—an increase of 1000 over last September 30.

The Greek Army, he reported, has inflicted more than 6000 casualties since then but nearly 7000 additional persons were recruited or abducted by the guerillas during the same period.

Turkey, Mr. Truman said, "has made a sincere effort fully to utilize United States assistance in improving the efficiency of its armed forces."

Chinese Say Reds Violate Peiping Pact

Nanking, China, March 17 (U.P.)—The government's position became increasingly difficult today as the Communists built up their military pressure and Peiping reports said the Reds had violated nearly all of their peace agreements there.

The Communists showed no hurry to begin peace talks. The Red radio opened a bitter attack on new Premier Ho Ying-chin, Acting President Li Tsung-jen and Chang Chih-chung, member of the government peace delegation.

Military spokesman Teng Wen-yi reported that Red Gen. Lin Piao had brought five Manchurian armies totaling 100,000 men into the Yangtze basin to join the armies of Chen Yi and Liu Po-cheng which already threatens nationalist China. The spokesman revealed that Chen Yi had moved up his main force to the north bank of the Yangtze River in preparation for a crossing.

Government officials studying the Communists' 13-point Peiping local peace settlement said the Communists had violated the agreement almost in its entirety, including banning of the gold yuan currency from circulation, suspension of several newspapers, and failure to establish a joint administrative office.

Teng Wein-yi said Gen Fu Tso-yi, government North China commander who signed the agreement, was now considered a "Communist captive."

Godbey Found Guilty

Oklahoma City, March 17 (AP).—A District Court jury today found Roy Frank Godbey guilty of the revenge murder of Attorney Earl Pruet.

His sentence was fixed at life imprisonment.

Defense attorneys sought to prove the 53-year-old Godbey shot the Oklahoma City lawyer after brooding over a conviction on an armed robbery charge at Waurika, Okla., 18 years ago. The defense contended that brooding caused him to become mentally unbalanced.

Radar Screen Approved by Senate Group

A bill to set up a radar screen to guard against surprise air attacks on the United States was approved yesterday by the Senate Armed Services Committee.

The House has already passed the measure but the Senate has yet to act.

Total cost of the network is expected to be 161 million dollars but the bill provides for initial expenditures of only $85,500,000.

The commitee approved the bill unanimously, Chairman Tydings (D., Md.) said. Action on another House-passed measure authorizing construction of a 3000-mile long range for testing guided missiles was deferred.

Speaking on the radar screen bill, Maj. Gen. Gordon P. Saville told the committee "we know of no effective defense of any sort against attack from the air without such a system."

Philadelphia, March 17 (AP).—Speculation on why the Russians left the cruiser Milwaukee before United States colors were raised followed in the wake of the ship today as she moved up the Delaware River to Philadelphia for scrapping.

The Russians returned the 26-year-old lend-lease warship to the United States yesterday at sea off Lewes, Del.

The Russians hauled down the hammer and sickle shortly before 3 p. m. Then they promptly moved off the Milwaukee onto the Russian ship Molotov before the Americans raised the Stars and Stripes. The Russian thus did not have to salute the United States colors.

A Navy spokesman said that this could have been an insult but added it did not necessarily mean that the Russians refused to salute the American flag. He explained that the Soviets were anxious to get aboard the Molotov and back to Russia.

Newsmen reported the ship was "dirty" and "filthy" below decks, particularly in the crewmen's quarters. They said the officers' quarters were clean.

Korea Gunmen Slay Mother Of Hood Co-ed

Seoul, Korea, (Friday), March 18 (AP).—Police today blamed Korean Communists for the slaying of Mrs. Horace H. Underwood 60, wife of a prominent U. S. educator and missionary in Korea. Her daughter, Grace, is a junior at Hood College, Frederick, Md.

One official called it a "mistake" killing.

Police Chief Kim Tai Sun said three suspects were under arrests. Mrs. Underwood was shot to death yesterday by two hooded gunmen, who forced their way into her home here during a tea party.

Police and U. S. Army investigators had been puzzled for a motive. Dr. Underwood, although an adviser to the former American Military Government, had taken no part in politics. His wife was popular with Koreans.

Kim said he was convinced the slayers were Communists.

"I believe they intended to kill someone else," he said, "probably Mrs. Mo."

He referred to Mrs. Mo Yun Suk. She was associated with the Korean delegation which obtained recognition for the Republic of Korea from the United Nations.

Russia backs the North Korean Communists regime. The republic, supported by the United States, functions only in South Korea.

Mrs. Mo was to have addressed Mrs. Underwood's party on the Paris session. She also was on a committee which welcomed a United Nations Commission now in Korea.

Witnesses said one man entered the kitchen and threatened the cook with a sawed-off American carbine.

They said Mrs. Underwood grappled with the man, but at that moment the second man entered the front door, menacing the houseboy with a pistol.

As Mrs. Underwood turned toward the new intruder, the first fired three times, one shot striking her in the side. The gunmen then forced the guests to lie on the floor while they fled. Mrs. Underwood died en route to a hospital.

(In Washington, Dr. John Myun Chang, Korean Ambassador-designate to the United States, said he was sure the slaying was Communist inspired.)

Dr. Underwood was president of Chosen Christian College before the war and was teaching a language class at the time his wife was shot.

Other survivors include four sons; Horace G. Underwood, an instructor at the college; John, a minister studying at the Korean Language School; his twin, James, pastor of the Presbyterian Church at Hancock, N. Y.; and Richard, a student at Hamilton College, Clinton, N. Y.

Mrs. Underwood, the former Ethel van Waganer of Kingston, Mich., came to Korea as a teacher and was married to Dr. Underwood in 1916.

Dr. Underwood is the son of Horace C. Underwood, who came to Korea from New York in the 1880's and founded Chosen Christian College. He is related to the Underwood typewriter family.

Marines Give New Duties to Eight Generals

The Marine Corps yesterday announced change of duty orders for eight general officers, to take effect this summer.

Lieut. Gen. Keller E. Rockey, commanding, Fleet Marine Force, Atlantic, will command the Department of the Pacific at San Francisco.

Maj. Gen. Leroy P. Hunt, now in command of the Department of the Pacific, will succeed Rockey.

Maj. Gen. Leo D. Hermle, commandant of the Marine Corps recruit depot, San Diego, will move to Marine Corps headquarters here for a duty assignment not yet announced.

Maj. Gen. William T. Clement, director of Marine Corps Reserves, will succeed Hermle.

Maj. Gen. Field Harris, commanding, aircraft, Fleet Marine Force, Atlantic and commanding general Second Marine Air Wing, Cherry Point, N. C., and Maj. Gen. Louis E. Woods, commanding general, First Marine Air Wing, El Toro, Calif, will exchange posts.

Maj. Gen. John T. Walker, now in command of the troop training unit, Amphibious Training Command, Pacific Fleet, will become director of personnel here.

He will succeed Brig. Gen. Robert H. Pepper, whose new assignment will be announced later.

Brig. Gen. Merwyn H. Silverthorn, now in the Office of Chief of Naval Operations, will succeed Clement as director of Marine Corps Reserves.

Soviet Author Assailed

Moscow, March 17 (U.P.).—The Soviet army newspaper Red Star today sharply attacked author I. Krivelev for asserting that the last war was won "by common allied strategy" and said efforts to minimize Russian contributions to military science were subversive and antipatriotic.

Red Star termed "scurilous and crooked" Krivelev's alleged efforts to minimize the "historic role the great Russian people" for his own purposes and said Krivelev had tried to "mock and spit upon the originality of native science."

"He magnified foreign military authorities," Red Star said, and also "mocked advanced Russian military science, 'proving' that it could not have originated in Russia . . . He also deprecated the role of Stalinist Soviet military science—which is the most advanced science in the military history of all times of all nations."

Red Star said Krivelev's reference to common Allied strategy "entirely ignored the role of Soviet patriotism and the gigantic organizational role of the Communist Party in the victory over the Nazi and Japanese imperialists."

It concluded that "creative Soviet patriotism is inseparable from the profound hatred of our people for the capitalist system and all enemies of our fatherland with their ideological agents—the homeless cosmopolitans."

Peron Aide, Exile To Duel Today at Point Blank Range

Buenos Aires, March 17 (AP).—A duel with pistols at point blank range will be fought Friday between Argentina's federal police chief and an exiled critic of the Peron administration, reliable sources said tonight.

Federal Police Chief Gen. Arturo Bertollo recently received a letter from Ernesto Sammartino, exiled in Uruguay, in which Bertollo was called a coward and accused of spreading false information about Sammartino's character.

Bertrollo challenged Sammartino to a duel.

The informants said it would be fought on Uruguay soil, possibly directly across the Rio de la Plata from Buenos Aires, near Colonia, at 5 a. m.

Trial Board Hears D. C. Policeman Today

Pvt. Earl Kelly, 29, attached to the Fifth Precinct will appear before the Police Trial Board today at 10 a. m. on charges of feigning illness to avoid performance of duty and reporting late for work.

According to the charges, Kelly, a member of the police force for seven years, called in five minutes before he was to report for duty and stated that he was suffering from a sore throat, an illness which was not substantiated when he was examined by police doctors.

Only U-Boat Frightened Churchill

New York, March 17 (AP).—Winston Churchill writes in his war memoirs "the only thing that ever really frightened me during the war was the U-boat peril."

The deadliness of submarine attack was revealed only by "the slow, cold drawing lines on charts, which showed potential strangulation," he says in the last installment of the second volume of his memoirs in Life magazine.

The wartime Prime Minister discloses how the menace of the U-boats monopolized the attention of his government in the winter of 1940-41 after the air battle of Britain had been won.

Nazi submarines and planes based on France forced all British shipping to go around northern Ireland and enter Britain through the Mersey and Clyde Rivers, Churchill writes.

He tells of his mounting indignation that Ireland steadfastly refused to grant bases for English planes that might have helped protect this shipping but says that "nothing but self-preservation" would have led him to order military attacks on the Emerald Island.

In concluding his volume, the war leader rates 1940 as a "tremendous year" which was the "most splendid, as it was the most deadly, year in our long English and British story."

"By the end of that year this small and ancient island, with its devoted commonwealth, dominions and attachments under every sky had proved itself capable of bearing the whole impact and weight of world destiny.

"We had not flinched or wavered. We had not failed. The soul of the British people and race proved invincible. The citadel of the commonwealth and empire could not be stormed.

Churchills Sail Today For U. S. Visit

London, March 17 (U.P.).—Winston Churchill prepared tonight to sail for the United States Friday aboard the liner Queen Elizabeth.

On another visit to the United States, in March, 1946, Churchill made his famous "Iron Curtain" speech at Fulton, Mo.

He will be accompanied by his wife, their daughter Mary, and Capt. Christopher Soames, their son-in-law.

Churchill will visit Boston, New York and Washington.

He will address a Boston audience March 31 on "The Twentieth Century—Its Promise and Realization" under auspice sof the Massachusetts Institute of Technology. President Truman also will speak on the same occasion.

The Churchills will visit President Truman in Washington.

French Reds Hope to Gain In Vote Sunday

Paris, March 17 (U.P.).—French Communists may hold their own and even gain some strength in the nation-wide county council elections next Sunday, most political observers predicted today.

The Communists are basing their campaign on a simple, two-point anti-American platform:

1. That the Atlantic Pact will take France into war.

2. That the Marshall Plan is disrupting France's economy.

The elections are producing a three-cornered fight among the Communists, Gen. Charles de Gaulle's Rally of the French People and the center party coalition which forms Premier Henri Queuille's government.

The results are not expected to change the strength of the three factions to any great degree.

The elections will take place in two steps in 1490 of France's total of 3028 cantons or counties. All candidates winning a clear majority next Sunday will be elected. On the following Sunday runoff elections for candidates who did not get enough votes will take place.

Labor Party Sets Up 33d Straight Win

London, March 17 (U.P.).—The Labor Party candidate won the Sowerby by-election in Yorkshire by more than 2000 votes over his Conservative opponent, final returns showed today.

It was the Labor Government's thirty-third straight successful defense of a vacated seat in Parliament.

Official returns showed Laborite Douglas Houghton polled 18,606 votes to 16,454 for Conservative Lieut. Col. Paul Bryan.

The vacancy was caused by the resignation of John W. Belcher, Laborite, who figured in the recent investigation of alleged graft in Government ranks.

Belcher won the Sowerby seat in the 1945 general elections with a 6933 majority over the Conservative candidate, but only a 560 plurality over the combined Conservative and Liberal vote.

Gans Named Cuban Envoy

Havana, Cuba, March 17 (U.P.).—A decree appointing veteran diplomat Oscar Gans as Cuban Ambassador to the United States was signed today by President Carlos Prio. Gans succeeds Guillermo Belt.

17 Cents a Week Meat Ration Set by Britain; Travel Is Eased

London, March 17 (AP).—Britain announced today the meat ration will be cut March 27, but coupled this with easing of restrictions on motoring at home and traveling abroad.

The meat cut brings the weekly allowance per person to 17 cents worth—including 4 cents for canned or corned meat. The old ration gave everyone 21 cents worth of meat a week.

Dr. Edith Summerskill, parliamentary secretary of the food ministry, blamed the cut on failure of Argentina to come through with promised meat deliveries.

Beginning in May, adults may spend £50 ($200) a year visiting the United States or western Europe. Children will be allowed £35 ($140). The previous allowances were £35 and £25 respectively.

Motorists can have gasoline for 135 miles of pleasure driving a month starting in May. The old rate was 90 miles a month.

The new meat ration will permit British families one meat meal a week, with perhaps a little left over for stew or hash.

"We have made it clear that we are not prepared to pay unreasonable prices, submit to unreasonable conditions of sale or to pay dollars," Dr. Summerskill said.

Kin of Henry VIII Aide To Wed British Major

London, March 17 (AP).—The engagement of Anne Maxwell, descendant of the Lord Chancellor of Henry VIII, and Grenadier Guards Major Miles Howard was announced today by the girl's father.

Miss Maxwell, 21, now is living with her uncle, William T. Griffin, vice president of Time magazine, in Peapack, N. J., the announcement said.

Major Howard is now an assistant to the general in charge of the British Military Mission in Washington.

Only Raw Uranium Found in Scare

The FBI has looked into reports that 220 grams of uranium turned up in Mexico City, and its preliminary findings are not alarming, Senator Brien McMahon (D., Conn.) said last night.

The chairman of the Joint Congressional Atomic Energy Committee said he was "satisfied" with the FBI report, but that he will wait for a more detailed account of the incident before considering the case closed.

McMahon said the FBI inquiry indicated that the stuff seized in Mexico was "source material" or raw uranium, rather than "feed material" or the ultra-refined uranium that is used in making U-235, the atomic bomb ingredient.

He said he had been told about the Mexico City seizure "about a week ago" and that the committee looked into it because it is "concerned with every report of any irregularity concerning uranium."

Explosive uranium of atomic weight 235 exists in nature in the ratio of one part to 140 parts of non-explosive uranium 238. In the United States, U-235 is separated from U-238 in the big atomic works at Oak Ridge, Tenn.

While "natural" uranium metal with its high predominance of U-238 is not explosive, it can be transmuted into man-made plutonium which is. U-238 is changed into plutonium in the huge atomic piles at Hanford, Wash.

Natural uranium metal used in the Hanford reactors must be highly refined. Impurities in the amount of one part in 1,000,000 can interrupt the transmutation process.

Gun Factory Workers 50 Years...

The Washington Post

NAVY CITES CIVILIANS—Dan A. Kimball (left), Assistant Secretary of Navy for Air, presents the Navy's new gold service pins to three men who have been workers at the Naval Gun Factory 50 years. They are (from left) Wallace E. Mattingly, 3009 Albemarle st. nw., who retired in December; John N. Sioussa, 1137 New Hampshire ave. nw., ordnance engineer, and George Poole, 1349 Kenyon st. nw., ordnance engineer. A newly converted civilian training school building at the Gun Factory was dedicated as part of a double ceremony

Louisville Tenants Get Rent Reductions

Louisville, Ky., March 17 (AP).—Tenants of 54 apartments here have received letters from their landlord announcing a rent cut of $5 a month.

The apartments, five-room and basement units, have been renting for $90 to $95 a month. The property is owned by corporations headed by J. Leroy Highbaugh, sr., and associates.

There are three vacancies at the apartments now, Highbaugh said, and four tenants have notified the owners they don't intend to renew leases which expire soon.

DAR Head Urges Stronger Defense Against Threats

Roanoke, Va., March 17 (AP).—Mrs. Roscoe C. O'Byrne, president general of the Daughters of American Revolution, said tonight the United States must maintain a strong national defense in the face of serious international problems.

In a speech prepared for the formal opening of the Virginia State DAR Convention, Mrs. O'Bryan said the United States must build a good neighbor policy "which does not sap our strength," and a citizenship "awake to the dangers of communism."

In emphasizing the DAR's position, Mrs. O'Bryne declared:

"We hear more and more of world government, which is quite a different thing to world cooperation. The DAR has taken a stand against world government which means a supergovernment under a world constitution. We have nothing against world organization but we certainly do not intend to scrap our Constitution for a world constitution nor do we believe in making the greatest Nation on earth a part of a superworld empire, dominated by a world president."

U. N. Puts Ceiling On Employes' Expense Accounts

Lake Success, March 7 (NYHT). United Nations employes who entertain on expense accounts are supposed to pull in their belts from now on, stick to one cocktail and then order the blueplate special. Their guests, however, are permitted to fare a little better.

A new schedule of allowable maximums for entertainment expense accounts was posted today and it limits the U. N. host to $1.50 for luncheon, while the guest may go up to $2.50. For dinner, the host has to stay within $2.50, but the guest can shoot up to $4. Between meals, the host and guest are equal. Each may blow in $1.50 at the bar.

District Woman Gets Reno Divorce

Henrietta V. Summerlin Stevens, 23-year-old Washington socialite, has been granted a divorce in Reno, Nev., from Hugh L. C. Stevens 3d, on grounds of extreme mental cruelty, according to an Associated Press report.

The couple was married in March, 1947, at St. John's Church, Lafayette Square. They formerly resided at 3545 Springland lane nw. There are no children.

The complaint said Mrs. Stevens, who was granted the right to resume her maiden name, Summerlin, has sufficient independent income. She waived alimony and attorney costs.

Property rights were settled by agreement.

Press Bureaus To Be Merged

to the sweeping nature of the plan and urging modifications.

Congressional attacks on recent stories dealing with Air Force strategic bombing plans and secret talks before the Joint Chiefs of Staff caused the immediate issuance of the order, officials said. The House Armed Services Committee plans an investigation.

Col. Louis A. Johnson, nominated to succeed Forrestal on April 1, was consulted on the public information merger, Forrestal said, and is "in complete agreement on the desirability of this additional step in the unification process."

William Frye, former Associated Press war correspondent, will head the consolidated office. He will have the title of Assistant to the Secretary of Defense and Director of the Office of Public Information.

Frye has been assistant to Harold B. Hinton, longtime Washington newspaperman who has been on leave from the New York Times as Forrestal's public information chief. Hinton and Frye prepared the merger plan and the former will remain with the National Military Establishment for another four to six weeks as Colonel Johnson's personal public relations adviser assisting in putting the new system into effect.

Yesterday's order provides that the new office will be the "sole agency" for dissemination of information here to the press, radio, magazines and other media, as well as to civic organizations, veterans groups and other governmental bodies except Congress.

The present extensive public information organizations maintained by the services—usually headed by generals or admirals—will be abolished. Beginning April 1, the Army, Navy and Air Force will maintain public relations personnel only for "transmission of policy instructions" and coordination of their information personnel in the field. The latter apparently will remain under separate control.

Personnel to staff the new office will be furnished by the various services, but these individuals will be under the "full administrative and operational control" of the Defense Secretary while serving.

Frye will become principal adviser to the Secretary of Defense and the War Council on Public Information, and be responsible for the development of such policies for all agencies of the National Military Establishment.

Advisory Council Planned

An advisory council will be named to consult with him, made up of Frye and representatives of the Army, Navy and Air Force, who must be approved by the Secretary of Defense.

Last summer a joint press room was set up at the Pentagon, but the services continued to handle their own public relations. Not only will the new office decide what news releases shall and shall not be made, but will establish its own radio, newsreel, photograph offices and arrange for all assignments of speakers, etc.

On Annapolis Board

Senators Burnet R. Maybank (D., S. C.), Harley M. Kilgore (D., W. Va.) and Leverett Saltonstall (R., Mass.) were assigned yesterday to be members of the Board of Visitors to the United States Naval Academy. The assignments were made and announced by Vice President Barkley.

Plans for New Plane Powered By Atomic Energy Revealed

Wellesley, Mass., March 17 (AP).—An Atomic Energy commissioner told today of Air Force plans for a plane that would be powered by an atomic engine.

Robert F. Bacher of the commission told a science conference celebrating the seventy-fifth anniversary of Wellesley College that this is "probably the most exciting" of new experiments with atoms.

It was announced recently that the Navy was working on a nuclear engine that might enable its ships to roam the seven seas without refueling.

Bacher's speech said the direction taken by the development of atomic energy will be determined by international conditions.

But he said regardless of whether tools of peace or weapons of war are made, it will mean progress in this new field because "peacetime applications of atomic energy are closely related to wartime potential."

For one thing, he said, it is "at least technically possible" to produce electrical energy from atoms, or new varieties of the elements found in nature, or entirely new elements.

"These new elements are produced by the process of transmutation, which the alchemists sought in vain to achieve," Bacher said.

Regarding the new airplane, Bacher explained:

"During the past 2½ years a project to study this possibility has been carried out by the Fairchild Engine & Airplane Corp. under the supervision of the Air Forces and in cooperation with the commission."

Judith Coplon Arraignment Set Monday

Judith Coplon, 27-year-old Department of Justice analyst, will be arraigned here Monday on an indictment charging her with spying and theft of intelligence reports to aid a foreign nation.

The arraignment was to have come today in District Court before Judge Richmond B. Keech. Yesterday afternoon, however, Miss Coplon's attorneys in New York called Assistant United States Attorney John W. Fihelly and said Monday would be more convenient.

After a conference, Judge Keech set the arraignment for Monday at 1:45 p. m.

It will be Miss Coplon's first visit to Washington since she left here March 4. She was arrested that night in New York along with Valentine Gubitchev, 32-year-old Russian engineer on the staff of the United Nations. Last week the two were indicted in New York for conspiracy to commit espionage.

Miss Coplon was indicted here, not for conspiracy, but on specific charges of spying and stealing Justice Department documents "relating to espionage and counter-espionage activities in the United States."

Such documents would tell a foreign government not only what the United States knew about foreign spies in this country but what the United States was doing to counter the activites of foreign spies.

The question of when Miss Coplon is to tried in the District of Columbia will be taken up after her arraignment Monday.

The New York trial has been set for April 1. Miss Coplon now is at liberty under $20,000 bail, but Gubitchev remains in custody. His bail has been set at $100,000.

Turkish Minister Not to Discuss Alliance Here

Ankara, Turkey, March 17 (U.P.). A foreign office spokesman today denied published reports that Turkish Foreign Minister Nedgmeddin Sadak planned to go to Washington to discuss a Mediterranean defense alliance.

The spokesman said Sadak may go to the United States as head of the Turkish delegation to the United Nations General Assembly but that it was not certain he would be able to leave his post here.

Earlier the National Assembly unanimously approved the government's foreign policy after numerous speakers from both sides of the House supported Sadak's pro-Western policy.

Communist Dennis to Handle Own Defense At Trial of 11 Red Leaders Opening Monday

New York, March 17 (AP).—The top-ranking defendant in the conspiracy trial of 11 United States Communist leaders was given permission to conduct his own defense today as the way was cleared to begin the actual trial Monday.

Eugene Dennis, general secretary of the Communist Party, was authorized by Judge Harold R. Medina to act as his own attorney.

Medina, however, warned Dennis "you are taking a chance here" and said "you are not competent to understand certain legal matters."

Four women were chosen as alternate jurors to serve with the trial jury of seven women and five men whose selection was completed yesterday.

The Communists are charged with conspiring to advocate forcible overthrow of the United States Government.

The opposing attorneys and Federal Judge Harold R. Medina agreed the only matter to be placed before the court tomorrow would be a defense motion to delay the trial because of the "state of mind" of the community. They claim this would make a fair trial impossible now.

United State Attorney John F. X. McGohey told the court that Dennis' self-representation might give Dennis a chance to make unsworn statements to the jury while questioning witnesses or addressing the judge. Medina said he would rule later on whether Dennis could make statements.

Louis F. McCabe, Philadelphia attorney, had represented Dennis in the first nine weeks of the trial. He will stay in the case as counsel for Henry Winston, another defendant.

Dennis praised McCabe, saying the attorney has served him in a "distinguished way." He did not give his reasons for wanting to act as his own lawyer.

The four alternates chosen were Mrs. Jane Schultz, a former employe of the Honest Ballot Association; Mrs. Lillian Wolfe, a widow; Mrs. Diana E. Zagat, housewife; and Mrs. Matilda A. Dunn, housewife.

Mrs. Dunn has a son who is a Catholic priest but, when asked whether this might cause her to be biased, said:

"I think not."

Cause of Furor

Melish Plans To Give Up Council Post

New York, March 17 (AP).—The Rev. William Howard Melish announced today he would not continue as chairman of the National Council of American-Soviet Friendship.

His chairmanship was the cause of the recent furore in the Holy Trinity Protestant Episcopal Church, of which he is assistant rector.

The "outside activities" of young Melish led to an order to oust his father, Dr. John Howard Melish, as rector, because the father refused to dismiss his son.

The elder Melish is fighting the ouster order and continuing to preach at the church.

Young Melish said he would continue on the council's board of directors, to which he was re-elected last night.

"It is my intention to contribute faithfully all that I can to the work of the council in our common task of creating better understanding between the two pivotal nations of our contemporary world," he said.

Pact to Be Issued Today

on all, and armed force will be used to resist aggression if each nation determines this necessary. The defense sector covers the members' area in North America, Europe and North Africa. The pact will be effective for a minimum of 20 years.

Legislation is now being drafted at the State Department to provide about $1,500,000,000 in military aid to pact members, to bolster their defenses.

State Department Press Officer Michael J. McDermott said yesterday that the arms aid is intended to meet the deficiencies of present military formations of the participating Western European countries.

This legislation, if approved by Congress, would seek to make up such arms deficiencies between July 1, 1949, and June 30, 1950. The program under study does not contemplate providing weapons to expand those forces during that period, it was said.

Much of this aid, it is indicated, would not require actual cash outlay, but would come from surpluses of rifles, tanks, uniforms, machine guns, etc., where they exist.

McDermott reiterated what the department has stressed in previous public statements: the military aid will not be sought at a sacrifice to the European Recovery Program, which retains first call on funds.

Iceland's Foreign Minister, Bjarni Benediktsson, yesterday held the last of a series of conferences with Secretary Acheson and prepared to return to Iceland to report to the Parliament there.

In a joint statement, they explained the special position of Iceland "as a country with no military forces" of its own, and stressed that Iceland would "not consent to any foreign military bases in peacetime."

Reassurance that such bases will not be sought unless aggression is threatened, or actually begins, has reportedly been given to the various negotiating governments.

In Paris, the French Communist Party said it "protests solemnly against the government's decision to sign the Atlantic Pact and thereby face the Parliament and the country with a fait accompli." The French constitution does not require Parliament's approval of the treaty, but a majority of the Assembly can force a debate.

Philip C. Jessup, United States Ambassador-at-Large, told representatives of 200 American organizations here yesterday at a Mayflower Hotel luncheon that the Atlantic Pact is a natural outgrowth of the "concept of self-defense" expressed in the Monroe Doctrine.

The proposed treaty, he said, is geared in "very definitely and very extensively" with "the machinery of the United Nations."

Asked why military backing is necessary for such an alliance, he said America has found to its sorrow that "a statement of intentions" alone would be looked on as "just a piece of paper," while the military aid will provide a sense of security to support these intentions.

This aid, he said, offers the "same sense of reality in the political field which ECA (the Economic Cooperation Administration) has in the economic field."

Entry of Red Peace Unit Stirs Critics; Reciprocity Asked

By The Associated Press

Critical lawmakers said yesterday that if Soviet delegates are to be admitted to this country for a "world peace conference," Americans should get equal treatment from Russia.

Several times in the past, Moscow has refused to let in congressional committees or individual lawmakers.

But the State Department said Wednesday that 22 delegates from Russia and other Communist-dominated nations will be allowed to attend a peace conference called by the National Council of the Arts, Sciences and Professions. It will be held in New York beginning March 25.

Chairman Wood (D., Ga.) of the House Un-American Activities Committee said his group may look into the matter. Senators Mundt (R., S. Dak.) and Ferguson (R., Mich.) were critical of the State Department's action.

The department itself said in its statement that the Communist delegates surely will find it impossible to express any view "other than that dictated by the political authorities in Moscow." And it forecast that "Communists will attempt to use and manipulate" the conference.

Wood said he would like to know why it was necessary to let in people when the Government believes they are merely going to be Red puppets.

"We'll take up this matter, and others, when we have a meeting tomorrow," he told a reporter. "I don't know what can be done now, but we'll talk it over."

Asked whether a committee investigator will be assigned to keep an eye on the conference, Wood smiled and said:

"Well, we've usually had them at things like that in the past."

The committee staff is reported to have been going over a list of foreigners who probably will come here for the conference. This check-up is understood to have shown that many are Communists or have strong Communist ties.

Senator Mundt, a former member of the committee, sized up the forthcoming conference this way:

"I'm afraid like all previous appeasement gestures toward international communism—of which there already have been too many—this one will reap only a harvest of very sour dividends."

"The least the State Department could do," he added, "would be to insist that a similar conference be held in Russia for which visas will be granted to Americans."

Senator Ferguson said he is puzzled because "I, as a United States Senator, could not obtain a visa to enter Russia, yet we let their delegates into this country."

"We ought to have with Russia and her satellites," he said, "a rule on reciprocity—we'll do just what they do and not one scintilla more. In other words, treat them just like they treat us."

The Department noted in its announcement that Russia often has turned down visa requests from Americans. But it said this country decided to permit entry of the Soviet delegates "because of its unswerving devotion to freedom of information and speech on any issue, however controversial it may be."

However, five Hungarian delegates who asked for visas didn't get them because of that country's treatment of American officials.

Hungary Lays Refusal Of Visas to U. S. Fear

Budapest, Hungary, March 17 (U.P.).—Hungary said today that United States refusal to grant visas to Hungarian citizens for the cultural peace congress in New York was based on fear that the "truth" about the Joseph Cardinal Mindszenty case would be disclosed.

Professor To Appeal

Seattle, March 17 (AP).—A Superior Court jury last night convicted Prof. Ralph H. Gundlach of refusing to answer questions by a State legislative committee regarding Communist Party membership.

Gundlach is an ousted University of Washington faculty member.

Last week a jury acquitted Dr. Herbert J. Phillips, also a discharged Washington faculty member, on a similar charge.

The charge arose from refusal of Gundlach to answer the State Legislative Un-American Activities Committee on whether he was or ever had been a member of the Communist Party.

It takes— FRESH EGGS and FRESH EGGS for FRESH EGGS Only to be Giant FOOD DEPARTMENT STORES

All other grades of eggs can be either fresh or storage eggs, but GRADE "AA" can only be FRESH EGGS, because no storage egg can ever rate the "AA" grading. Giant "TOP-NOTCH" Grade AA Fresh Eggs are produced by selected farmers who have proven they know, and know from long experience what is vitally necessary to assure the very finest possible eggs. The scientific background of egg production is an open book to them. Breeding, incubation, rearing, housing, nutrition, feed, health control and marketing have been their special study and constant application toward the goal of producing the freshest, sweetest, most nutritious eggs that money can buy.

Astra Reports New War Against Tito

Parliament Acts

Sweden Gets $230,000,000 For Defense

Stockholm, March 17 (AP).—The Swedish Parliament, after more than 12 hours' debate, decided today to set aside 800 million crowns (230 million dollars) for defense this year.

The greater part of the defense budget had been appropriated earlier. The debate centered around an additional 125 million crowns asked by the appropriations committee for new ordnance material, including radar equipment.

During the debate, the Communists, following the party line, pledged loyalty to the Soviet Union.

Defense Minister Allan Vougt told Parliament Sweden's defenses were not as bad as critics said.

He mentioned that underground depots were under construction at 24 different places.

Since the end of the war Sweden has bolstered her military strength with about 1000 planes and some 20 ships, including coastal defense craft.

Foreign Minister Osten Unden declared the Swedish government had not changed its strict neutrality policy.

Yugoslavia Calm Over Tito Rumors

Belgrade, Yugoslavia, March 17 (AP).—Outwardly, at least, Yugoslavia is undisturbed by the increasing rumors from the outside of Cominform plans to overthrow Premier Marshal Tito's government.

In government quarters there was no official reaction to the rumors. In private circles there seemed to be no great alarm. Likewise, there is no sign of unusual military precautions.

Cardinal Living Well, Government Says

Budapest, Hungary, March 17 (U.P.).—A government source said today that Joseph Cardinal Mindszenty is in good health and living in a "clean, well-heated furnished room," not a prison cell, as he awaits the outcome of his appeal from a life prison sentence.

This source said the Cardinal's aged mother recently was brought to Budapest from her native village to visit her son.

Rome, March 17 (AP).—Fresh rumors developed today of international trouble for Premier Marshal Tito of Yugoslavia. Official confirmation was lacking.

The Italian news agency Astra quoted a Moscow broadcaster as saying: "The war against Tito's clique has begun in the villages and cities and will not end until complete elimination of the traitors."

Astra said the broadcaster spoke on a Serb-Croatian transmission. It quoted him as saying:

"We are not fighting against the Yugoslav people. We wish, in fact, to help them liberate themselves from a tyranny that is bringing their country to ruin."

Tito has been branded as a Communist heretic by the Moscow-led Cominform.

Coupled with reports of border activities were unconfirmed accounts of a recent meeting between Tito and Western power representatives. A Belgrade dispatch last month said American policymakers were studying the question of whether the United States should strengthen Tito with direct economic aid or allow Yugoslavia to go her way alone.

The Giornale, an independent Trieste newspaper, said Tito and Western representatives have met three times since September, with the last meeting taking place Saturday on the Island of Brioni, near Pola.

Astra said it was not Tito but the Yugoslav Vice Premier and Interior Minister, Alexander Rankovic, who conferred with Western representatives at Brioni. This meeting, the Italian news agency added, served merely as a cover for a conference Tito had with American and British representatives on an island off Split.

Abdullah Sets Civilian Rule In Palestine

Amman, Trans-Jordan, March 17 (AP).—Trans-Jordan has set up civil administrations in all Palestine areas under her military control, it was announced today.

The Arab kingdom has assigned district commissioners to Jerusalem, Hebron and Ramallah areas, the announcement said.

It also appointed a civilian commissioner for the Nablus-Jenin-Tulkarm triangle in the north, which has been under Iraqi military rule. These commissioners will be responsible to the Trans-Jordan ministry of the interior.

Israeli sources in London denounced the action as "virtual annexation of Arab Palestine by Trans-Jordan. King Abdullah of Trans-Jordan has been urged by groups of Palestine Arabs to extend his kingdom to take in those Holy Land areas outside the boundaries of Israeli.

The original United Nations Palestine partition plan called for separate and independent Arab and Jewish states.

A British Foreign Office spokesman said Britain — which has a mutual aid pact with Trans-Jordan —was not informed in advance of the move.

"Why should we be?" he asked.

However, responsible diplomatic informants recalled that Britain has maintained that incorporation of Arab Palestine in Trans-Jordan would be desirable.

At Rhodes, U. N. Mediator Ralph J. Bunche said Israel and Trans-Jordan have agreed in principle to reduce their forces to equal strength in three military zones, the northern front, Jerusalem and the eastern Negev.

An official statement from Damascus said Syria has agreed to open armistice talks with Israel.

Veterans to Dine

The Third Infantry Division Society will hold a dance Saturday at 8 p. m. at Hop Hall, Fort Myer, Va. A special invitation to attend the dance has been extended to members of Post No. 9, Disabled American Veterans.

Mindszenty Case Placed Before U. N.

Lake Success, March 17 (AP).—The case of Cardinal Mindszenty was placed before the United Nations today with an implied demand for some sort of punitive action against Communist-dominated Hungary.

Bolivia called for action by the 58-nation General Assembly opening in New York April 5.

Latin American and other Western diplomats had long considered the advisability of bringing the case to the U.N. on grounds that the Hungarian cardinal was convicted of charges trumped up by the Communists.

Once it is on the calendar, any delegate can submit specific proposals as to what the U.N. should do. Hungary is not a U.N. member.

Red Drive for Germany Set

Berlin, March 17 (AP).—Soviet-controlled German Communists launched a campaign tonight to woo all of Germany into the Russian orbit.

Their keynote is a call for a united Germany under Communist control beginning with an eastern German state.

The constitution for this state is scheduled to be rubber stamped by the Communist-led "People's Council" maybe Saturday.

While setting up this constitution for eastern Germany, the Communists are charging the Western powers with splitting the nation by establishing a West German state.

Apparently the Communists hope to create a satellite East German state before the Western powers can get the West German state functioning.

The Communist call is hailed with strong hints the Soviet Union will withdraw its occupation troops in this event, leaving Germany "free."

LEMON SNOW CAKE

Sift together in mixing bowl:
2¼ cups sifted cake flour
3½ teaspoons double-action baking powder (4½ tsp. single-action)
1 teaspoon salt
1½ cups sugar
Add:
½ cup Snowdrift (Emulsorized—quick-blending)
⅔ cup milk
Mix until flour is dampened. Beat 2 min. If you beat by hand, count beating time only. (With electric mixer, use "low speed"; scrape bowl frequently. Scrape beaters at end of 2 minutes.)
Add:
4 egg whites (unbeaten)
½ cup milk
1 teaspoon vanilla
Beat 1 minute for Snowdrift-blended batter! Turn into 2 greased 8" layer pans lined with paper. Bake in moderate oven (375° F.) about 25 minutes. Cool and frost with—

LEMON FROSTING: Cream 2 tbsp. Snowdrift with 2 tbsp. butter. Beat in 2 egg yolks. Add ¼ cup lemon juice and beat in 3½ cups sifted confectioners' sugar. Stir in 1 tsp. grated lemon rind, and add few drops yellow coloring. Ice cake. Decorate with candied lemon slices.

Conference Called On Wire-Tapping

New York, March 17 (U.P.).—An extraordinary conference of New York City's 13 Democratic Congressmen will be held here Saturday to consider a possible Federal investigation of illegal tapping of telephones of Government officials, it was disclosed today.

That disclosure was coupled today with a report that police investigation of wire-tapping had unearthed the existence of a blackmail ring which extorted more than one million dollars a year from prominent and wealthy New Yorkers.

Representative Emmanuel Celler sent telegrams to his Democratic colleagues in the House of Representatives calling for them to be present Saturday morning. His telegram read:

"This conference is all important. Do not fail to attend."

Because of St. Patrick's Day, the grand jury investigating wire-tapping did not sit today. It has been reported that Mayor William O'Dwyer will appear before the jury Friday, possibly to try to back up his charges that multi-millionaire Clendenin J. Ryan is behind an unlawful scheme to eavesdrop on the conversations of Democrats in public office.

The New York World Telegram said it learned of the blackmail ring from high police quarters. It said the gang victimized prominent figures by tapping wires and by recording conversations in exclusive clubs and hotels.

Mrs. Doyle Quits Board

the opportunity to contribute as best I could to the betterment of educational facilities for the children of Washington and to have had a part in the progress of our schools."

Although it had been generally known that Mrs. Doyle has wanted to step down from the board for the past three years, her resignation came as a surprise to fellow members. They had expected her to complete her term and had urged her to accept another. Wednesday's meeting of the board was the last she will preside over if her resignation is accepted.

C. Melvin Sharpe, vice president of the board, described her resignation as "a great loss to the public schools."

Superintendent of Schools Hobart M. Corning termed her resignation "the termination of a brilliant career of leadership in the cause of public education.

"Her administration," he said, "has been marked by unselfish effort, tact, fairness, courage, and an abiding interest in the children, the teachers and all the employes of the school system."

Mrs. Doyle has told friends she continued on the board during the past three years to aid in the post-war adjustment of the schools and to fight for teacher pay raise legislation.

She had intended to resign last year but had remained on because of the month-long strike of Negro students at Browne Junior High School.

The issue of the strike Mrs. Doyle regarded as an acute shortage of school buildings in newly developed sections of the city. She took the battle for more schools up to Congress'urgin g a Federal loan to finance them long before the Strayer report came to the same conclusion.

The theme of her testimony was: "Growing children do not stand still to wait for inadequate budgets to catch up with them. Their school life may be over before the needed school facilities are ready."

In addition to fighting for pay raises and sick leave for teachers, Mrs. Doyle was the teachers' champion when Congress tagged a "red rider" to an appropriation bill and made teachers sign statements not to teach communism.

"Our teachers are loyal, faithful employes," Mrs. Doyle said and charged that signed statements were not needed.

She advocated teaching of communism in the schools. Like a disease, she said, it has to be known to be fought.

When named president of the board in 1935, the first woman to hold the post, Mrs. Doyle had behind her four years of service as vice president and the accomplishment of having headed a committee that introduced into the schools modern methods of training children handicapped by sight and hearing defects.

Characteristic of her thoroughness when she went on her vacation the summer after her election, she took along all records and minutes of the board for the past 30 years, and carefully read them.

She used this knowledge in presiding over many stormy sessions of the board. Without using her gavel or raising her voice she kept the meetings under control.

Like other members of the board Mrs. Doyle has served her long term without compensation.

A suffragette when she attended Radcliffe College and while serving as a school teacher in Boston before her marriage in 1917, Mrs. Doyle has long favored a vote for the District. Last year after a committee of the board opposed the Auchincloss home rule plan for an elected school board, Mrs. Doyle urged the committee to change its view and she appeared on the Hill to testify for the proposal.

Because Washington has no vote, Mrs. Doyle has said the Board of Education should operate in full view of the taxpayers. One of her first acts as president was to open up to the public and press committee meetings that previously had been held behind closed doors.

Mrs. Doyle is the mother of three children, all graduates of the District public schools and all now grown. She visited Europe once before more than a year ago to be present at the christening of her first grandchild in Notre Dame in Paris. She then toured German schools reporting on education under the occupation.

In addition to her duties on the school board she is an active civic worker, having served as former president of the League of Women Voters, past secretary of the American Association of University Women, and as a board member of the Instructive Visiting Nurse Society, Washington Self Help Exchange, Social Hygiene Society, Bureau of Rehabilitation, Society for the Prevention of Blindness, the Family Welfare Association and the National Capital Housing Authority. During the war she was employed as a personnel consultant with the Treasury Department and at present is serving on the loyalty board of the Civil Service Commission.

Virginia U. Probes Visit

best I've ever seen" and presents no law enforcement problem.

The dean's observations on dormitory guests and drinking were preceded by a statement that "there is a distinct absence of radical, subversive students at this university."

However heartening this is, he said, "it is not pleasant to mention areas in which little progress has been made."

He added, "There are demonstrations of bad taste and bad conduct both by a few individuals and by large numbers and the prevailing student attitude is that no one should do or say anything about the individuals or about the occurrences."

The dean of women, Roberta Hollingsworth, reported:

"The lack of regulation and supervision of men students complicates the problem of administering a woman's dormitory and may make it necessary to have more detailed and stricter regulations."

However, she added, the university may well be proud of the generally high standard of conduct of the women who live immediately within its precincts."

President Darden said most of the criticism of women in dormitories concerned nonstudents who are guests of male students.

The president's own report to the board of visitors was issued about a month ago, he said today. The reports of the deans were attached to copies sent to alumni.

President Darden said that in investigating what he called a "nettling factor"—the small number of Virginia high school graduates entering the university—he discovered high school principals feel "Virginia undergraduates are a 'fast set'."

He told the board of visitors:

"That the social structure of the student body leaves much to be desired is, I think, a modest statement of the situation which obtains here."

Darden said today there have been only a "few" cases where student conduct has been so "aggravated" that "disciplinary action had to be taken."

He said that "one or two" male students had been ordered to give up their dormitory quarters. None has been expelled from the university, however.

The "whole problem," the president explained today, "stems from lack of facilities for entertainment of university guests." He added plans are under way for a commons building where male students could entertain female guests.

Dean Hollingsworth said in the past year regulations for women students have been few and simple because most of the girls were in the graduate school. But recently younger girls have been admitted to the undergraduate school. Most of them live in the town of Charlottesville or nearby.

The president said there are regulations forbidding women in fraternity houses without chaperones and they are likewise forbidden in dormitories.

Alison Quits As Commerce Assistant

The White House announced yesterday the resignation of John R. Alison as Assistant Secretary of Commerce for Air, effective March 31.

Alison

Alison, 36, of Gainesville, Fla., offered the resignation January 19, saying he wanted to enter private business. In accepting it now President Truman said that by consenting to stay this long Alison had made a personal sacrifice. The White House made no mention of a successor.

Fake Raid Denied By County Police

A charge by Washington Attorney James J. Laughlin that Prince Georges County police faked a raid on an alleged Mount Rainier gambling headquarters was denied vehemently yesterday by Ralph W. Brown, chief of county police.

The charge was contained in a letter from Laughlin to A. Gwynn Bowie, State's attorney for the county, in which the District lawyer accepted Bowie's invitation to tell a county grand jury April 8 about gambling there. With him will be his client, Mrs. Anna T. Keleher.

After testimony by Mrs. Keleher at her divorce suit in District Court that her husband, once-convicted gambler John B. Keleher, conducted widespread gambling operations just over the District line in Mount Rainier, County and Mount Rainier police raided the establishment on January 11. They found the place dusty—apparently unoccupied for some time.

Of this, Laughlin wrote Bowie:

"It is true that the officers stated that the 'raid' staged by them indicated that the place had not been used for a long time and was covered by dust.

"I assume the officers did not tell you that they themselves went in the place a day before the 'raid' and sprinkled the premises with dust. They should have told you that."

Chief Brown, apprised of Laughlin's charge, declared "I've never 'made' a case and I don't intend to. I've always been on the up and up." It was Brown, with Mount Rainier Police Chief Eugene Plummer and four other officers, who raided the place.

Mother Sues U. S. in Death Of Flier Son

Baltimore, March 17 (AP).—The mother of an Army Reserve pilot today filed an unusual suit against the Government seeking $50,000 because he was killed while brushing up on blind flying.

Lieut. Keys

Paul F. Keys, 23-year-old worker for the Internal Revenue Bureau in Washington, was killed last March 20 in a crash near Mitchellsville, Md.

Francis G. Rapp, 27, of 6020 13th pl. nw., Washington, another reserve pilot employed at the Internal Revenue Bureau, was instructing Keys and also died in the crash.

The suit was filed in Federal Court on behalf of Mrs. Whitney S. Keys, 3903 58th ave., Cheverly, and it charges that her son's death was due to the negligence of Rapp.

Young Keys was inside a blind-flying hood learning to pilot the plane by instrument, the complaint sets out. The plane went into a dive. The suit contends that it was the responsibility of Rapp, outside the Hood, to take over the controls and get the plane back on an even keel.

Court officials said they never before had heard of a suit involving such a claim.

Keys was commissioned in the Air Corps early in the war. He piloted a B-24 bomber in missions over Italy.

After his discharge he joined the Air Force Reserve and was commissioned a second lieutenant. To retain his commission and earn flight pay he reported to Andrews Field almost every weekend for refresher training.

He had been working on instrument flying and was making his last check flight on the day of the accident.

Slot Machine Vote Sought

nue, Wilkinson explained. He added:

"Our position is simply this—the machines are already there; why shouldn't the county get some revenue from them?"

Licensing of coin machines in the county has been asked by both the Prince Georges County Civic Federation and the Hotel and Restaurant Association of Prince Georges County, Wilkinson declared.

Annual license fees would range from $25 to $1000.

The proposed bill, in addition, provides that:

1. Incorporated towns can impose a limited additional license fee.
2. No person under the age of 18 shall play payoff devices.
3. No more than five machines of all types shall be maintained for public use upon a single public premises at one time.
4. Only registered voters and property owners and county residents for the past two years could be licensed to operate the machines for public use.
5. The machines would be legal immediately if voted by a referendum majority.

2 Ex-D. C. Girls Coming Back as Ballet Dancers

Two teen-age ballerinas, both former Washingtonians, will appear on the stage of Constitution Hall Saturday night, watched admiringly by a 12-year-old ballet hopeful whose talent won her a free ticket to the performance.

Liane Plane, 18, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William D. Plane, of 47 Allison st. ne., and Jenny Workman, 19, whose parents formerly lived at the Westchester Apartments, are the successful young dancers with the Ballet Theater Company.

Eyeing them eagerly will be Barbara Love, 12, of 3010 Wisconsin ave. nw., who won a free ticket to the performance when a representative of the company picked her as the "most promising dancer" at the Washington School for Ballet.

10 Area War Dead Returning Aboard Haiti Victory

The bodies of 10 Greater Washington servicemen, who lost their lives in World War II, are being returned to this country aboard the United States Army Transport Haiti Victory, the Army announced yesterday.

They were interred originally in temporary military cemeteries in northern France, Holland and Luxembourg.

Next of kin will be notified in advance of the arrival of the vessel and again after the arrival of the remains at the regional Distribution Centers of the American Graves Registration Service.

Israel Approves U. S. Loan by 85 to 3 Vote

Tel Aviv, Israel, March 17 (U.P.). Parliament tonight overwhelmingly approved a 100-million-dollar loan from the United States Export-Import Bank.

The vote was 85 to 3 with the Communist deputies casting the negative votes. The leftist Socialist Mapam Party abstained.

Communists claimed that the American loan was a move to gain concessions in Israel. Communist Leader Samuel Mikunis also charged that the government was aligning the Jewish state politically and economically with the United States and Britain.

Liquor Dealer Tells FTC His Supplies of Hiram Walker Were Shut Off by Distributor Because He Cut His Prices

Maurice Milstone, owner of the Acme Liquor Store, 927 Pennsylvania ave. nw., yesterday charged that Middle Atlantic Distributors, Inc., cut off his supply of whisky after he failed to stick to their suggested retail prices.

His testimony was given at a Federal Trade Commission hearing on charges that the distributing company used unlawful agreements and understandings to fix minimum resale prices for alcoholic beverages.

Milstone said representatives of Middle Atlantic warned him in April and May of 1947 that if he didn't sell their Hiram Walker brands at their suggested prices they wouldn't sell to him.

"We refused to make an agreement, and kept our prices lower. Later on, I think it was in July, 1947, we gave orders for merchandise but didn't receive any shipments from them," he declared. "After more visits from them, I said I'd try to comply with their price list and they then resumed shipping if we promised to behave ourselves."

Milstone said he stopped doing business with Middle Atlantic in February, 1948, on advice of his attorney, and advertised his decision in newspapers. At one point, he said, he sent a letter to the president of the Hiram Walker firm, explaining his difficulty with Middle Atlantic. He admitted he resumed business with Middle Atlantic about November, 1948, but it was only because "we were desperately in need of merchandise and we were getting a lot of calls for Hiram Walker."

He said he had a damage suit pending against Middle Atlantic, filed in District Court last February 16, in which he charged he lost $25,000 in business by the actions of the distributers. The suit asks $75,000, treble the damage, as provided by the Sherman Antitrust Act.

William R. Lichtenberg, counsel for Middle Atlantic, charged that the case before FTC was a private controversy between Milstone and the distributing company and not of public interest. He asked Milstone if it was not true that his actions had instigated the FTC proceedings against the company. Milstone was not required to answer, Examiner William Pack ruled.

The hearing will be resumed today at 10 a. m.

Prostitution Is Legalized In Nevada

Carson City, Nev., March 17 (U.P.).—It took the Nevada Legislature only 1 hour and 20 minutes to decide today that prostitution is not a public nuisance in this State.

The action was taken in answer to a recent Supreme Court ruling that prostitution is a public nuisance and therefore illegal. A bill removing prostitution from the public nuisance list was introduced in the Senate, reported out of committee, and passed by a 14-to-3 vote, all in one hour's time.

The Assembly received the measure and approved it by a 26-to-9 vote in 20 minutes flat.

Sponsor of the bill was Senator A. V. Tallman (R.) Humboldt.

Man Held in Murder

New Orleans, March 17 (U.P.).—Twenty-five-year-old Louis Eugene Hoover, of Louisville, Ky., was indicted tonight for the recent murder of James A. Mahoney, Bristol, Va., millionaire.

'I'm Scared'

'Lust Killer' Of Boy, 12, Given Life

Philadelphia, March 17 (AP).—A frightened, nail-chewing youth of 17, was sentenced to life imprisonment today for the "perverted sexual lust" killing of a 12-year-old boy.

"I'm scared," Seymour Levin whispered to his attorney a moment before sentence was pronounced.

Levin pleaded guilty to a charge of murder. Three judges, who heard testimony two weeks ago, fixed his guilt at first-degree murder.

They said that Levin "enticed into his home 12-year-old Ellis Simons and there committed . . . an act of perverted sexual lust."

Levin denied sex played any part in the killing. He said he "blacked out" and couldn't remember what happened after he and the Simons boy argued about a chemistry set January 8.

raised, for example, only 5 per cent since June, 1947, he would be subject to another 5 per cent boost next October 1 and still another 5 per cent hike April 1, 1950.

If a tenant's rent had been increased by reason of hardship to the landlord, he would have to meet the full 10 per cent increase on top of the hardship increase.

Terms of present leases would govern in all cases. In other words a tenant with a lease running beyond next October 1 could not be hit by the first 5 per cent increase until after the lease expired.

The State's rights provisions, as Maybank described them, would:

1. Permit the State Legislature to decontrol the entire State or any given area at will by simple resolution. The Governor would retain his veto powers over the action of the Legislature.

2. Permit the State to take over the entire administration of controls within its borders whenever the Governor certified to Washington that the State has an adequate rent control law on its books.

The committee vote on the provision for State legislatures to adopt immediate decontrol of any area was 9 to 4 with Senators John Sparkman (D., Ala.), Robert F. Wagner (D., N. Y.), Glen H. Taylor (P., Ida.) and Paul Douglas (D., Ill.) voting in the negative.

Douglas Likes Governors' Power

Douglas commented that he was glad that State Governors retained their veto power over resolutions passed by the State legislatures to decontrol. Some Governors, he said, would thus be able to "protect the people" from State legislatures dominated by rural interests. He said that Democratic Governors in Illinois, Connecticut and Michigan would be able to perform this service, even though Republicans control some houses in their legislatures.

Douglas and Sparkman jointly declared that the "automatic" increases were arranged to provide a workable substitute for the "reasonable return for reasonable value" provision adopted by the House. Douglas termed the House-passed provision "administratively impossible."

Sparkman Criticizes Stories

Sparkman took exception to a news story appearing in The Washington Post, and to other news accounts, referring to the original subcommittee bill as providing an "automatic 15 per cent increase." The language of the subcommittee draft was changed, the committee said, to clarify the point. Sparkman also objected to a reference to the subcommittee bill as the product of the Republican-Southern Democratic coalition now in control of the Senate.

He predicted that President Truman would be pleased with the final committee bill.

Senator Homer Capehart (R., Ind.) said he would introduce a substitute calling for step-by-step removal of controls on the basis of rents paid by the tenants.

Sparkman pointed out that the bill has in it the criminal penalties and eviction clauses sought by the Administration. He noted also that despite the filibuster fight the committee beat its time table by one day in filing its report with the Senate.

Maybank told reporters he was interested above everything in the States' rights provision of the measure, which he said, does everything possible to encourage the States to assume their responsibilities.

British Find Israeli Erred in RAF Incident

London, March 17 (AP).—An Air Ministry court of inquiry said today five British reconnaissance planes shot down by Israeli air and anti-aircraft forces January 7 were on the Egyptian side of the border.

The air battle climaxed an Israeli offensive which drove Egyptian troops back across their border. Israeli authorities contended the British planes were flying over Palestine territory when they were engaged by the Israeli air force.

2 Steel Men Wait Sentence In Perjury

Two steel company executives were freed yesterday on $1000 bail each to await sentencing in District Court on charges that they perjured themselves last year in a congressional "gray-market" investigation.

They are Edward C. Sauve and William W. Voisine, both 51 and residents of Ecorse, Mich. Voisine was owner and Sauve was business manager of the Wayne Sheet Metal Co. in Michigan.

The two men pleaded nolo contendere to the perjury charge and waived indictment. Judge James W. Morris ordered a presentence investigation.

According to the court charges, Voisine told the Macy subcommittee of the House Public Works Committee on June 3 that he never received in behalf of his company any premiums over the invoice price in the sale of steel. He was charged in falsely denying the fact that he had received a check of $621 in additional payments from the Moline Pressed Steel Co.

According to the charge, Sauve also knowingly concealed the fact of premium payments.

Their attorney, James J. Shepard, said he was informed the Wayne Steel Co. was now inactive. He said that Voisine was Mayor of Ecorse at this time.

Blizzards Killed $33,000,000 Worth Of Cattle, Sheep

Chicago, March 17 (U.P.).—The great western blizzards of 1949 killed more than half a million cattle and sheep worth 33 million dollars, stockmen and State agriculture officials estimated today in a United Press survey.

The stock losses, heaviest in history, were not expected to create a meat shortage.

The total cattle loss was estimated at 165,000 head, compared with a nation-wide cattle population of almost 50 million, not including dairy cattle.

The sheep loss was put at 422,000, compared with a total sheep and lamb population of almost 32 million.

The cattle loss amounted to 25 million dollars and the sheep destruction cost more than eight million dollars.

24 Stores Start Keeping Open Thursday Nights

A group of downtown Washington specialty and women's wear shops last night successfully inaugurated 8:30 p. m. Thursday night closing hours.

In general the 24 stores that remained open the extra time reported they found business a little more brisk than during regular store hours. Shops that offered special inducements, such as free orchids with each purchase, did a land office business, they said.

Shopkeepers told a reporter they felt the late hours would garner increasing business when the weather become warmer and the Thursday night plan becomes better known.

Hard Luck Ex-Marine Heads for Job

Clayton D. Whidden, 24, the Marine veteran who tried to break into an Alexandria grocery store because his wife and children were hungry, appeared headed for a job yesterday.

Accompanied by a representative of the Marine Corps League, Whidden was interviewed by several prospective employers during the day. He said later he expects to have a job within a few days.

"My own troubles are getting pretty well straightened out," he said. "My biggest problem now is to find some way to show my appreciation to the people who have done so much for me."

Meanwhile, eviction proceedings to oust Whidden, his wife Elsie, 22, and their three young children from their $100-a-month furnished house, at 411 E. Raymond ave., Alexandria, were continued yesterday in Alexandria Civil Court until March 29.

Whidden also must appear in Alexandria Police Court April 8 for a hearing on the charge of attempted housebreaking. He is now free in $500 bond.

The Alexandria Department of Public Welfare was continuing its efforts to find a home the Whidden family can offord. And more orders of groceries arrived at the Whidden house, contribbtions from persons who had read about the plight of the family.

"We've got more groceries than I ever thought I'd see at one time," said Mrs. Whidden.

Their Business Is Parking . . .

The Washington Post

ON THE FRINGE—George Washington Universi ty students look over the parking lot at 25th and E sts. nw., which they took over after it was abandoned by the Merchants Parking Corporation last month. They are (from left) K. B. Jenkins, 22, 4356 Lee hwy., Arlington, Va.; Richard Faulkner, 26, Vienna, Va.; Charles W. Porter, 24, of Burke, Va., and Herbert Hutchinson, 24, of 141 21st st. nw.

Lane Measure Offered to End Oyster War

Annapolis, Md., March 17 (AP).—Peace pact legislation designed by Governor Lane's administration to end the Maryland-Virginia oyster war was introduced tonight in the Legislature.

It would create a Maryland-Virginia Chesapeake-Potomac authority with broad powers to regulate seafood industries in waters common to the two States.

Prepared as an amendment to the Bi-State Compact of 1785, the measure requires the approval of the Maryland and Virginia Legislatures and the ratification of Congress.

The administration measure, based on recommendations of a two-State study commission which reported a year ago, would lump bay and river seafood problems under a single agency.

This approach conflicts with a peace pact bill introduced last week by a group of Tidewater legislators to create a Potomac River commission. The Tidewater bill would divorce bay and river problems by providing only for a Potomac River commission.

Introduced by Senate President Byrnes (D., Baltimore Fifth) the administration measure would have power to impose and enforce regulations to control oystering in the Potomac, fishing and crabbing in the bay, its tributaries and Potomac.

Among other powers, the agency could set fishing and oyster seasons, open and close oyster bars, limit the size of gear and equipment, license watermen and impose "such other controls or restructions which, in the interest of conservation, shall be necessary or desirable."

In another development, Governor Lane said tonight the Tidewater Fisheries Commission should be revamped as one step toward "restoring Maryland to first place in the oyster industry of the world."

Lane said he also favored State aid to private oyster farming, but held back a subsidy law to allow a reorganized commission to give the idea more study.

"I find general lack of confidence in the Commision of Tidewater Fisheries as presently constituted and great fear that any such program would be controlled by monopolistic large interests to the exclusion of the watermen and contrary to the best interests of our tidewater people," he said.

Shells are "a precious commodity," he noted, since oyster production has declined from 12,250,000 bushels a year at the end of the last century to 2,100,000 bushels last season.

The industry should yield 25 million dars a year, but is returning ay five million dollars to the 45(oystemen and more than 5000 erson otherwise engaged in thbivalve industry, Lane added.

The State ill plant one million bushels of sills this spring, more than twice e number sown last year, he said

4 GWU Students Hope to Net $120 a Month on Auto Lot

Four George Washington University students estimate they will clear at least $30 a month each from operation of a fringe parking lot at 25th and E sts. nw., abandoned by the Merchants Parking Corporation last month because of a continued deficit.

The GI Bill students, who took the lot over March 1 are K. B. Jenkins, 22, of 4356 Lee hwy., Arlington; H. M. Hutchinson, 24, and Richard Faulkner, 28, both of 1426 21st st. nw.; Charles W. Porter, 24, of Burke, Va.

The veterans charge the same 25-cent all-day parking rate as the Merchants Corporation did, but have added a $4 monthly rate for regular users in the nearby State Department.

40 Cars Park Daily

About 35 to 40 automobiles park daily on the 80-car lot, according to Jenkins, who estimates the venture will bring in $160 of gross income or about $120 total net profit by the end of the month.

Chief expense of the group is rent to the Cass Realty Company which owns the lot, since they alternate as attendants themselves.

About 200 handbills advertising the lot have been tucked in the windshield wipers of cars parked in the area, Jenkins says, adding that business is "getting bett all the time."

Buses run every 10 minut betwees the lot and the Treasury Building at 15th and Pennsylvania ave., Jenkins points out, there tranfers may be made to th rest of the downtown shopping rea.

Students Encouraged

P. Y. K. Howat, head of the District Motor Vehicle arking Agency and father of the riginal "fringe" parking scheme, lunched in September, 1948, has ncouraged the students in their enture. Howt pointed out to a rporter, however, that the students are paying ent on only the smaller of two ots at the 25th st. ocation, and dd not have to pay for surfacing.

Figres of the Distrit Motor Vehicl Parking Agency show a total stimated deficit of about $9200 or the 25th st. fnge lots, which ttracted about 45 ars daily while perated by the Merchants Parkin Corporation fro September, 198, through February, 1949.

The otal includes bout $4500 for surfacing of both ots, and an additional $1669 for sch expenses as advetising and fir extinguishers. Inaddition, th corporation paid a anager $20(a month to operate e lots, with $100 monthly going fo clerical eeds, and up to $175 mthly for ttendants' pay.

SAVE MONEY - buy "bowl-mix" Nucoa!
SAVE TIME - buy and color two pounds at a time!
It's America's most popular margarine—and here's why!
ONE TRIP TO THE STORE BUYS TWO POUNDS OF NUCOA—AND THERE'S VALUABLE CHANGE LEFT FROM YOUR DOLLAR!
Right! Nucoa's a real boon these days when the cost of living is sky-high . . . And aren't you glad that—when you buy this quality margarine—there's no extra cost tacked on for a "squeeze bag"!
ONE QUICK MIX COLORS TWO POUNDS AT ONCE . . . AND SO EVENLY - NO STREAKS - NO SUNBURSTS!
One easy "bowl-mix" gives you two pounds of delicious, evenly colored Nucoa! You do the coloring job half as often—almost twice as fast—as squeeze-mixing one pound at a time.
Not only does Nucoa cost little more than half as much as the most expensive spread—but its delicate flavor and smooth, even texture are as fine as money can buy. And remember—no other churned spread, no matter what it costs, is richer in food energy or is a better year-round source of important Vitamin A than Nucoa.
NUCOA OLEOMARGARINE
SAVE TIME-"BOWL-MIX" TWO POUNDS TOGETHER
Yellow Nucoa also available in quarter-pound prints at many stores. Due to Federal taxes and license fees, yellow Nucoa costs more than white Nucoa, but regular or yellow, it's the same delicious product.

Civil Rights Linked To Foreign Policy

The civil rights issue came in for discussion last night at a national conference on American foreign policy.

Representatives Helen Gahagan Douglas, (D., Calif.) and John Davis Lodge (R., Conn.) were the principal speakers at a forum on "the impact of foreign policy on domestic issues." It was attended by representatives of 200 national organizations invited here by the State Department.

Mrs. Douglas said the civil rights problem is an "international issue" since the Communists are making propaganda capital out of this country's racial problems.

She described as "gross stupidity" the Senate filibuster fight which ended this week:

Lodge urged the State Department to make greater use of its overseas information program and to see to it that "propaganda" was adapted to the country to which it was sent.

Representative Douglas said the United States should take a more positive approach, instead of placing so much emphasis on its opposeition to communism. "Three fourths of the time we are not talking about what we believe in," she said.

She proposed a three-point program. (1) We should live up to our ideals as best we can; (2) we should tell our story because we are interested in people, and (3) we should talk democracy and live democracy, instead of being anti."

then would be returned to the House floor for action.

Chairman Clarence Cannon (D., Mo.) of the House Appropriations Committee said $50,000 spent to investigate the District's financial problem and "find just what can be done and what should be done" would probably be money very well invested.

The 18.6 million dollar total in the McGrath bill is scaled to cover the 103 million-dollar budget as sent to Congress by the Commissioners, and the cost of a $330 retroactive annual pay boost for city employes. The Commissioners' budget deficit was more than eight million, the pay boost cost would be more than 10 million.

The House cut the budget by about 4 million and returned to District general funds more than a million appropriated previously for construction of Spingarn High School. By these actions the budget deficit in the House-approved bill was trimmed to about 2.5 million.

On the Senate side, Senator Lester C. Hunt (D., Wyo.), chairman of the Senate District Fiscal Subcommittee, called McGrath's idea a "liberal payment" but conceded that it might be the "best thing" for this year until a comparative thorough study of property taxes can be made "not only in Virginia and Maryland but in the other 46 States."

But two key Republican fiscal experts in the House—Representatives John W. Tabor (R., N. Y.) and George Bates (R., Mass.)—labeled an $18,600,000 hike in Federal payment "completely unjustified."

Taber said the people of Washnigton need "a good swift jar" suggesting that letting property taxes alone absorb the city's impending deficit would be the way to deliver the "jar."

He said local residents have not approached their tax problem with enough "seriousness and courage" and that the McGrath plan was nothing more than a "palliative."

Representative Bates said such a Federal assist to the District would be "most unfair" to residents of other States. He also indicated that sufficient tax studies already have been conducted, but "that's a matter for Senator McGrath to decide." He was referring to the latter's suggestion for a $50,000 tax investigation.

Meanwhile, District Tax Assessor Edward A. Dent delivered to the House District Committee a report comparing nearby Maryland, Virginia and District tax rates and assessments based on a survey, he said, was made several years ago.

Dent's preliminary report, submitted at the request of House District Committee clerk, concluded that District property is assessed higher, and tax bills are higher, even though the city's tax rate is lower than in contingent areas. Dent said he believed the same holds true today.

Speaking at a Washington Junior Board of Commerce luncheon yesterday, Leon Chatelain, jr., president of the Washington Board of Trade, said:

"Studies by the District assessor clearly show that the effective property tax here is higher" than in nearby Maryland and Virginia. Higher taxes here would only send people to the counties and so lose tax revenue for the District, he said.

Population Slowdown Seen Hurting Military

Houston, Tex., March 17 (U.P.).—Population slowdown in the United States could hamper the Nation's military potential in the next few decades, a University of Chicago professor said today.

Philip M. Hauser, associate dean of social sciences, told architects at the American Institute of Architects convention that manpower could easily be the decisive factor in any future military effort.

1,750,000 See New York's St. Patrick's Day Parade

New York, March 17 (AP).—As bright a sun as ever bathed the green of old Ireland beamed down today on one of New York's biggest St. Patrick's Day parades.

An estimated 1,750,000 persons lined Fifth Avenue to watch the hours-long procession.

"This is undoubtedly the biggest day we ever had," said Grand Marshal John A. Coleman, jr.

He estimated that 80,000 sons of Ireland formed the line of march.

It Was a Great Day In Irish Homeland

Dublin, Eire, March 17 (AP).—Hillmen's pipes wailed tonight as Eire celebrated her first St. Patrick's Day as an independent nation. Pert colleens and brawny men danced Irish reels.

The law closed the pubs on the day of Ireland's patron saint. But for all that, there was plenty of peat-flavored Irish whisky in bottles bought beforehand.

There were no reports of disorders. Detachments of the army and marines paraded through the packed streets of Dublin behind a green-kilted pipers' band.

Colgate-Palmolive-Peet's Fabulous, New Washing Discovery
FAB WITH SUPER-WETTING ACTION washes everything
CLEANER, WHITER and FASTER than any soap on earth!

Yes, in hardest water, FAB washes even the dirtiest clothes faster, cleaner, whiter and brighter than any soap ever made! Gets even grimiest overalls cleaner faster!
Why are women everywhere switching to FAB with Super-Wetting Action for family wash? Because FAB is a fabulous, new suds, unlike any soap you've ever used. FAB gives you a cleaner, whiter, brighter wash...with less handling, less work—done faster! Get FAB with Super-Wetting Action, and get the most fabulously clean wash of your life!
New ingredient...another fabulous miracle, gets white wash whiter and colors brighter.
No soap scum...even in hardest water! Even grimiest overalls get cleaner faster! Clothes get whiter!
FAB is up to twice as economical as soap! Laboratory tests prove that, cup for cup, in hard water, FAB washes up to twice as much family wash as soap!
FAB GIVES FABULOUS SUDS IN HARDEST WATER
The minute you put FAB into your washer, you'll see how fabulous it is! Instantly...you get a washer full of rich, thick, dirt-bustin' SUDS, in the hardest water! And no soap scum to dull colors and "gray" white wash!

NEW INGREDIENT GETS DAD'S SHIRTS WHITER
Two reasons why fabulous FAB gets white wash whiter, and colors brighter:
1. FAB contains a fabulous, new ingredient that washes white things whiter and colors brighter.
2 There is no graying soap scum with FAB! Your whole wash looks fresher, more attractive when you wash with FAB!

FAB WASHES TOMMY'S GRIMIEST PLAY CLOTHES cleaner than any soap!
FAB with Super-Wetting Action instantly penetrates materials and pushes dirt out! Grimiest overalls and children's play clothes get extra-clean so fast you can hardly believe it! No "graying" soap scum with FAB!

FAB WASHES DISHES TWICE AS FAST!
No need to wipe dishes. Just wash with FAB, and rinse. FAB leaves no soap scum to polish away. Even glassware sparkles! FAB with Super-Wetting Action slashes through grease as no soap can! Pots and pans get shiny-clean easier. An FAB is fabulously mild to hand
What is Super-Wetting Action?

To see, roll cotton sewing thread into a ball. Drop it into a glass of water. It floats. Drop another little ball of thread into a glass of water and FAB. It sinks; becomes completely soaked at once. This shows how FAB with Super-Wetting Action penetrates materials faster and more thoroughly!

Faster And Better for all family wash and dishes

Gun Failure Fails To Save Wielder

Saved from a murder charge only because of a defective cartridge, John B. Irving, 22, of 46 Fenton st. ne., was sentenced yesterday to serve 2 to 6 years in prison for deadly assault.

According to the District Court charge, Irving approached an acquaintance, Ardell Kreps, 96 K st. ne., and demanded a small amount of money. When Kreps refused, it was charged Irving stuck a .38-caliber revolver at Kreps' chest, and pulled the trigger.

At the trial, it was shown that the cartridge had been struck but did not fire. Defense Attorney Robert I. Miller argued that the incident was a jest and asked for a light sentence. Judge Edward A. Tamm replied:

"If it weren't for an almost unexplainable accident, the court might now have the difficult task of sentencing this man to the electric chair."

Visiting Judge Ben Moore gave a 6 to 20 year prison term to Roosevelt Rollerson, 23, 1522 8th st. nw., convicted of raping a 17-year-old girl last November on a lot near 3d and L sts. nw.

James T. Gibson, 32, 5001 Sheriff rd. ne., received six months jail for negligent homicide in the traffic death last November of Victoria Jones, 64, of 330 McLean ave. sw.

A marihuana possession charge sent Ray K. O'Kelly, 28, 2022 9th st. nw., to prison for from 20 months to five years.

Shift in Rule Over Hackers Turned Down

A proposal for transferring the duty of determining the character and qualifications of hackers to the Police Department was turned down by the District Commissioners yesterday on the recommendation of Police Supt. Robert J. Barrett.

Traffic Director George E. Keneipp has proposed transfer of the assignment from the Board of Revocation and Review of Hackers' Identification Licenses to the Police hack inspector.

Major Barrett said the proposal would require an act of Congress and would force the department to hire a court reporter to take testimony in hearings resulting from the assignment. He added that the present plan is satisfactory.

The present board consists of Mrs. Mary A. Silver, chairman; an assistant corporation counsel, who acts as vice chairman, and a third member from the Police Traffic Division.

A second proposal by Keneipp for a change in the present appeals procedure for motorists whose operators' permits have been suspended was submitted to Major Barrett by the Commissioners for comment.

Keneipp has advocated appointment of a hearing office to handle appeals, rather than the present Board of Revocation and Review of Operators' Permits, which directs the initial suspension as well.

Morrisette Again Heads Hilltop Recreation Group

Arthur E. Morrisette, president of the Summit Park Citizens Association, was reelected president of the Hilltop Recreation Council Wednesday night at the group's meeting in the East Washington Baptist Church, 3336 Alabama ave. se.

The council, composed of delegates from 15 citizens associations and churches in the Hilltop area beyond Alabama ave. se., also indorsed Morrisette for the civic award of the Junior Board of Commerce.

James L. Talbert was named first vice president, C. A. Lewis second vice president, Miss Edith Preston third vice president, Miss Priscella Gillette recording secretary, Mrs. Evelyn Craig corresponding secretary, and Mrs. Grace Myers treasurer.

"Perfect Husband" Is Linda's Verdict On Her Tyrone

London, March 17 (U.P.).—After six weeks of marriage to Tyrone Power, Linda Christian pronounced him "the perfect husband" today.

"I am just longing for a baby so I can call him Tyrone," she added. "Of course, we don't know when we are going to have a baby. But we hope as soon as possible."

"Time will take care of that, dear," Power said, laughing. He was almost as ecstatic as Linda at their press reception at the Savoy.

"Before we got married everything was rosy and beautiful and now things get better every day," he said.

He crooned as he spoke and Linda picked up the refrain.

"Our six weeks' honeymoon was just a dream," she breathed.

Grand Jury Probe Of Pyramid Club Here Completed

The District grand jury probe of a case involving a pyramid club here has been completed, two attorneys reported yesterday.

George G. Boden and Denis K. Lane, attorneys for Dan Thomas, 28-year-old bricklayer who claims to have founded the first $2048 for $1 group here, said they have learned that the grand jury will report its findings Monday.

The United States Attorney's office declined to comment.

Israel Elected To Wheat Parley

Israel was elected to full participating membership in the International Wheat Conference at the State Department yesterday. Since the 50-nation conference began January 25 the new Palestine country has been represented only by an observer. Early this week it applied for full status as member.

The application was opposed by three Arab nations, Saudi Arabia, Lebanon and Egypt.

3 Adults, 7 Pupils Get Science Awards

Ten youth-accented awards of merit were presented last night by the Washington Academy of Sciences in the Cosmos Club.

Dr. Frank H. Roberts, jr., academy president, made the presentations to seven Greater Washingon high school seniors, for outstanding work in science, and to three adults under 40, for distinguished scientific achievement.

Certificates of award went to: Dr. Robert J. Huebner, 35, 302 Cedar lane, Bethesda, Md., of the National Institutes of Health, for research in the transmision of rickettsial diseases. He pioneered study of the mystery rickettisial pox which broke out in New York in 1946.

Dr. Maxwell K. Goldstein, 39, 2701 Branch ave. se., of the Naval Research Laboratory, for research and development in electronic engineering. He developed radio techniques to combat German submarines and Japanese kamikaze planes.

Dr. James A. Van Allan, 35, 1105 Meurilee lane, Silver Spring, Md., of the Applied Physics Laboratory, Johns Hopkins University, (in absentia) for work in nuclear physics and cosmic rays.

Certificates of merit went to 7 area youths who were among the 29 Greater Washington contestants in the Nation-wide Eighth Annual Science Talent Search. They were selected in the first Washington Science Talent Search of the Academy. Winners were:

Walter Gilbert, 16, 3309 35th st. nw., of Sidwell Friends School. His science project was the one-step separation of zirconium and hafnium.

Ellen MacEwen, 17, 4825 Montgomery lane, Bethesda, Md., of Woodrow Wilson High School, for research on production of cold light by fireflies.

John R. McGonegal, 16, 4524 S. Dakota ave. ne., of St. Anselm's Priory High School, for research on the application of radioactive substances in chemistry.

Agnes Preston, 17, 1523 P st. nw., of Dunbar High School, for research in chemotherapy.

William Shipley, 17, 4311 Brandywine st. nw., of Woodrow Wilson High School, for research on high-peed automobile engines.

Charles Weir, 15, 1206 Kearny st. ne., of Dunbar High School for research on construction of audio frequency filters.

Organist's Recital Is Persuasive

By Paul Hume

Walter Baker, Philadelphia organist, played last night in Washington Cathedral.

He appeared under the auspices of the D. C. Chapter of the American Guild of Organists. Several fortunate changes took place between Baker's first announced program and the list he presented last night. It was distinctly more pleasant to hear a Prelude, Fugue, Chaconne, and Chorale Prelude by Buxtehude than it would have been to sit through a sonata of Mendelssohn.

Buxtehude, one of the important forerunners of Bach, is still little enough played. There is a stature and formal appeal in his music that make it interesting. While it sounded rather strange to hear so theatrical a stop as the powerful tuba on the Cathedral organ running around in Buxtehude's polyphony, Baker can be commended in general for his registration.

Technique does not trouble him, though the recital was somewhat less than impeccable in this realm. Still the spirit of a performance is far more important, and here Baker seemed informed.

Both tempo and phrasing were wise in Bach's Jig Fugue, in the light of acoustical problems of the building. Max Reger's massive Introduction, Passacaglia, and Fuge are legitimate heirs of Franz Liszt's largest organ works. Harmonically and in sheer weight of ones, the two works are related.

Baker gave a broad, and persuasive account of the later music, though it is hard to maintain contact with some of Reger's ideas when he wanders through so ponderous a Passacaglia. Another time, some American music, eh, Mr. Baker?

Coal 'Mining' By Fire to Get Big-Scale Test

Birmingham, Ala., March 17 (AP). All is in readiness for the lighting on Friday of an underground seam of coal in a new study of mining by fire.

The experiment, considered of top importance to the mining industry, is to determine if coal can be converted into heating gas without removing the solid fuel from its underground bed.

The test will be conducted in an elaborately prepared area near the Alabama Power Co.'s Gorgas Mine, about 60 miles from Birmingham. It is sponsored by the United States Bureau of Mines and the power company. Cost of the new experiment is estimated at about $500,000.

It is a follow-up to a similar experiment at Gorgas on a much smaller scale early in 1947. At that time, the Bureau of Mines described it as the first of its type in the United States. It has been tried before by several foreign nations, particularly Russia.

The bureau said results of the first test were so encouraging that it was decided to expand the study.

The coal, which is between 130 and 170 feet beneath the surface, will be lighted with thermite bombs dropped through a shaft. Steam and oxygen will be forced over the burning coal by blowers and the gas captured through exhaust pipes.

A battery of chemists will make almost continual tests of the gas to determine its heating capacity. They also will find out if it can be converted into synthetic liquid fuels, including gasoline.

FLAKO LEADS ALL PIE CRUST MIXES

Proven For 27 Years, And Widely Copied, Flako Is Largest Seller

Many pie crust mixes are on the market today and many claims are made about them, but according to housewives' preferences, as determined by what they actually buy, there is no pie crust mix like Flako.

Flako is America's largest selling pie crust mix. It has been preferred for 27 years by more housewives than any other similar product. No other pie crust mix has stood the test of pleasing so many housewives for so long. Flako is time-proven; value-proven; oven-proven; and flavor-proven. It is the most widely imitated pie crust mix in America—the mix they all try to copy. But there still is no substitute for Flako.

There's Only One Flako

Try a single package of Flako. Your own flakier, tastier pie will at once tell you why Flako is America's largest selling pie crust mix. The best and nothing but the best ingredients go into Flako. The best flour, baking powder, shortening and salt. The same fine quality ingredients you use. And these are precision-mixed so that you are assured delicious results at every baking. You can't miss with ®Flako. Get yours today. Also ask your grocer for ®Flakorn Corn Muffin Mix and ®Cuplets Cup Cake Mix. All made by the same company. All will delight you.

District Native Dies In Winchester Fire

Winchester, Va., March 17 (AP).—Mortimer Harkins, about 75, a retired carpenter, died today in a fire which badly damaged the upper floor of a dwelling here.

Harkins 'wife died many years ago and friends said he was survived by only a son, Mortimer Harkins, jr., of Washington. Harkins was a native of Washington, but had resided here for a number of years.

Court Orders Gloucester Vote On $300,000 School Bond Issue

Gloucester, Va., March 17 (AP).—Circuit Judge J. Douglas Mitchell has ordered a referendum March 31 on the question of a $300,000 bond issue to provide funds for equalization of the county's white and Negro schools.

Judge Mitchell signed the referendum order after the Gloucester County School Board had agreed to reduce the bond issue amount from $750,000 to $300,000.

This action came at a meeting of the school board and the Board of Supervisors Tuesday. Plans have been put aside temporarily for construction of a new white high school.

The $300,000 was deemed sufficient to provide equal facilities for white and Negro pupils as ordered by a Federal Court injunction.

Proceeds of the bond issue, if voted, will build a combination elementary and high school for Negroes at the present site of the Gloucester Training School.

Petitions for the referendum were circulated after Federal Judge Sterling Hutcheson cited Gloucester school officials for contempt in failing to carry out his injunction for equalization of school facilities.

Exhibit of Swiss Books Opens at Congress Library

An exhibit of contemporary Swiss books opened yesterday at the Library of Congress.

The exhibit, "Books of Switzerland," was chosen by a committee that included representatives of Swiss government agencies, bookdealers, publishers, libraries and writers as a representative selection of current Swiss publishing likely to be of interest to Americans.

The Swiss Minister, Charles Bruggmann, and Librarian of Congress Luther Evans spoke at opening ceremonies Wednesday evening.

Two Recluses Discovered in Littered Room

A Fire Department inspector investigating a complaint yesterday found a debris-littered 8-by-10-foot bedroom in the Columbia rd. apartment of a 65-year-old spinster and her invalid 97-year-old mother.

The District Health Department earlier had investigated the situation, described by other tenants at 1689 Columbia rd. nw., as a "terrible mess."

Miss Edith Austin, who occupies the first-floor four-room apartment with her aged mother, told Fire Inspector L. F. Murphy she expected aid today in getting her bedroom cleaned up. The Health Department said a nursing aide had been assigned to the job.

Murphy, who said Miss Austin told him, "I just don't know why I've got all this stuff in here," instructed her to have the room cleaned up in seven days.

He said all but one room of the apartment was "very clean and well kept." In Miss Austin's bedroom were "newspapers, milk bottle stoppers, books, magazines, old trunks, paper cartons and other junk" that had apparently accumulated over the years, Murphy said. Debris was piled five feet high on the floor, an old cot, a dresser and the trunks.

The situation came to the Fire Department's attention when a steam pipe burst and sent smoky steam billowing into the hall Wednesday night.

Health Department officials said they received a complaint from a nearby tenant about a week ago and had taken steps to have the condition corrected.

Neighbors said the elder Austin woman is blind and that the younger rarely leaves the apartment. Miss Austin refuses to answer the telephone or the doorbell except on infrequent occasions, other tenants said.

Employer's Right To Call a Union 'Outlaw' Upheld

The National Labor Relations Board ruled last night that an employer may call a union "outlaw," "wildcat" and "off-breed."

The board overruled Trial Examiner Peter F. Ward, who had held that the United States Trailer Manufacturing Co., Kansas City, Mo., had committed an unfair labor practice by applying such speech to the International Association of Machinists. The board upheld Ward's ruling that the company had to reinstate nine employes which he found were discriminatorily discharged for union activity.

In a companion case, the board held that the "free speech" section of the Taft-Hartley law does not protect an employer who says he will close his plant if a union wins a bargaining election.

It set aside an election at the Craddock-Terry Shoe Corp., Farmville, Va., which the United Shoe Workers (CIO) lost. The board held that the employer's statements interfered with the employes' free choice of a collective bargaining representative.

McGrath, Smith On Sesqui Board

Senators J. Howard McGrath (D., R. I.) and Margaret Chase Smith (R., Me.) were named members of the National Capital Sesquicentennial Commission yesterday.

McGrath is chairman and Mrs. Smith is a member of the Senate District Committee. Their appointments were made by Vice President Barkley. He also announced these assignments:

Senator J. Allen Frear, jr., (D., Del.) to be a director of the Columbia Institution for the Deaf; Senator Paul H. Douglas (D., Ill.) to be a director of the Columbia Hospital for Women.

Rent Boosts Sought For 119 Apartments

A request for rent increases on 119 apartments at 532 20th st. nw., was filed yesterday by Arthur C. Katims, attorney for Bernard F. Saul, owner, with the District Rent Control Administration.

Present rents range from $40 a month for one-room units to $87.50 for three-room apartments. Proposed rents are from $44 to $96.

President Fishes While Congress Filibusters

Truman Films 'Cut' by Staff at Key West

By Marshall Andrews
Post Reporter

Key West, Fla., March 17.—Members of the White House staff today screened the newsreel film which caused a furor when it was made over the Little White House Monday and released all but 22 of 400 feet.

Assistant Press Secretary Eben Ayers said that the 200 feet each was made by movie men Tom Craven of Paramount, and Joe Vadala of NBC Television Newsreel. Ayers said 11 feet of film were cut from Vadalas' reel and 10 from the 200 feet exposed by Vadala.

Ayers denied that the process had been one of censorship. The steps which resulted in cutting the film, he said, "had been taken as a matter of security."

He said the portions cut out showed the relation of the Little White House to other buildings on the naval station here and the roads leading to the building. He declined comment, as Ross had done Monday, when it was pointed out that maps showing the exact location of the Little White House were available throughout Key West, as well as aerial photos of the entire installation made by the Navy.

Ayers said President Truman did not see the screening.

Mr. Truman will hold a news conference Friday morning at 9:30 a. m. He will take off for Washington Saturday morning at 11.

GOP May Base 1950 Bid On Truman-'Hill' Disputes

Boston, March 17 (AP).—The Republican national chairman said today GOP candidates may base their 1950 campaign on the issue of an "incompetent President" who can get nothing from a Congress controlled by his own party.

Commenting that the Eighty-first Congress has been in session for 2½ months, Representative Hugh Scott, jr., said that—aside from extending some Republican-passed laws—it has done little but raise President Truman's pay and give "Federal bureaucrats" a four-day holiday for his inauguration.

"One must admit that in the matter of improving Mr. Truman's personal privileges and tax exemptions the present Congress has worked with him as he promised," Scott said.

He said the recent Senate filibuster was brought about by Administration leaders as "a deceitful effort to find a good excuse not to keep their promises of a program of civil rights."

Scott described the President's program as a group of "proposed experiments in creeping socialism."

Hindenburg Son Guilty As Nazi 'Supporter'

Uelzen, Germany, March 17 (U.P.). Oskar Von Hindenburg, son of Germany's former President, was found guilty today of being a Nazi party "supporter." A German denazification court ordered Hindenburg to pay costs of the trial, amounting to 5000 west German marks.

FCC Allows Long Beach To Set Up Radar Station

The Federal Communications Commission yesterday authorized the city of Long Beach, Calif., to set up a radar station to control harbor traffic.

As a nonmilitary operation, it will be the first of its kind. Its purpose is to expedite the movement of ships under fog or other bad weather conditions.

The plan calls for a shore-based radar station capable of observing ships in San Pedro Bay and vicinity for a distance of 10 miles beyond the breakwater.

Filibuster's Cost Set at Half-Million

Senator Paul H. Douglas (D., Ill.) told his colleagues yesterday the filibuster had cost about half a million dollars.

Douglas estimated the cost at about $30,000 a day. An aide explained later the Senator's figures were based on the annual Senate budget, divided by the number of days in a year to get the daily cost of Senate operations.

It was emphasized a careful cost accounting would be needed to pinpoint the cost of the filibuster.

Meanwhile, the men who had to pay more attention than anyone else to what was actually said were still going strong—the official shorthand reporters of the Senate and their expert transcribers.

This 13-member team turned the filibuster into a verbatim printed record now close to 700 pages. At an estimated cost of $71 a page, given by Senator Douglas, the cost of the record alone ran close to $50,000.

AEC Plant Garbs Held Worthless In Atom Blast

New York, March 17 (AP).—Face masks, gloves and coveralls which allow no skin to be exposed are worn by atomic energy workers as protection against radiation, and their use in civilian defense is "obvious," an Atomic Energy Commission biologist said tonight.

Such apparel, however, would furnish little or no protection to anyone near an atomic explosion. Dr. John Z. Bowers indicated. He said that in the bombings of Hiroshima and Nagasaki, "there were 100 per cent deaths among those exposed to radiation within a half mile of the explosion line."

Bowers, deputy director of the AEC's division of biology and medicine, prepared his address for the National Society for the Prevention of Blindness.

He cautioned his listeners not to adopt an attitude of either panic or disdain toward the awesome force publicly unleashed less than four years ago.

Personnel Chief Hints Army Eyes Draft Extension

Maj. Gen. John E. Dahlquist, Army personnel chief, told Congress yesterday the Army may stand in greater need of a draft law in 1951 than now.

The present Selective Service Act expires in June, 1950. Dahlquist's testimony to a House Armed Services Subcommittee during hearings on a bill to boost service pay, was the first official hint the Army may seek to have it extended.

Inductions have been suspended since January because enlistments filled all vacancies. But Dahlquist told the subcommittee "we still would be drafting men right now" except for a cutback in the military budget which forced the Army to trim its manpower.

"When present enlistments start running out in 1951," he said, "we may again be up against a serious situation."

what President Truman favors. This was rejected, 80 to 7.

By Senate Majority Whip Francis Myers (D., Pa.)—An amendment shutting off debate on all matters by a constitutional majority of 49 Senators. Defeated, 69 to 17.

By Senator Forrest Donnell (R., Mo.)—A technical change designed to guarantee that cloture will be applied to motions to amend the Senate Journal. Defeated, 72 to 14.

The coalition compromise was offered in the form of a substitute for an across-the-board two-thirds rule by Senate Republican Leader Kenneth S. Wherry (R., Neb.) on behalf of 22 Republicans and 30 Democrats, mostly Southerners.

After Wherry's substitute was approved by a roll-call vote the Senate approved the thus-amended rules change by a voice vote.

Senate Administration leaders pledged an initial test of the new cloture rule on anti-poll tax legislation before July 31.

Senate Majority Leader Scott W. Lucas (Ill.) promised to give the proposed rule a real workout.

Republican leaders challenged Lucas' claim that the coalition rule "practically killed" civil rights measures for this session, and called for an early "test."

Promises Bill Before July 31

Lucas told the Senate:

"We will test it, Mr. President, we will test that rule after they (the coalition) fasten this rule upon us, and then, at that time, see who was right."

Lucas said an anti-poll-tax bill "will be here—it will be here before July 31."

"If the minority leader (Senator Wherry) is correct in his assertion . . . that the adoption of this measure practically insures the anti-poll-tax bill I hope he is right.

"But I want to see the 64 votes that it will be necessary to obtain under this rule before I will believe it. I know that it cannot be done."

Wherry invited the test in a speech charging Lucas "abjectly surrendered" to the filibuster.

"Stop talking about the substitute cloture rule being no good and come in here and give it a test," he told Lucas.

Driving for a vote, Lucas held the Senate in its ninth night session in 10 days.

Earlier, Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg (R., Mich.) told newsmen he did not concede the proposed cloture rule could be tested "exclusively on the basis of civil rights legislation, important as that is."

"The supremely important test from my point of view is to put the overwhelming majority of the Senate in a position to legislate in the presence of a national emergency," Vandenberg said.

He said he earnestly hoped the majority leadership would make an "immediate" civil rights test of the rule, however, since many wanted it applied to civil rights. He said he would like to see the test made on one of the civil rights bills that has already been thoroughly debated, such as anti-lynching.

Vandenberg argued that for the first time in history, under the new rule, cloture could be applied to a motion to call up an anti-lynching bill.

"I have no doubt whatever that two-thirds of the whole Senate would support this cloture," said the Michigan Republican. "In that event, the argument over the rule is ended."

Earlier, Senator Morse hinted at a deal between coalition Republicans and Southern Democrats to pass an anti-poll tax bill under the compromise rule.

During a speech by Senator Paul Douglas (D., Ill.), Morse asked Douglas if he had "heard a rumor that a part of the understanding that exists at least among some Senators, some Republicans and Southern Democrats, is that to save the face of some Republicans the Southern Democrats must agree to yield on some form of anti-poll-tax legislation in the Eighty-first Congress so Republicans can say: 'We did get an anti-poll tax law under the Wherry (cloture) substitute.'"

Douglas said he had not heard that, but he had read Republican forecasts that civil rights legislation could be passed under the compromise and thought it was either "foolish or false optimism or there was some such understanding."

During an exchange with Senator Richard B. Russell (D., Ga.), floor manager of the Southerners, Douglas denied the Democratic Party "is proposing to abolish segregation in the South." He said Southern Senators are "seeing ghosts."

Russell cited antisegregation features in the report of the President's commission on civil rights.

"That is not the program of the Democratic Party as adopted at Philadelphia," Douglas replied. He said the Democratic platform contained only four civil rights planks—anti-poll tax, anti-lynching, equal treatment in the armed forces and FEPC.

"We want to help the people of the South, black as well as white," said Douglas. 'I am not insisting that in social relations which men have with each other they must be forced to mingle. That is an individual matter, and, in many cases, a matter for local decision."

Russell thanked Douglas and told him:

"I do not think he and I are far apart in this case. We might have some differences in the approach, but in our basic feelings, we are the same."

Senator Robert A. Taft (R., Ohio), one of the 16 Republicans who voted with the Administration to uphold Vice President Barkley's ill-fated two-thirds cloture ruling last Friday, meanwhile announced his support of the compromise in a Senate speech.

Taft, like Wherry, predicted that "important features" of the civil rights program can be adopted under the compromise rule, if the Administration presses for them.

Taft said he would have preferred cloture by two-thirds of those voting, instead of by two-thirds of the entire Senate as the compromise provides, but argued there would be "no difference" between the two "if the majority can get all of their Senators to be present."

Senate Cloture Roll Call

Following is the vote by which the Senate approved last night a compromise change in its rules permitting the "yes" votes of 64 of the 96 members to curb debate on all business except discussion of a proposal to bring up a future rules change.

Independents' Sales Uneven For January

By S. Oliver Goodman

Nonchain retail stores in Washington reported a mixed sales trend for January as compared with the same 1948 month, but over-all dollar volume was about at the same level as last year.

This was reported last night by the Commerce Department in the Census Bureau's monthly survey of independents' retail sales. Eight fields showed increases, while nine were lower.

On the upside were: Restaurants, 3 per cent; department stores, 6 per cent; men's apparel, 6 per cent; family clothing, 19 per cent; furniture 10 per cent; motor vehicle dealers, 3 per cent; auto accessory, 6 per cent; filling stations, 12 per cent.

On the downside were: Grocery-meat stores, 7 per cent; women's wear, 3 per cent; shoe stores, 4 per cent; custom tailors, 2 per cent; lumber-building materials, 21 per cent; fuel and ice, 27 per cent; drug stores, 1 per cent; liquor stores, 5 per cent; jewelry stores, 13 per cent.

Unchanged were drinking places and hardware stores.

WHO'S WHO TODAY: John W. Reid has been elected treasurer of the Mergenthaler Linotype Co., succeeding George A. Schwaninger who retired after 25 years' service. Carl A. Hergrueter was elevated to assistant secretary and assistant treasurer of the Linotype firm . . . John B. Freeman, veteran in the investment business, has joined the Washington securities house of Robinson & Lukens . . . Frederic A. Deininger, formerly of Washington, has been appointed eastern division manager of the Estate Stove Co.

BANKERS' PARLEY: Chesapeake Chapter of Robert Morris Associates tonight will hear a discussion of the seriousness of a threat of possible Government operation of private banks. Dr. Richard S. Heflebower, member of the Brookings Institution staff, will be the speaker. Guests of honor will be Walter L. Rehfeld, national president of Robert Morris Associates, and Raymond W. Duning, national secretary-treasurer. Presiding at the dinner meeting in the Mayflower will be Roland T. Carr, who is head of the local chapter.

ODD LOTS: Michigan State Insurance Commission has approved a new scale of auto insurance rates for a large company which provides a 15 per cent cut on collision, fire and theft premiums on a Statewide basis . . . Rail freight loadings rose slightly to 709,326 cars in week ended March 12, up 3774 from previous week but still 10.9 per cent below corresponding 1948 period . . . More than 145 members and guests of Washington Chapter, National Association of Cost Accountants, heard Herman C. Heiser outline successful budgeting methods at a meeting Wednesday night . . . Auto output this week is estimated at 116,554 units, against 108,590 in previous week . . . Bache & Co. has issued a special survey of the television industry and individual companies' outlook.

DIVIDENDS: Directors of Security Savings & Commercial Bank have declared an extra dividend of 1 per cent in addition to the usual semi-annual dividend of 4 per cent on capital stock, payable March 31 to stock of record March 25. Two extras of $1 each were paid last year . . . Prince Georges Bank & Trust Co. has voted a semi-annual dividend of 6 per cent, an increase of 1 per cent, payable April 1 to stock of record March 31 . . . Security Storage Co. declared regular quarterly dividend of $1.25 a common share, payable April 11 to stock of record April 5.

BANK OUTLOOK: Based on the assumption that 1949 will be a year of moderate business recession, the volume of loans extended by banks will probably decline, according to Standard & Poor's Corp. The average return afforded by loans during 1949, however, will probably be higher than the average for 1948. Income from securities may be somewhat lower this year than in 1948, reflecting a moderate decline in the average volume of securities held. No more than a minor increase in expenses is expected for 1949. With loan income steady, investment income slightly lower, and other income largely unchanged, net operating earnings are estimated slightly lower than in 1948. Dividends have been conservative, however, and maintenance of current rates is assured in practically all cases, the survey concludes.

EARNINGS: Goodyear Tire & Rubber Co. reported net income of $30,595,518, or $10.25 a common share, for 1948, compared with $33,044,943, or $10.93 a share, in 1947. Other earnings statements follow:

Chicago Grain

Chicago, March 17 (AP).—While trends in grains were mixed, soybeans and lard suffered fairly sharp price markdowns on the Board of Trade today. Beans fell as much as 7 cents at one time and made only a small recovery from the day's lows. All lard contracts ended under $12.

Grains also slumped early in the session, but toward the close deferred wheat deliveries and all oats contracts made a good rally. Corn tended to lag. Throughout the latter part of the day there was persistent selling of May wheat against purchases of July.

Wheat closed ⅝ lower to 1¼ higher; corn was ¼ to ⅜ lower; oats were ⅛ lower to ⅜ higher; rye was 3 cents lower; soybeans were 1¾ to 6 cents lower, and lard was 23 to 35 cents a hundred pounds lower.

British and French Oppose Western German Shipbuilding

By Edwin Hartrich

Frankfurt, March 17 (NYHT).—An American proposal that western Germany be permitted to engage in uncontrolled shipbuilding is meeting with stiff opposition from the British and French at top-level diplomatic conferences in London, it was learned here today from authoritative sources.

By terms of the Potsdam agreement, defeated Germany is not allowed to produce or to operate ocean-going vessels. However, General Clay this week revealed that "prohibited and restricted industries of Germany are now under discussion between the governments and this does involve the question of German shipyards. What the decision will be I do not know."

British firms openly protest this danger of competition from a defeated enemy nation.

The State Department, a year ago, "suggested" that the ban on German shipping industry be lifted, it was learned here. German shipbuilding and repair would provide a much-needed source of dollars and other hard money, and thus lower American contributions to western Germany.

After months of futile discussion between the American, British and French military governors here, the matter was taken out of their hands three months ago to be discussed at governmental level. There is the possibility of a compromise in which Germany will be allowed gradually to reenter shipbuilding with certain Allied controls maintained for security reasons.

One in 8 Czech Students Removed in Red Purge

Prague, Czechoslovakia March 17 (U.P.).—The Comunist purge of Czech universities has so far eliminated one out of every eight students, a Ministry of Education spokesman disclosed today.

Figures from Bohemia and Moravia showed that 6370 students have been ousted by purge commission in the last three months. Another 2400 were eliminated when they failed to report for questioning.

No figures were available for Slovakia.

Reds Threatened Kin Here, Freed U. S. Soldier Says

Berlin, March 17 (AP).—The Russians today released an American soldier held captive for four days.

He was Pvt. Fred J. Jacobson, of Birmingham, Ala., who told U. S. officers the Russians had threatened his family in America if he failed to give information, but let him go when they found he had none of value.

At the same time it was revealed the Russians picked up three other soldiers last Sunday, but released them after five and a half hours. They were Pvts. Leonard G. Zembruske (18873 Albany), Detroit, Mich.; E. J. Cartlidge (1508 25th), Detroit, and Kenneth Whipple (520 Broad), Tonawanda, N. Y.

GOP Senators Criticize White House Contract

By the United Press

Some Republican Senators yesterday objected to the way in which the Administration plans to let $5,400,000 in contracts for repairs to the White House.

GOP members of the Senate Appropriations Committee complained that the contracts were to be awarded without public bidding and on a cost-plus-fixed-fee basis.

Public Buildings Commissioner W. E. Reynolds testified earlier that it probably would cost $100,000 in fees for two cost-plus contracts.

But Maj. Gen. Philip B. Fleming, Public Works Administrator, said plenty of contractors would take the job for a dollar.

GOP committee members agreed. Ferguson said that if the contracts can be granted for $1, "why should you pay $100,000?"

"Shirlington's My Shopping Heaven"

says Mrs. R. Lawton, of Fairlington

"Imagine, 48 wonderful stores, chock full of every conceivable kind of merchandise . . . and all concentrated within three city blocks. The tempo in Shirlington is so much more leisurely too. There's no pushing or shoving and I arrive home just as fresh and rested as when I left. They have three huge, free parking lots, you know, so even if I take my car along, there's no parking problem. What's more, I haven't had to make a single return trip to exchange anything since I started shopping in Shirlington. That's because I can take my time and get just what I want the first time. It's so pleasant shopping in Shirlington—and so sensible, too—is it any wonder I call it Shopper's Heaven!"

Mrs. Doyle Resigns

The announced intention of Mrs. Henry Grattan Doyle to resign from the Board of Education as of March 25 is dismaying. No single person knows Washington and its needs and problems better than she, and none has done more valiant work to build a better city. Yet Mrs. Doyle is active not in the political vineyard, but in the field of education! Her influence elsewhere has fanned out from this activity.

Mrs. Doyle has served continuously on the Board of Education since 1928, becoming its vice president three years later and its president in 1935, and has worked tirelessly to improve not merely the schools in this city but also the full area of educational activity. Her open mind is reflected in her willingness to examine the criticisms leveled by the Strayer report at the board rather than to dismiss them offhand. It seems to us most unfortunate on this particular count that her resignation should come now. Washington will sorely miss her competent leadership of the school system—unless, as we hope and urge, she reconsiders her resignation.

Behind The Times

The communication on another page from Mr. Leon H. Keyserling, vice chairman of President Truman's Council of Economic Advisers, says that our position in regard to authorization of stand-by controls over allocation and prices of scarce commodities has changed and that our shift of position seems to be based on the conclusion that the economic situation has changed radically since January.

To be sure, price declines since early January have, we believe, weakened the Administration's case for an extension of stand-by controls, although these might still be a useful weapon to hold in reserve against a possible flare-up of inflation. However, this was not the point of the editorial to which Mr. Keyserling refers. The criticism that brought forth his communication was directed at the President's assertion that only farm prices had dropped and metal prices are still spiraling. Evidence to the contrary is there for all to read in daily news reports. In an effort to bolster the President's position Mr. Keyserling cites an over-all index of metal and metal products that is not up to date, while omitting all mention of the declines in premium prices for metals and other indications of a softening of the metals-price structure, not reflected, as Mr. Keyserling well knows, in market quotations.

Of course, the present price trend is mixed. But there is no inconsistency, as Mr. Keyserling implies, between a Post news story headed "Commodity Prices Stage a Comeback" and the editorial in question that appeared the same day. The former dealt exclusively with agricultural prices and merely pointed out that prices of wheat, corn, cotton, etc., had recovered somewhat from the low levels of February 8, but were still far below recent tops. The editorial, on the other hand, discussed the current downward trend of certain nonagricultural prices and cited those declines as evidence that the President was not up to date on price developments.

The President's failure to look at the facts as well as Mr. Keyserling's attempt to minimize the significance of the declines that have recently occurred in prices of basic metals is most disquieting. Presidential requests for stand-by controls have been supported by this newspaper on the assumption that such controls would only be invoked in case of need as demonstrated by an objective study of business conditions and price trends. The assumption itself is now open to question. We agree heartily with Mr. Keyserling that the country needs "a discriminating and selective combination of policies to deal with the inflationary cast and the deflationary cast at the same time." But what assurance is there that policies will be discriminating when the President emphasizes the dangers of spiraling inflation at a time when prices of many industrial products are declining and workers being laid off, while one of his chief advisers, Mr. Keyserling, insists that industrial capacity expansion is required "far in excess of that indicated by current or revealed business plans"?

"Quite aside from the fact that actual demand now and for the foreseeable future far exceeds supply in those critical areas where capacity expansion is most needed, the proposition that our national output should be reduced downward to meet falling demand is a defeatist rejection of the central purpose of the Employment Act," according to Mr. Keyserling. Evidently he has already prejudged the issue raised by the President's proposal to Congress to conduct an investigation to determine the adequacy of productive facilities for making steel and other vital commodities. The Washington Post supported the request for an impartial inquiry of this sort, but it certainly does not concur with Mr. Keyserling's view that the best way to avert a depression is to expand productive capacity in the face of declining demand. Nor do we think it makes sense to advocate further wage increases as a means of keeping purchasing power high and forestalling a depression. We are still of the opinion that this kind of analysis is unrealistic—that it is designed to support demands for price controls and Government-financed expansion of steel and other basic industries.

Incidentally, we never said that Mr. Keyserling's argument for productive expansion rested on a failure to perceive that some demands were falling off. However, the Keyserling thesis that production "should not be limited by a confession of inability to find markets for what we can produce" is one that leaves us speechless.

Misshapen Pact

The thought-processes of our policy-makers in widening the North Atlantic Security Pact at this time to include Italy, Portugal, Denmark and Iceland are difficult to fathom. The invitation to this strangely assorted group distorts the pact geographically, weakens it militarily, undermines its integrity, and frustrates the hope of its evolution into a nuclear union of like-minded nations. The error of bringing Norway into the treaty was serious enough, for it broke up the unity of Scandinavia and gave Moscow a pretext for countermoves in the Far North. The error has now been compounded, and the pact has become misshapen before its birth.

We had supposed that this pact was based on Article 51 of the Charter, which recognized the right of individual or collective self-defense "if an armed attack occurs against a member of the United Nations." Yet Italy is not a member of the United Nations, though through no fault of her own, and the size and character of her armed forces are strictly limited by a peace treaty which we and the Soviet Union signed. And by what stretch of reasoning can Italy be classed as a North Atlantic power? Would it not be just as logical to include Greece or Turkey or Egypt or, for that matter, Poland and Russia, which front on the Baltic and Arctic as Italy fronts on the Mediterranean?

We do not entirely blame Secretary Acheson for including Italy. We suspect that he inherited a mistake made in December, when Mr. Lovett, as Acting Secretary, promised the Italians to "support" an application from them to join the pact. Next came hints from Rome that communism in Italy would be strengthened if the invitation failed to materialize. It was an effective piece of intimidation, but the treaty structure would be sounder today if the United States had not yielded under it.

The case of Portugal is different but no less grotesque. Portugal has shown itself genuinely peaceful and unaggressive, and helped us greatly during the war. Yet the lawyers in the State Department will have a hard time proving that Portugal, under her present dictatorship, is dedicated to "the defense of human rights and fundamental freedoms" which, according to the Vandenberg resolution of last summer, was the overriding reason for our making a treaty of mutual assistance under the Charter. As it stands now, with the addition of countries that do not belong in it, the treaty grouping offers no rational basis for growth into a genuine partnership and a buttress for peace.

In The Rough

Washington's public links golfers have finally turned up more than turf on what since 1921 has been almost a green gold mine for Mr. S. G. Leoffler. Protests that the conditions on the courses are not up to par, plus the needling of a rival private bidder for the golf-course concession, have now burgeoned into a four-way divot throwing contest over what normally would be a routine arrangement. But several aspects of this particular arrangement suggest that it is not quite normal.

The present contestants—outside of the golfers themselves, who are only beginning to count—include the S. G. Leoffler Co., which has held the concession continuously since 1921, the Cleveland Concessions Co., which would like to take it over, the District Recreation Department, which also wants to run the public courses, and the Interior Department, which makes the decisions. A whole sheaf of issues, ranging from greens fees to advance contract commitments and segregation policy, are also involved—and we mean involved.

As to the relative merits of the three current contenders for the concession we express no preference, nor as to the relative worth of the conflicting stories that come from them and from the Interior Department. The facts are few and hard to come by. Among those well established are that the Leoffler company, not counting the salaries drawn by Mr. Leoffler and his relatives, has taken an average annual profit in recent years of about $16,000 while improvements on the courses have lagged, and was able to advance over $50,000 to the Government, presumably out of accumulated profits, in return for a promise of contract renewal.

All this may be legal and technically proper. But it does not appear on the surface to be good management by the Interior Department. For that reason we believe a congressional investigation, as moved by Congressman Rivers, is in order.

Stir In Iran

The soft spots which might invite Soviet intrusion by way of a riposte to the Atlantic Pact are Finland, Iran and Yugoslavia. Moscow's propaganda mill is grinding out all manner of threats at the expense particularly of Iran. The ostensible cause of Russian ire is the Tehran government's outlawing of the Tudeh, or People's or Masses', Party. This is the pro-Communist Party which, with Muscovite aid, engineered the "autonomous" republic of Azerbaijan in northern Iran, which collapsed on December 16, 1946.

Iran's action against the Tudeh Party seems to have been due to fears of trouble arising out of the attempted assassination of the Shah on March 4. The would-be assassin was Fakhr Rai. Whether this man had an affiliation with the Tudeh Party appears to be in doubt. But he had a newspaper called Flag of Islam which, in addition to propagandizing anti-Western "doctrinal illuminations," is said to have been dedicated to "Communist enlightenment." This was probably enough reason for the Tehran government's action against the Tudeh Party.

It is disturbing to have this indication that the Tudeh Party had recovered some of its lost influence. In 1946 it almost got the coup de grace. This was due to the skillful blend of statesmanship and strategy with which, with the aid of good fortune, the Azerbaijan adventure was liquidated. The good fortune lay in the weak caliber of the Soviet puppet, Pishivari, and the steadiness displayed by the then government at Tehran. But credit goes mainly to American statesmanship and British arms. Mr. Byrnes was then Secretary of State. He defied the timorous counsel of those who thought that submission to the United Nations of the case against the Soviet would mean the strangulation of the infant world organization. Mr. Byrnes won a moral judgment against the Soviet Union, and even in far-away Azerbaijan they sang his praise.

However, strategy played as significant a role as statesmanship in the Iran settlement. Across the line dividing Iran from Iraq are the oil fields run and owned by the British. After Tudeh men had cut off northern Iran the party sent a lot of agitators into the oil fields and intimidated the workers into going on strike. The plan was to provoke an expansion of Tudeh influence till all Iran had been undermined. But the British immediately moved its Second Indian Armored Division to Abadan and put the oil fields under martial law. There was a fracas, and most of the agitators were killed. The upshot was that the Tudeh Party lost face throughout Iran. This affair, interacting with the force of world opinion expressed at Lake Success, was followed by the resignation of the Tudeh members of the Tehran Cabinet, and in turn led to the winding up of the separatist adventure in northern Iran.

Nowadays, the Soviet Union is immune to moral judgment. What will save Iran if another Muscovite attempt is made to penetrate the country will be a determination on the part of the Western allies to act. If the Russians were successful in pouring into the Indian Ocean, they would be well on the way to separate East from West, and even Mr. Nehru's recently expressed neutrality would suffer a jolt. The question is whether Western military activity in Iran is preventive or provocative; in our opinion it is provocative.

Thomas P. Gore

The career of Thomas Pryor Gore, the Oklahoman who became the first blind member of the United States Senate, was an inspiration to the afflicted. In childhood Mr. Gore lost the sight of both eyes in two successive accidents. It was an extraordinary mischance, but, far from embittering the young Gore, it seems to have released a store of grit and ambition which landed him in the front rank of the legal profession and then put him in the Senate. Nor did his success seem the result of conscious "compensation." If there were any compensation for the hard blow that life had dealt him, it came in the woman he married. Their life together was a long and enduring and enriching companionship. Gore had a serene disposition, a disposition that may indeed have been sweetened by his adversity. Nevertheless he had his own brand of ruggedness, expressed in his isolationist and free enterprise convictions. If, as Mr. Churchill has said, a man ought to be judged by his sincerity, Mr. Gore passed the test with honors. He never let the sweets of preferment influence either his judgment in the Senate or his appeal to the electorate. He was rejected by the people because he refused to allow himself to be swept along by the New Deal tide. Mr. Gore remained philosophical as he went back to his law practice. He was one of the best-read men in the Senate, an accomplished orator who had a Taftian knowledge of the facts about any matter on which he spoke, and he had a handsome presence. It is a question for the psychologists whether he would have attained his laurels without the spur of his disabilities.

"Lag On Point IV"

Your March 14 editorial, "Lag on Point IV," complains of unnecessary delay in carrying out President Truman's "bold new program" for the development of backward areas. Your criticisms seem to me to overlook certain important points.

Instead of being a simple matter, economic development is a highly complex process. Many factors are involved. Of these, neither technical aid nor foreign investment comes first. In most of the underdeveloped countries, much needs to be done through political and administrative reforms and through financial and other legislation before there can be any assurance of achieving the ends in view.

We should not forget that an essential objective of development is to raise the general standard of living in the countries concerned. In those countries, it is difficult enough to increase productivity, but it is vastly more difficult to provide for a just distribution of the product and the profits. As Maurice Hindus says in his book In Search of a Future: "Dressing up the countries in the Middle East with foreign loans while leaving the fellah (peasant) to his agonies is like putting rouge on the cheeks of a cancerous patient to give him the illusion of health."

Nor should we forget that technical aid and investment are not new instruments. They have been contributing to development for decades in most parts of the world, and for centuries in some.

The questions passed by the President to the State Department seem to be two: First, how can the ancient process of development be stepped up, coordinated, freed of abuses, and made to serve the general welfare? And, second, how can this be done while respecting the independence and sovereignty of the underdeveloped nations, without violating principles of democracy and free private enterprise, without departing from other American economic and trade policies, and with due regard for the functions of the International Bank, the United Nations, and other going concerns?

These questions are not easy to answer. If we think them through carefully before taking any "bold new" action, we shall probably go farther and faster in the long run. So in this instance let's not be too hard on the State Department.

Unemployment Worry

Perhaps there's a hint to why pollsters and editors went haywire on the November election in your Gallup poll of March 13 headed "Job Decline Is Worrying Public" and which leads off with "Growing recognition of unemployment as a major public problem . . ." The survey findings cited by Dr. Gallup do not support such evidence.

While it may be assumed that the public is "worrying" about each of the seven points mentioned, the figures themselves fail to give unemployment the top billing indicated by your headline and lead text. This, it seems to me, is a case of picking out a minor point and turning it into a major "worry" by inference, though not by fact.

For example, the high cost of living, which rated No. 1 "worry" in all seven geographic sections, is mentioned rather obscurely in the third paragraph. The housing shortage, which rates No. 2 in five areas and No. 3 in one, is not mentioned at all, that is, in the text.

On the other hand, unemployment, which rated No. 2 in one area (New England), No. 3 in five areas, and No. 4 in one, was played up, in my opinion, to a point where non-thinking readers would consider it the paramount public "worry."

"Communist Citizens"

Your editorial "Communist Citizens" seems rightly to question the distinction drawn in a bill introduced by Representative Walter to deprive members of the Communist Party of their citizenship due to mere membership.

Since membership in the Communist Party does carry implications of loyalty to a foreign government as possible opposition to the United States Government, each member might be required to make a sworn statement that there is no government which he or she would assist against the United States in case of war. It is entirely possible that a refusal to so swear might be construed as a renunciation of citizenship.

If it later appeared that a person was a proven member of the Communist Party and did not take this oath it could be deemed a renunciation of citizenship. Rather than force them into hiding, this might tend to force them into the open. Thus, it would be legal to be a member of the Communist Party but an oath not to aid any foreign power to defeat the United States in case of war would be required. READER.

Rent Control Promises

The present congressional discussion on rent control seems to overlook that the Democratic platform 1948 requests only a "continuance" of rent control. It does not speak of "strengthening rent control." Any recontrol of houses and apartments, already decontrolled, would violate the platform. So would the request for triple damages or the administrative protection of tenants. RICHARD A. KAHN.

"75-Cent Minimum"

Your editorial of March 13, "75-Cent Minimum," attributes to Representative Bailey an estimate that "about five million workers would benefit from the proposed increase in minimum pay, of whom 1½ million earn less than 40 cents an hour."

Estimates made by the wage and hour and public contracts divisions indicate that the bill approved by the House Labor Committee would make the minimum wage provision of the Fair Labor Standards Act applicable to about five million workers to whom it does not now apply. This would be the net result of extending the coverage of the act and narrowing or canceling certain exemptions.

Of these five million workers, about 900,000 are now receiving less than 75 cents an hour. Our most recent estimates indicate that of the 22,600,000 workers now under the protection of the minimum wage provision, about 1½ million are receiving less than 75 cents an hour.

I think these figures are important in setting the probable effects of the change in the minimum wage in proper perspective, both with respect to employment presently subject to the minimum and employment that would be made subject by the bill recently approved. I may add that large numbers of employes now within the scope of the minimum wage provisions and receiving less than 75 cents an hour are being paid only a few cents an hour less than that figure.

The effects of the minimum are not measured by the margin between 40 cents and 75 cents, but should be viewed in terms of the actual increase that will be required to bring these employes up to the 75-cent rate. As a matter of fact, the typical increase would probably be in the neighborhood of 10 cents an hour or less, not 35 cents.

I should like to take this opportunity to comment briefly on your view that "a step-by-step approach" would be desirable to allow time for essential adjustments. I am convinced that a 75-cent minimum is urgently needed and is immediately practical. This would merely adjust to current costs of living the goal set when the Fair Labor Standards Act was passed in 1938. Substantial evidence submitted to the House Labor Committee supports the view that a step-by-step approach to this modest minimum is not necessary.

Discordant Theme

Never in almost a half century's enjoyment of music in various cities of the United States and Britain have I heard anything remotely approaching the bombastic bedlam that has been unloosed upon Washington this past winter, all in the name, of course, of educating the musical menials of this metropolis in modern tonal art, and of encouraging esoteric composers capable, in reality, of little except caterwaulery and cacophony.

My dictionary—and it is a good one—tells me that music is "the art of making pleasing or harmonious combinations of tones." Therein lies my kick. If these composers, program arrangers, performers and critics, few of whom I ween, as far as fundamental phonics are concerned, would scarcely be able to distinguish between a Schubert modulation on the one hand and the scream of an approaching or receding locomotive whistle on the other, choose to fasten their nonsense upon a palpitating public, let them advertise their art for what it is.

Let them give the new art a new name. Inasmuch as they have turned the meaning of "music" inside out, let them turn the word itself inside out and call the new tonal art "sicum."

Segregated Blood

Dr. Mattingly's harsh letter anent Red Cross blood segregation makes my blood boil.

Race-prejudiced persons have an inalienable, democratic right to their superstitions, have they? By this same reasoning we may conclude that American children have a similar right to their childish ignorance—but surely we shall have no dispute as to the merits of compulsory elementary education. The reasoning is the same because the superstition that revolts at the thought of unsegregated blood is based on and born from one thing: Ignorance. Not ignorance on the part of the adult individual, perhaps, but surely ignorance in his youthful environment. JOHN P. BLOOM.

Washington Calling

By Marquis Childs

The Handout State

KEY WEST, FLA.—To charge President Truman with deliberately pushing the country into socialism, as some of his opponents are now doing, is to ignore the facts of his background and experience. The farm, the small town, the city political machine—these conditioned him and they have nothing to do with socialism.

The only kind of socialism he experienced is the socialism—if it can be called that—of the city boss who takes money from the rich for favors and gives part of it to the poor in benefits such as jobs, coal and food in bad times. That has been one of the chief functions of the city boss—to equalize somewhat the extremes of difference between rich and poor. In the process, of course, the boss, like any good broker, usually enriched himself.

This raises, it seems to me, a question that few have considered in relation to the far-reaching social welfare program advocated by the President in his campaign last fall and now before Congress. To install and make effective, for example, a Nation-wide system of health insurance is a large and difficult undertaking.

It implies a high degree of administrative capacity from the top down. Perhaps even more important, it implies a fairly literate citizenship; a people who will accept the limitations and abide by the rules in order that the professed goal of greater health benefits for all may be attained.

But whether in this phase of our political development we have that capacity is the question that should not be ignored. There is no use putting in a welfare system that looks beautiful on paper if in practice it is unworkable or nearly unworkable.

IN CERTAIN Southern States up to 60 per cent of all aged persons are receiving pensions out of State and Federal subsidies. That is a far higher proportion than could be justified by any valid system.

Here is the danger: We shall get not the social welfare state that both proponents and opponents talk about so glibly. Instead we shall get an official extension of the political handout, riddled by graft and favoritism.

Pointing in this direction is Representative John Rankin's bill to give all veterans at the age of 65 a pension of $90 a month, the cost estimated at 125 billion dollars over the next 50 years. That is the handout state with a vengeance.

Those who argue for the widespread extension of Federal security programs seem to assume that the pattern here of social insurance can parallel that of Great Britain. But regardless of whether this is desirable—I am not arguing that—it is doubtful that it would follow that line.

Britain is a small island with a homogeneous population. Years of education in the trade unions and other organizations have brought a wide understanding of the disciplines as well as the benefits of social welfare programs.

LET'S FACE the facts. The cancer of graft battening on misgovernment is such that it threatens to undermine even the ordinary functions of local administration in this country.

The California Commission on Organized Crime has announced after a careful and thorough study that the slot-machine syndicate is spending at least 400 million dollars a year for "bribery and corruption of public officials." That statement from a reputable and serious body is terrifying.

The Dwight Green machine in Illinois is reputed to have taken millions in graft, most of the individuals who pocketed it calmly ignoring the Federal income tax laws. That was probably the chief reason why Illinois voters turned to the Democrats with such huge majorities.

In my opinion this is one of the major weaknesses of the Truman Administration today. There are powers of the Federal Government that can be turned to cleaning up the graft and cracking down on the grafters. Since the resignation of the late Elmer Irey as head of intelligence in the Bureau of Internal Revenue scarcely a single large tax violator has been caught or convicted.

There is too much complacency in Washington; the easy assumption that new laws will cure old evils. Society Security is a recognized function of modern government. But that is something quite different from the handout whether by a boss or by a handout system enacted into law.

Wallace On The Radio

Your March 14 issue carried an article about a radio address made by a former Vice President of the United States, a man who only a few years ago was one of the best loved men in America. And now, today, that same Vice President is not allowed to speak in Danbury, Conn. His radio address at Norwalk, Conn., was followed by protests of those very persons who make such loud "to-do" about the lack of freedom in other parts of the world.

Under our Constitution, Mr. Wallace may still have his right of free speech, but trying to "collect" it is as difficult as being a Mendelian-Morganist geneticist supposedly is in Russia. The minister who sponsored Mr. Wallace's talk lost his radio time for so doing.

A Communication

Keyserling Defends Economic Platform

By Leon H. Keyserling

Vice Chairman, Council of Economic Advisers

I SHOULD like to comment on your editorial of March 14, "Behind the Times." Our country's vital interests require that men of good will, even when they disagree on some points, should strive to broaden their areas of agreement so that workable policies may be achieved. Exchange of views, including objective criticism, should contribute toward this end.

Your editorial surprised me somewhat, in view of an earlier editorial in The Washington Post on January 8, dealing with the economic report of the President. That earlier editorial seemed, indeed, to support the President's stabilization program, saying that "the President's program is based on expert analysis of economic conditions and prospects by advisers with a reputation for conservatism whose chief aim is to stabilize the economy of free enterprise. There is nothing revolutionary, nor even radical, in requests to extend existing emergency controls and to authorize resort to mandatory controls over allocation and prices of scarce commodities, to be employed only if needed."

True, there have been changes in the price situation since January. But these changes have not been as sensational as those attendant upon the commodity price break in early 1948 which led many to feel that all danger of rising prices was over; and reports thus far for March, 1949, show the wholesale price index for all commodities and for farm products in particular moving generally upward from the February level.

One may wonder whether, in view of ambiguous trends and outlooks, the stand which The Post took in January is not still valid today, or at least not sufficiently disproved to justify questioning the motives of those who still hold that the Government should be prepared on a standby basis for alternative contingencies.

YOUR ostensible change of position seems based upon the conclusion that the economic situation has changed radically since January. In this connection, you say that the President was evidently not abreast of price developments at a news conference on March 3, where you report the statement as having been made that "lead, zinc, iron, and so forth, are on the same old upward spiral."

At the time of the conference, the most recently reported facts, in brief, were these: "The price index (on a June, 1946, base) for lead was 262.2, for zinc 209.2, for iron and steel 153.6, for brick and tile 133.9, and for farm machinery 139.7, and each of these figures represented an all-time peak. For metals and metal products as a whole, the price index had reached an all-time peak in December, 1948, risen a bit higher in January, 1949, and risen still a bit higher, according to the last weekly report for February, 1949 (the full monthly report for February was not yet available).

According to figures made available after the conference on March 3, the commodities specifically enumerated above have not decreased in price except for lead, which is down 2 cents a pound but still about 30 per cent higher than a year ago. The wholesale price index for all commodities other than farm products and foods, which declined slightly in February from the January level, increased slightly during the first two reported weeks in March to within less than 1 per cent of the all-time peak.

ANY brief discussion of price trends is likely to be selective and not to present the whole picture. For example, on the same day that your editorial of March 14 cited some falling prices, both present and prospective, a feature story on the front page of The Washington Post was headed "Commodity Prices Stage Comeback."

My detailed analysis before the Joint Committee on the Economic Report on February 8 did not rest upon any claim of inflationary price developments throughout the economy or fail to take account of falling as well as rising prices. I said: "Continued and disproportionate price increases are now an even greater danger to the economy at a time when soft spots are beginning to show in other areas than they were when the pulse throughout the economy was uniformly strong . . .

"The economy contains a mixture of trends. Some prices are too high and rising too fast, and some activities are too hectic, and these have an inflationary cast. Other prices may be too low or falling too rapidly, and some activities are softening too much or not expanding rapidly enough, and this has a deflationary cast . . .

"We need a discriminating and selective combination of policies, to deal with the inflationary cast and the deflationary cast at the same time, and we should not look for the all-out one-way solutions called for during a period of galloping inflation or paralyzing deflation. The best time to act is before we are caught in either of these extremes, and if we act in time we can prevent them both."

I think that these comments are still valid today.

I HAVE been careful not to rely on forecasts which you consider "unrealistic." In my February 8 statement, I said: "The main task of economic policy under current conditions is to address ourselves vigorously to trends that have already appeared and facts that are already known. This gives us a sound foundation on which to stand, and if we are both clear and courageous in dealing now with the situation confronting us now, we may with some confidence rely upon our ability to deal with any changed situation which may appear later on. But if we underestimate the importance of what we know has happened, and overestimate the importance of what we think is going to happen, our perspective may become distorted and our decisions unsafe."

More careful scrutiny of my available statements should dissuade anyone from saying, as your editorial does, that my argument for expanding certain industrial capacities rests upon failure to perceive that some demand may be falling off. My view has been clearly stated that our national and international interests require us to make maximum use of our productive potential by working toward the effective operation of our distributive system, instead of allowing supply to scale downward toward a decreasing level of demand. The latter course is the road first toward a stagnant economy and then toward depression. Even in 1932, the supply satisfied the demand—but what was the level of demand?

YOUR editorial also undertakes to undermine my analysis by stating that my "record in helping to shape and administer regulatory legislation indicates a bias in favor of Government intervention." The only program that I have ever helped to "administer" prior to my present work was the housing program, which is not "regulatory"; and for at least 14 years The Post has vigorously supported the analyses I have voiced and the proposals I have advocated with respect to housing.

I was also closely interested, during the '30s, in proposed legislation relating to public works, social security, labor relations, and railway pensions, as well as in the Employment Act of 1946. Aside from the Labor Act, these measures were not "regulatory," and I believe that The Post now regards most of them as timely when proposed and now advocates the extension of some of them.

As for the Labor Act, most people now say that, while some abuses occurred in its administration and some amendments were needed from time to time, the original act represented in the main a step overdue when taken. Thus far, most of the trade papers which have censured my comprehensive statement before the Joint Committee on the Economic Report last month have shrunk from endeavoring to answer either the facts or the analysis presented, but instead have sought to prove that I am wrong by calling me a "New Dealer."

The Washington Post has, according to my observations, a 99 per cent good record of dealing carefully with the merits of public issues instead of using smear techniques, and I hope that it may make its record 100 per cent perfect by including me within the rule. I would be the first to welcome constructive criticism directed to the substance of anything I have said.

I recognize that all fair-minded analysts will not agree on the current necessity for the President's economic stabilization program, I hope that this communication may serve to dispel some of the misimpressions which may interfere with its objective consideration.

Treasury Gets $34,253.61 Book Royalty Payment

A royalty payment of $34,253.61 has been made to the United States Treasury by the McGraw-Hill Book Co., it was announced yesterday.

The royalty was earned on 1948 sales of the partly published Radiation Laboratory Series. The series is a report on the results of five years of wartime work on radar at the Radiation Laboratory of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

It was decided to have the series printed by a commercial firm rather than the Government Printing Office so the research information could be made available to thousands of scientists and engineers.

McGraw-Hill estimates that the Government will benefit by about $430,000 through royalty payments, savings on the cost of printing and the corporation tax on the company's profits.

Matter Of Fact

By Joseph and Stewart Alsop

Belgrade: New Cockpit

IT IS time to begin watching very closely what happens to Marshal Tito. Many signs, including two probable attempts to assassinate Tito, suggest that the Kremlin is going all out this spring to stamp out the heresy in Yugoslavia. Tito himself has recently taken certain steps of major import, such as quietly closing the Greek-Yugoslav frontier. And here in Washington, the National Security Council has recently reached a vital decision as to American policy on Yugoslavia.

Taking these developments in order, the important fact about the Kremlin's efforts to liquidate the Yugoslav dictator is that they rather humiliatingly failed. One is said to have occurred last August, when a bridge was reported dynamited in the path of Tito's heavily armored motorcade while he was touring Slovenia.

The second experiment in medieval diplomacy was supposedly foiled in October, when it is stated that seven soldiers of Tito's guard, who had been suborned by Kremlin agents, were detected and shot. Both of these stories are accepted as authentic in high quarters.

The failure of direct action by their agents has probably influenced the Politburo's planning for its drive against Tito this spring, about which the whole Balkans are already buzzing. The drive is expected to take four forms.

There will be great efforts to detach from Tito subordinate figures in his government. The blockade of Yugoslavia will become absolute. The propaganda barrage of the Cominform will be stepped up by many decibels. And something like an overt territorial attack will be made, by setting up a puppet "Free Macedonia" theoretically including the region of Yugoslavia with predominantly Macedonian population.

TITO'S DANGER is evidently not being laughed off by the Yugoslav leader himself. He has already somewhat eased his austerity policy and taken certain other measures to assure himself of his people's loyalty. And he has recently opened the way for easier dealings with the West, by the aforementioned unannounced closing of the Greek frontier.

It is a deeply significant development that the mountainous frontier between Greece and Yugoslavia should now have been blocked with barbed wire by the Yugoslavs. The Greek Communists, whose main bases were formerly in Yugoslavia, are now denied access to them, and are interned if they pass the border. General Markos, their deposed leader, is now known to have been thrown out for his closeness to Tito, and it is even said he has been given comfortable asylum in Belgrade.

The Kremlin is doing everything possible to build up an alternate base for the Greek guerillas in little Albania, both by shipping in supplies to the Albanian ports, and even by establishing a Russian air lift to Albania across Yugoslavia. But Albania is a poor base, partly because much of the country is in open rebellion against the Kremlin stooge, Enver Hoxha. And with the Yugoslav frontier closed, the Greeks may have a chance of setting their house in order this spring.

Meanwhile, Tito's recent move plainly hints he is aware he cannot survive in a state of permanent hostility toward all other powers. And this gives added significance to the recent action of the National Security Council. Hitherto, American practice has been to let the Yugoslavs buy, under the table, certain completely essential supplies like oil. Otherwise, little practical distinction has been made between Belgrade and Prague, Warsaw and the other satellite capitals. Particularly, export permits for badly needed industrial equipment have been refused, arousing deep resentment among the more anti-Western Yugoslavs.

THE NEW American decision was proposed by the State Department and approved by the National Security Council despite some Defense Department opposition. Its first effect will be to make export permits freely available to Yugoslavia. But Yugoslavia's hard currency and other liquid resources are severely limited. Thus this new freedom to buy goods in the West will almost certainly be less useful to Tito than the Security Council's recognition that he has a peculiar status.

Roughly speaking, the fact that he is still a Communist dictator is considered to debar him from such cooperative Western enterprises as the Marshall Plan and the Atlantic Pact. But the fact that he has boldly declared his independence of the Kremlin is considered to give him the right to distinctly sympathetic treatment if he wishes to do business with the West. For instance, when and if these become necessary and are desired, loans to Yugoslavia may well be available on favorable terms. Yet there will be no attempt to interfere in any way in Yugoslavia's internal affairs.

The aim of course is to keep an independent Yugoslavia in being, which is an objective of maximum importance. The effect, equally of course, is necessarily to increase this country's role in European politics. It is a vital development—and one which seems astonishingly remote from the rather rancid, talkative "normalcy" of present-day Washington.

Steel Nationalization Due for Commons Vote

London, March 17 (AP).—A House of Commons standing committee today ended discussion of the Labor government's bill to take over the iron and steel industry and sent it back for a final vote.

The committee's action in effect killed 44 proposed amendments, 23 of them by opposition Conservatives.

Bolling Base 'Crash Ward' Is Paying Off

By N. S. Haseltine
Post Reporter

A 16-bed "crash ward," ever ready to receive multiple casualties from aircraft smashups, is in operation at Bolling Air Force Base here.

Functioning on a standby status, the disaster unit is credited with saving at least three lives that hung in the balance by fast, skilled medical care, station hospital surgeons said.

The three were those most critically hurt in a landing crackup at Andrews Air Force Base on the rain-shrouded night of January 23. Both pilot and copilot were killed outright in the smash, and five passengers, severely injured, were sped to Bolling's "crash ward," 14 miles away.

The January crash was the second multiple injury accident at Andrews Base that sent five victimes there. Last Thanksgiving Eve, five other injured were pulled from the wreckage of a C-45 light cargo plane and taken to Bolling. A light bomber, landing in rain and fog, hit the C-45 as it taxied on the Andrews Base runway.

Two men were beyond medical help in that accident, too, but the five still living required lifesaving care. They got it at Bolling, in transfusions, surgery, shock and fracture therapy concentrated on them in the special ward. All lived.

Twice before in the 18 months the "crash ward" has been in existence injured men have been sped from runway accidents to the waiting beds. But in both instances the injuries were less serious and ordinary operating room facilities of Bolling's 175-bed station hospital could have cared for them, surgeons said.

Creation of the "crash ward" is credited to Maj. Howard R. Lawrence, flight surgical chief at Bolling station hospital, who also conceived and designed a mobile operations cart to speed surgical care when even seconds are precious.

Major Lawrence, a pilot himself, has advocated such special wards at all airport facilities, military or civilian, where multipassenger planes take off and land in normal service. Just the knowledge that they are there, he said, is worth their cost as "a consolation factor to a pilot in a jam."

The "crash ward" at Bolling occupies one wing of the winged-corridor station hospital. Double doors open to an ambulance driveway to speed the transport of stretcher cases to the waiting beds.

Within the ward are kept all the equipment and supplies for shock and burn therapy and surgical care, fracture beds for broken bodies, plasma and plasma stands for immediate infusions, oxygen equipment for failing lungs, and a suction machine to draw out blood or other fluids from breathing channels.

The suction machine, surgeons said, is often needed for victims of plane crashes. Fractured jaws and other head injuries that cause a patient to literally suffocate in his own blood unless it is quickly withdrawn from the windpipe.

Detachable blood plasma stands are readily mounted to attachments at the foot of each bed in the "crash ward." Such position was chosen, the surgeons said, since most aircraft accident victims sustain their injuries in the head, shoulders, arms and chest, and transfusions of blood or blood plasma are generally administered at ankle sites.

The special operations cart, described by its designer as a double-Mayo table, roughly resembles an ordinary kitchen table compartmented to its rollers with drawers and shelves. At one end, swivel rods hold "blood pails" and a plaster bucket for on-the-spot mixing of plaster for casts.

Both sides of the operations cart are the same, with surgical supplies identically packed in corresponding drawers, permitting one surgeon or more to work with a minimum amount of interference.

With only two casualties needing prompt attention, the operations cart is wheeled between their two beds, the surgeons explained. In greater emergencies, the cart is rolled to center aisle between the ward's two rows of eight beds, and surgeons share their sides of the amply supplied cart.

Sole adjunct to "crash ward" care that must be brought in at the time of the emergency are the trays of surgical instruments. These are brought over from the hospital's operating room supply cases, already thoroughly sterilized and ready for immediate use. They are set on the flat tabletop of the cart.

The multiple-service operations cart was designed by Major Lawrence after an emergency visit to a small hospital in a Maine town nearly two years ago. While there to treat the daughter of an Army officer, he saw the hospital's fracture cart, for bedside splinting and felt that something similar could be worked out for mass casualties that could not be accommodated with normal operating room facilities.

Denham Won't Drop Protest On T-H Charge

By The Associated Press

Robert N. Denham, general counsel of the National Labor Relations Board, yesterday refused to drop a complaint that union hiring halls for West Coast waterfront workers violated the Taft-Hartley Act.

Both Harry Bridges' longshoremen and the West Coast Waterfront Employers Association had asked Denham to drop the charges.

The union and employers joined in urging at a long conference with Denham yesterday afternoon that the complaint—originally filed by the waterfront association—be dismissed.

The current contract, providing for the preferential hiring of union members through the hiring hall, was written at the conclusion of last September's strike. The strike broke out September 2 as the 80-day Taft-Hartley injunction obtained by President Truman expired.

Denham said he would proceed with his plan to ask NLRB trial examiner Irving Rogosin at a hearing in San Francisco April 5 to reopen the record in the complaint case so he could insert the new contract as further evidence of Bridges' violation.

The Taft-Hartley Act outlaws the closed shop. Denham told a reporter after the conference that the contract contains all the closed shop provisions which the act prohibits.

"We are glad that people agree, but when they agree to do something illegal it kind of puts the enforcing officer on a spot," Denham said.

"As far as we are concerned there is nothing for us to do but to pursue the complaint. So long as the law remains unchanged and I am the enforcement officer that has got to be my position.

"When and if Congress wants to change that law, that will be different," he added.

British Stay In Honduras Irks Diplomat

Havana, Cuba, March 17 (U.P.). Guatemalan diplomat Jorge Garcia Granados said today that continued occupation of British Honduras by Britain is an "affront by piracy" to the entire American Continent.

Addressing the third plenary session of the American Commission on Dependent Territories, Garcia Granados said:

"Guatemala has exhausted all resources to make England honor its word, pledged in solemn international treaties, and has resorted to all peaceful means prescribed by international law for the settlement of disputes among the states."

The British West Indies Cultural Association in a letter charged the commission with assuming the right to decide the future of several peoples without even consulting them.

The commission met here Tuesday to prepare a report on the situation of British, French and Dutch possessions in the Western Hemisphere with a view to their eventual independence.

Civil Service Seen Adhering to Hoover Employe Reforms

The Hoover personnel recommendations won't be blindly opposed by the Civil Service Commission as some people assume they will be.

In fact, it's a good bet the commission will surprise some folks by going down the line for employe reforms which will be similar to the Hoover suggestions. Top officials say the commission report will be constructive and forward looking on most issues.

The report, it's rumored, will recommend sweeping changes in the examining system, and furthermore, it will indorse the principle of decentralized hiring of some employes by the agencies. After all, a majority of the new employes today are hired by the agencies under Civil Service standards.

On salaries, the commission can be expected to seek the authority to fix and adjust salaries within a floor and a ceiling laid down by Congress. Also, the commission will indorse an overhaul of the efficiency rating system.

The Federal Diary will appear on Saturdays as well as other days in the week starting tomorrow.

The commission's comment on the Hoover personnel suggestions won't go to the White House until next week.

WHITE HOUSE: The legislative slow-down in Congress is having a direct personal effect on the President and his family. The longer it continues the longer it will be before the President and his family can move back into the White House. The repair work on the White House has been suspended because of the lack of funds. It won't be resumed until Congress votes the money for it.

PUZZLED: Since this is the week of the income tax deadline, it's appropriate to use the following poem which a taxpayer sent Ed J. O'Leary, an Internal Revenue deputy collector, at Seattle, Wash.:

Recently I sent to you
My tax return on W-2.
I asked you to figure it the cheapest way,
And mail me a refund without delay.

They withheld from me a lot of jack,
And now I want most of it back;
As a matter of fact, I've already spent
The refund expected from the Government.

But in your letter you send no dough.
Instead, you stated that I owe
A tidy sum that I must pay
Within 10 days from today.

Surely there must be some mistake.
How about deductions that I can take?
So just forget that 1040-A;
Try to figure it some other way.

PROGRESS: The House Civil Service Committee yesterday okayed the Murray bill to give married women the same survivor retirement rights as men. Also approved was the Miller bill to allow the retirement of employes who had 25 or more years of service and who were laid off since July 1, 1945.

A subcommittee headed by Representative Carlyle (D., N. C.) was appointed to study another Murray bill which would grant annual and sick leave on a proportionate basis to regular part-time employes such as charwomen. The bill also would relieve the charwomen of paying for leave granted to them. The three Civil Service Commissioners were introduced to the committee members.

PEOPLE: The Senate has confirmed Walter Lee Dunham to be an RFC board member; David J. Coddaire as a member of the Maritime Commission, and Frank C. Squire for a 5-year term on the Railroad Retirement Board . . . Edward J. Shaughnessy has been appointed New York director of the Immigration and Naturalization Service. He has been special assistant to Watson Miller . . . Arthur Flemming will speak on the Hoover Commission's work tonight at an Advancement of Management dinner at 6:30 o'clock in the Agriculture cafeteria.

NEWSLETTER: The third edition of our Federal Employe Newsletter for Government workers outside of this city is in the mails. I'll be glad to see that sample copies are sent to field employes. Just send me their names and addresses in care of The Washington Post.

Land Parcel Acquisition Approved by Park Board

Total Is $300,000; Acre Once Planned For Nazi Embassy Will Be Playground

Land acquisitions totaling slightly more than $300,000 were approved by the National Capital Park and Planning Commission yesterday.

Largest single acquisition was an approximately $83,000 parcel of land formerly owned by the German Embassy on S st. and Bancroft pl. across from 23d st. nw.

The land, which had been seized by the Alien Propery Custodian at the outbreak of World War II, had been acquired by the Germans a short time earlier as a site for a new embassy building to replace the old one on Highland ter. between 14th and 15th sts. nw.

Will Be Playground

Acquisition of the tract, about an acre, was announced at the opening session of the two-day meeting of the National Park and Planning Commission by its land-purchasing officer, Col. Vincent E. Stack, U.S.M.C., retired.

The property has been assigned to the District Commissioners, who will turn it over to the Recreation Board for playground operation.

Among other acquisitions were:

An additional 8000 square feet on the north side of 25th street along Rock Creek drive for Francis Junior High School playground;

Seven additional parcels for the Buchanan recreation center in southeast Washington on E street between 12th and 13th sts.;

Twelve pieces of improved property to add to Cardozo playground, between Rhode Island ave., R, 9th and 10th sts. nw.

The NCPPC also said that the House of Mercy, an Episcopal Church institution, had deeded a small triangle of land to straighten out Rock Creek Park highway in neighborhood.

More Swimming Pools

The Commission approved the location of three proposed, enclosed swimming pools at Randall Junior High School, Taft Junior High School and the Reno Recreation Center. The pools would be operated by the Recreation Board.

The commission recommended against a proposal to place temporary buildings for State, commercial and industrial exhibits at the Sesquicentennial exhibition on the Washington Monument Grounds and suggested that they be located at the old Polo Grounds.

The Commission also confirmed its approval of location of a Mellon memorial fountain on a triangle between Pennsylvania and Constitution aves. and 6th st. nw., and authorized submission to the Board of Eduction of two studies for the new Cardozo High School site, one to the south and the other to the west of the Banneker recreation center at Georgia ave. and Howard pl. nw.

In a discussion of the development of John Marshall pl., the Commission proposed that the street with its trees be retained for through traffic and two service roads be placed alongside of it, the roads to run from D st. to Pennsylvania ave. to serve the municipal buildings.

Two Irish Societies Banquet in Honor of St. Patrick

HIBERNIANS had as their guest, Archbishop Patrick A. O'Boyle (left), last night at their St. Patrick's banquet in the Mayflower Hotel. He is welcomed by Martin A. Cook, president of the John Barry division of Hibernians

FRIENDLY SONS OF ST. PATRICK members passed out shamrocks flown from Ireland to guests at their banquet, also at the Mayflower. Dr. Fred R. JUDGE FETES COPS—It was a great day not only for the Irish, but for members of the Alexandria Police Department who were entertained yesterday by Police Court Judge James R. Duncan (right) at his annual St. Patrick's Day barbecue. Police Pvt. Andrew S. Benarick (left) and Alexandria City Treasurer Roger C. Sullivan are served barbecued pork. More than 200 attended

Men of Irish blood mingled in brotherhood here yesterday to honor their patron St. Patrick in celebrations and ceremonies keyed to hope for world peace.

The wearin' o' the green was executed with typical exuberance, yet tempered with a note of sobriety, as the Friendly Sons of St. Patrick and the Ancient Order of Hibernians concluded their day of joy with banquets at the Mayflower Hotel.

Sean Nunan, the Minister of Ireland, was made an honorary member of the former society. He was presented a resolution of the Commodore John Barry Division of the Ancient Order of Hibernians extending "warmest congratulations to the government and people of Ireland on the momentous occasion of the reestablishment of the Irish Republic."

The resolution expressed "the earnest hope that the early territorial reintegration of Ireland will bring to fulfillment that gallant fight for freedom and liberty so dear to the hearts of all Irishmen."

The Minister, deploring the "infamous partition of our native land," said it is "a source of great comfort and strength to know our kith and kin in America are with us in this great struggle."

Before the Friendly Sons of St. Patrick, Governor Paul A. Dever, of Massachusetts, praised the patriotism of Americans of Irish blood—both in war and in peace.

He quoted from the records to show that men of Irish blood predominated in the Army of General George Washington. Washington himself accepted membership in the Friendly Sons of New York, saying it was "a society distinguished for the firm adherence of its members to the glorious cause in which we are embarked."

Guests included Chief Justice Fred M. Vinson, House Speaker Sam Rayburn, and Secretary of Agriculture Charles F. Brannan. Dr. Fred R. Sanderson, president of the society, presided. The invocation was said by Msgr. John S. Spence, director of education for the Archdiocese of Washington, and the benediction by the Rev. Dr. C. Leslie Glenn, rector of St. John's Protestant Episcopal Church.

The players of the Friendly Sons of St. Patrick presented a musical, "Sweet Katie O'Connor," written by Thomas W. Brahany and produced by Denis E. Connell.

Governor Dever, in tracing the fighting record of the Irish in America, quotes from the records of a hearing in London by the House of Commons in 1779. Joseph Galloway, an American who had sided with the English King, was asked about the make-up of the Revolutionary Army under Washington.

Dever quoted Galoway as saying: "They were scarcely one-fourth natives of America—about one-half Irish, the other fourth English or Scotch."

Speaking of those of Irish blood in the United States today, Dever said:

"Among them we find no diluted Americanism, no preachers of hate or borers from within. To them our American system represents the full fruitation of free institutions and the democratic ideal, and they neither know nor will permit any other loyalty.

"They need no one to tell them of the horrors of tyranny, for their forbears in the old land drank that bitter cup to the lees."

Representative Michael Mansfield (D., Mont.) joined in the tribute to Americans of Irish extraction in his talk before the Ancient Order of Hibernians.

"The fact that descendants of various countries can meet to help celebrate the patron saint of another country shows a unity and a tolerance which speaks well for this Nation of ours," he added.

Our one concern now is "the welfare of our country," he said. "And unity, patriotism, loyalty, love of justice and equality—all characteristics of our forebears—are essential to this welfare."

Love of democracy is a vital part of an Irishman's makeup, he continued, and added that it was "probably because Ireland's heritage has been a struggle for representative government."

The religious spirit of the Irish was emphasized at the start of the day, as members of both societies attended a solemn pontifical mass at St. Patrick's Church, 10th and G sts. nw.

The Most Rev. Amleto Giovanni Cicognani, Apostolic Delegate to the United States, presided and the Most Rev. Patrick A. O'Boyle, Archbishop of Washington, was the pontificant.

"If the history of Ireland teaches us anything, it is the lesson that the true faith of a people cannot be destroyed by violence and persecution," the Most Rev. Lawrence J. Shehan, Auxiliary Bishop of Baltimore, said in his sermon.

Bishop Shehan compared the sufferings of the church in Ireland with the sufferings of the church in Eastern and Central Europe today. He asserted that the trials of Cardinal Mindszenty, Archbishop Stepinac, and the Bulgarian Protestant ministers emphasize the fact that "war directed from Moscow is aimed at all forms of religion and at the very name of Christ."

"We ask our great patron to present to Almighty God our earnest prayer first for His continued guidance of Ireland but especially for His merciful protection of our brethern in many lands who now endure persecution and the sufferings which were once the lot of our forefathers," he concluded.

President Truman joined in observance of the great day for the Irish and sent "sincere good wishes" to Ireland in a message to President Sean T. O'Kelley.

"It gives me great pleasure on this national holiday of Ireland to convey to your excellency and to the Irish people the hearty felicitations and sincere good wishes of the people of the United States."

Much of the short session in the House of Representatives was devoted to paying tribute to St. Patrick. Green carnations were distributed by Representative Michael J. Kirwan (D., Ohio).

After Tax Fine

Texan Raps Virginia as Impoverished

A Texas Congressman slapped at Virginia as "financially and spiritually impoverished" because Arlington County fined his secretary $50 for failing to file a 1947 Virginia income tax return.

The Congressman, Representative Ed Gossett (D., Tex.), said:

"The State of Virginia has fallen a long way since the days of her competence and prestige.

"In fining my secretary, Arlington County officials seek to serve both their pocketbook and their ego. Texas would never treat a Virginian in such a manner.

"We gladly offer asylum to Virginians who seek better land and better neighbors.

"Even a Virginian who may travel or sojourn in Texas will not be abused."

When asked for comment on the Texan's remarks, Representative Howard W. Smith (D., Va.) coolly remarked:

"T'aint my dawg fight."

The fined secretary, Mrs. Stella Merrill of 2305 24th st. se., insists she was only a temporary resident in Virginia in 1947 and so immune to taxation there.

Tried in absentia by a five-man jury in Arlington Circuit Court, she has 15 days to file an appeal or pay the fine, according to the assistant Commonwealth's attorney, Paul Brown.

Murder Trial Halts to Allow Weapon Tests

Testimony of an FBI ballistics expert in the District Court trial of Lawrence Goodall, 24, for the slaying of a Southeast druggist last October 12 was halted yesterday to permit further tests on the murder weapon.

The firearms expert, Robert M. Zimmers, was given the .45-caliber automatic and a brass cartridge casing, over defense objections, after the prosecution asked if he could make further tests without injuring the casing. To certify that the articles returned today are the same ones, a deputy marshal was assigned to observe the tests.

The defense objected to removal of the weapon and casing, which had been placed in evidence, from the court's custody.

Goodall is charged with the first degree murder of Druggist Nathaniel Johnson during a holdup at the latter's place of business at 3rd and F sts. se.

Earlier, Homicide Squad Capt. Jeremiah Flaherty told how Goodall was identified in a police lineup by a woman customer in the store at the time of the killing and by a 16-year-old boy who was about to enter.

Second-Degree Verdict Given In Slaying

Mrs. Alice Lucille Logan, 23, of 727 Quebec pl nw. yesterday was found guilty of second-degree murder in the slaying of her lover last November 11.

The verdict, which calls for a sentence of up to life imprisonment, was returned by a District Court jury of eight men and four women at 6 p. m. after 3½ hours of deliberation. Emery L. Salomon, 1806 C st. se., was jury foreman.

The woman, a former waitress, admitted on the witness stand that she shot her erstwhile sweetheart, William Green, 35, postal employe and former boxer, but asserted it was in self-defense.

Green died with three slugs from a .32-caliber pistol in his body after the shooting in the apartment at 654 Morton st. nw., once shared jointly by the couple.

Prosecutor Cecil Heflin presented evidence that after Green was shot once he ran out of the apartment followed by Mrs. Logan who shot him twice more.

In bringing in a second-degree verdict the jury apparently did not believe the killing was premeditated—main element in a first degree murder conviction.

The defendant was represented by Attorneys John H. Wilson and Scotti Mayo. Federal Judge Henry A. Schweinhaut did not indicate when he would pronounce sentence.

Bill Would Ban D. C. Public Segregation

Representative Arthur G. Klein (D., N. Y.) yesterday introduced a bill aimed to eliminate segregation in District public schools and other public services.

The measure would direct the superintendent of schools to administer the school system on a nonsegregated basis on or before September 1, 1951. The bill also would deny licenses to all public gathering places, accommodations and services which follow segregation policies.

He's Composer

Kindler Lets Out Secret At Farewell

By Paul Hume

Hans Kindler, former conductor of the National Symphony Orchestra, let musical Washington in on a well-guarded secret shortly after his final concert Wednesday night.

According to Kindler, he followed in the path of such well-known musicians as Fritz Kreisler and Harl McDonald in writing and performing music under an assumed name. It all centers around a piece called "Pacific Nocturne" which was programmed by the National Symphony October 15, 1947.

According to programs of that date, the music was by Philip Henry, "a young Navy lieutenant." Now Kindler discloses that he wrote the music himself because he "disliked imposing his own name on the concert-going public."

Composition Was Praised

At the time Kindler played his "Pacific Nocturn" this writer described it as "a genre piece, evoking gentle memories of Ibert's Ports of Call", and said: The music was given the most purely beautiful orchestral playing of the evening. Lush scoring in the manner of French composers of the Debussy-Ravel school never fails of effect, particularly in so moving a performance."

When Kindler conducted the Philadelphia Orchestra in January, he included his own work, still under assumed authorship. Following that concert, Max de Schauensee, critic of the Evening Bulletin said: "This bit of impressionism is quite derivative, its sources being apparent. It is pretty, but its mood meanders and says little."

Linton Martin, writing in the Philadelphia Inquirer said: "Philip Henry's 'Pacific Nocturne' is engaging and atmospheric but negative in effect. It is suitably and expertly scored, but the youthful composer seems haunted by Debussy in passages of pastel impression."

A Reply to Unfavorable Criticism

Washington had relatively few opportunities to judge Hans Kindler, the composer. Writing under his own name, he has been represented chiefly in transcriptions of music by older composers such as Bach and Handel.

Kindler said he adopted the name of Philip Henry partly as his reply to unfavorable newspaper criticism of an earlier work. When an orchestral scherzo of his, called "Hop-Frog", was played in April, 1947, this writer said: "Hop-Frog is unfortunately banal in echoing Paul Dukas' Sorcerer's Apprentice. It is as if the apprentice had found an Oriental master with a one-track mind. Two simple themes are repeated too often with rich coloring which quickly palls."

Other Washington critics approved of the work, while Weldon Wallace in the Baltimore Sun described it as "impish and bizarre," adding: "The work is orchestrated not in large blocks of tone but in racy dashes of color from a variety of instruments. It suggests something of the manner of Dukas and the spirit of Berlioz. A skillful and pleasing score."

While "Pacific Nocturne" is a gentle piece of mood portraiture, highly derivative, it remains, in our opinion, the best piece of writing we have heard from Kindler. We hope that if it is published, it will bear its composer's rightful name.

New Conflict Rises at D. C. Rent Hearing In Senate

Sen. Frear Hears 25 Testify; Devine Seeks to Have Co-op Clause Retroactive

By Edward F. Ryan
Post Reporter

New conflict arose yesterday in a Senate hearing on the proposed 15-month extension of District rent control, and on the idea of limiting cooperative apartment sales.

Senator J. Allen Frear, jr. (R., Del.), chairman of the Senate District Public Utilities Subcommittee, ended the hearing after 25 persons testified. He indicated personal support for closely following the terms of the rent bill that is expected to clear the House Monday to speed final action before March 31, expiration date of the present District rent control law.

Frear at Broadmoor

One witness, Attorney William J. Devine, said Senator Frear now occupies an apartment at the Broadmoor, whose cooperative sale last year figured in testimony of several witnesses. Frear said he rented one apartment for two months, then rented the one he now occupies from a Marine Corps officer who has been assigned out of town for six months.

The House District Committee has recommended in the bill slated for Monday's House action that after March 1, 1949, 65 per cent of tenants in occupancy be required to join a cooperative before it can take over their building. Unless 65 per cent joined, tenants would be protected in their occupancy during the life of the rent act. Those who bought cooperative apartment units before March 1, 1949, would have the right to obtain occupancy through court action. The Broadmoor dispute is now before the courts.

Defends Co-op Idea

Mrs. Arthur R. Smith, of the Broadmoor, defended the co-op setup and asked elimination of the co-op clause from the rent bill.

Attorney Devine asked that the co-op clause be made retroactive to April 1, 1948, so that the 65 per cent requirement would apply to the Broadmoor, where he lives.

Francis J. Ortman, representing the Veterans Cooperative Housing Association, asked exemption from the proposed co-op sale restriction for groups whose membership is at least 95 per cent veterans.

Others who called for eliminating the proposed restriction on co-op sales included Mrs. Virginia V. Finks, of the Broadmoor; Paul Clohan, 3411 29th st. nw.; Miss Lucille C. Brunner, of the Westmoreland Cooperative, and Mrs. Elizabeth Rowe, 2039 New Hampshire ave.

Seeks to Limit Sales

Edward W. Smith, retired brigadier general, urged approval for the House plan to limit co-op sales. He spoke for 29 tenants of 2153 California st. nw. He said that for 15 months they had been under threat that their 41-year-old building would be sold, and that the owner is now seeking to sell the apartment units.

Among those who urged extension of the District rent law were Miss Kate Alfriend, of the Washington Chapter, Americans for Democratic Action; John V. Case, economist, of 1101 Massachusetts ave. nw.; Mrs. Charlotte Siller, Womens Auxiliary, United Public Workers, CIO; Kenneth K. Clarke, executive secretary, District Progressive Party, and Joseph H. Gerome, 1731 New Hampshire ave. nw.

Miss Cornelia Hill, 2037 New Hampshire ave. nw., who owns, with her sister, seven pieces of property here, said she felt there were immoral landlords who would gouge in rents if they got the chance, but she urged that landlords be given a flat increase as long as tenants were protected against eviction.

Witnesses who called for an end to rent control included: C. E. Simmons, District Chapter, Property Owners of America; Harold H. David, Thomas Circle Citizens Association; E. M. Peterson, 3023 Cambridge pl. nw.; George Papanicolas, owner of the Cathedral

O'Toole Defends D. C. Police As 'Splendid Group of Men'

Now on St. Patrick's Day would you be expectin' an O'Toole to be disputin' with a McGuire over the courtesy of Officer Slattery?

Sure and indeed he did.

Last Tuesday night, during an address before the Citizens' Forum of Columbia Heights, Representative John A. McGuire (D., Conn.) remarked that he and a friend had been treated "badly" by a policeman after being stopped for a traffic violation. The friend was driving.

The policeman in the case, it was learned yesterday, was Pvt. Joseph E. Slattery, a motorcycle man attached to the Traffic Division.

And Representative Donald L. O'Toole (D., N. Y.) got into the act yesterday when he came to the defense of the local police force.

"I've been here for seven terms," said O'Toole, "and I've never known Washington policemen to be anything but courteous and cooperative. They're a splendid group of men.

"It's an excellent police force even though it is underpaid and undermanned. And if it's underpaid and undermanned, that's the fault of Congress.

"We Congressmen should not expect special privileges. We make the laws and we more than others should set an example."

The police cause also was championed on the floor of the House yesterday by Representative Prince H. Preston, jr. (D., Ga.). He said local policemen "lean over backwards" in being courtous to and cooperative with members of Congress.

"They are the goodwill ambassadors of the District," said Preston, "and they can accomplish more for the District than many officials who hold higher positions in the District Government."

According to Capt. Loraine T. Johnson of the Traffic Division, early on the morning of February 8, Private Slattery paced a car east on Constitution ave. nw., from 12th to 9th sts. Slattery estimated the car was traveling between 38 and 42 miles an hour in a 25-mile-an-hour zone.

Slattery stopped the car at 9th st. According to police records, the driver was Derald E. Larson, 18, a clerk, of 225 B st. ne.

In accordance with usual police procedure in speeding cases, Slattery asked the driver to accompany him to the Traffic Division at police headquarters so he could check Larson's traffic record.

Preston O'Toole

It was then, according to Johnson, that McGuire identified himself as a Congressman. Slattery, Johnson said, told McGuire he was sorry but that Larson and not the Congressman was driving the car.

At the Traffic Division, Johnson said, Slattery found only one minor previous traffic violation against Larson's record, so he dropped the speeding charge and charged Larson only with operating without a tail light. Larson posted and forfeited $2 collateral.

Johnson said the next day he was told that a complaint from Capitol Hill had reached the office of Police Superintendent Robert J. Barrett.

Johnson tried to have the charge against Larson nol-prossed, found that difficult, so took $2 from his own pocket and to keep good "public relations" between police and Congress sent it to McGuire's office.

Reached at his home in Wallingford, Conn., yesterday, McGuire said he hadn't meant to stir up a tempest with his remarks Tuesday night.

When the policeman stopped them, McGuire said, he remarked, "You're going a little fast."

"We thought he was just crawling along," McGuire said.

The Congressman said a postmaster and a Connecticut policeman were also in the car when it was stopped. The Connecticut policeman flashed his badge but that didn't make any difference. McGuire said he then remarked to the policeman:

"I'm awfully reluctant to admit this, but I'm a Congressman. Will that make any difference?"

Slattery decided it wouldn't.

D. C. Transfers 10,000 Sq. Feet Of Space to U. S.

District Commissioners yesterday turned over an entire floor of the Central Library Building, 499 Pennsylvania ave. nw., to the Public Buildings Administration for use by Federal agencies.

The city heads released the 10,000 square feet of space at the request of the PBA which requires it to complete a transfer of the National Labor Relations Board staff to the Federal Security Agency building in Southwest Washington.

Several units forced out of the FSA structure will be moved into the District-owned space. A rental fee will be negotiated covering the area by the District auditor's office with the PBA.

Hotel Pants Thief Escapes After Chase

A Minnesota U. professor told police yesterday he was awakened early to find an "intelligent-looking, well-dressed man" rifling his trousers' pockets in his hotel room.

Prof. John D. Akerman, head of the Minnesota department of aeronautics, said he chased the man down the corridor of the Washington Hotel.

The would-be thief escaped down a fire exit stairway, Professor Akerman said.

There was no money missing, nor were his papers in a briefcase bothered, Professor Akerman said. He is sharing a room with Marvin Harrison, chief aerodynamicist for the Eastman Kodak Co., who telephoned hotel detectives while Professor Akerman, in his pajamas, pursued the man.

The 51-year-old professor described the man as being about 25 years old, clean-shaven, dark-haired, and wearing a dark dress coat and gray Homburg hat.

Police searched the hotel, but were unable to find the man, he said.

Youth Held on Charge Of Forging $75 GI Check

James R. Wear jr., 19, of 4551 Shaw dr. ne., was held yesterday under $1500 bond for grand jury action on a charge of forging the indorsement to a $75 GI education check sent to a George Washington University student. According to Treasury agents, Wear stole 25 checks from the mails. He is now awaiting grand jury action on a charge of stealing $5600 from a safe from the Lily Ponds Housing Development.

Under Cover Now

Harry Curry, 40, of 29 Logan Circle nw., was sentenced yesterday to serve 90 days in jail for indecent exposure. According to Municipal Court evidence, he committed the act in two basements in McLean Gardens while housemaids were present.

Trees Across the Sea

Two small apple trees from the English home of Geroge Washington's ancestors arrived in New York yesterday for replanting at Mt. Vernon.

They were flown into LaGuardia Field from Sulgrave Manor in Northhamptonshire, England, where the family of Washington's father once lived.

The trees are a good will gift of the British to the Mount Vernon Ladies Association.

Arlington Time

Governor Tuck was requested yesterday to authorized daylight saving time in Arlington County from April 24 to September 25.

The request came to the Governor's office from A. T. Lundberg, county manager. Lundberg told the Governor it is expected daylight saving time will be in effect in the metropolitan area of Washington.

CONTROL—From P. B-1

New Conflict On Rent Bill

Courts Apartments and other properties; Mrs. Agnes Shioutakon, 1914 Calvert st. nw., and Richard B. Posey of the Broadmoor, and Donald Nash, 1816 Bryant st. ne.

J. M. deW. Kyle 2d, of the Capital Rooming and Boarding House Association, and Jacob W. Block of 806 Taylor st. nw., urged lifting controls on rooms. Florentin Loren, 1841 Ontario pl. nw., said there are too many vacant rooms and not enough low-priced apartments in Washington. He called for decontrol of rents to encourage conversion of the housing that is surplus to the type that is needed.

At the end Senator Frear asked Robert F. Cogswell, District Rent Administrator, how long it would take his office to wind up its affairs upon the termination of rent control here. Three months was Cogswell's estimate. Frear emphasized he asked the question merely for information.

Jailed for Book Theft

Convicted of stealing a three-volume set of Alfred Einstein's "Italian Madrigals" from a bookstore at 1722 H st. nw., Junius Spraggins, 28, 515 Q st. nw., received a 360-day jail term.

"Did he want those works for a library?" Judge Scott asked Police Detective W. J. McGrath.

They were recovered from another bookstore where they were sold, the policeman replied.

Barbers Union Favors Young Appointment

The Barbers Union, Local 239, last night went on record at its meeting at the Pythian Temple, 9th st. and Mount Vernon pl. nw., as unanimously favoring reappointment of Commissioner John Russell Young.

Search Goes On For Missing Newsman, Girl

Police yesterday continued their search for a 23-year-old former editor-publisher of a Prince Georges County monthly newspaper and an 18-year-old girl, both of whom have been missing since Monday.

They are Henry Lee Simms, of 3302 Buchanan st., Mount Rainier, and Geraldine Mahinsky, of the 1500 block of Massachusetts ave. se.

Simms, who recently sold his newspaper, The Citizens' Voice of Prince Georges County, left his home Monday night to collect a $13 bill, according to his wife, Mrs. Mary Elizabeth Simms.

Police said they were told that Simms visited friends at a house at 1372 South Carolina ave. se. Charles Mahinsky, father of the missing girl, also lives at that address.

Mahinsky said his daughter had met Simms only two or three times previously, but left the house at the same time he did Monday night. He said he gave her $55.40 to pay on an automobile loan at the bank where she is employed.

Mahinsky said he later learned that his daughter did not reach her room that night nor did she report for work the following day.

Simms, a veteran of 26 months in the Army Signal Corps, has been married since 1946. He is the father of one child, Michael, 14 months. He is a former president of the Morningside Village Citizens Association.

The police lookout said the girl is 5 feet 7, about 135 pounds with blue eyes and brown hair. She was wearing a Persian lamb coat.

Meanwhile, a detective from the Missing Persons Bureau was assigned to investigate the disappearance of Gordon R. Burrows, 49, retired service station operator, who has been missing since Monday from his home at 3545 Porter st. nw. Missing with Burrows is his 1948 black Ford sedan with white-wall tires. It has 1949 District tags numbered 3-8468.

'Lord' Daniels, Indian Fighter, Singer, Dies

Charles "Lord" Daniels, 83, known to Washingtonians for more than a half century as "Sporting Dan," will be buried at 1 p. m. today in Arlington Cemetery.

He died Saturday at Gallinger Hospital after a long illness.

Born in Georgia in 1866, he fought against the Indians in the Dakotas as a member of Troop K, Ninth Cavalry. Discharged in 1892, he spent 30 years with the Bureau of Engraving and Printing, retiring in 1934.

His pension money was spent on an elaborate wardrobe, at the top of style, so that he was well known about the streets of the Nation's Capital as one of its most stylishly dressed men.

During the depression era, he was famed as a street singer of folk songs and arias from operas.

As a member of Shiloh Baptist Church, 9th and P sts. nw., he was described by the Rev. E. L. Harrison last night as "a most courteous and liberal Christian gentleman and an ardent supporter of the church for more than 50 years."

His body, lying in state at the church yesterday, was viewed by hundreds, including many of his old associates from the Bureau of Engraving.

MANY NEVER SUSPECT CAUSE OF BACKACHES

This Old Treatment Often Brings Happy Relief

When disorder of kidney function permits poisonous matter to remain in your blood, it may cause nagging backache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, a stimulant diuretic, used successfully by millions for over 50 years. Doan's give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

Sewage Study Begun By North Virginia

Study of northern Virginia sewage-disposal problems, aimed at finding a plan of action for pollution abatement by May 1, got under way last night at Arlington County Courthouse.

Although the meeting was open only to delegates, Weldon T. Ellis, jr., of Arlington, announced that a report containing sewage-disposal recommendations was to be drawn up. It will be made public Thursday, he said, when it will be presented to the Northern Virginia Regional Planning Commission.

Ellis, chairman of the NVRPC's water supply and sanitation committee, reported the recommendations would be drawn up by his group and representatives of the District, Alexandria, Falls Church and Arlington and Fairfax Counties.

Virginia's Water Control Board early this month ordered "every owner" discharging raw sewage into waters to file by May 1 and each 90 days thereafter a progress report on pollution abatement.

The "every owner" specification, while including some individuals, refers mainly to municipalities.

Ellis explained the meeting was closed to the press so that persons attending the session could discuss proposals without constraint. Findings will be reported, he said, at a meeting of the NVRPC Thursday.

Hayghe Elected President of Traffic Club

W. E. Hayghe, chief of the Treasury Department's Central Traffic Bureau, has been named president of the Traffic Club of Washington.

The club, whose 700 members represent all phases of private and Government transportations, also elected Francis G. McCann, general agent of the New York Central Railroad, as its first vice president; J. S. Peters, assistant chief, Traffic Division, Reconstruction Finance Corporation, second vice president, and C. E. Milford, chief of traffic, Finance Office, United States Army, secretary and treasurer.

Indicted Woman Not Columbia Rd. Resident

Mrs. Helen L. Adams, 32, who was indicted by the grand jury Monday on charges of false pretenses, gave police her home address as 1834 Columbia rd. nw. This address appeared on official court papers and was so reported in The Washington Post Tuesday morning.

Miss Florence M. Bacon, operator of a rooming house at the Columbia rd. address, said yesterday that Mrs. Adams never lived at her home.

Mrs. Adams, who was arrested in New York, had been living at the New Colonial Hotel here before she went to New York, police said.

Gas Firm Pays $5000 in Death of Couple From Leak

A $5000 District Court settlement has been made here by the Washington Gas Light Co. in a case involving the asphyxiation death of an elderly couple in 1946.

Norman A. Smith, 36, of Galesville, Md., filed the suit as heir to the estate of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Albert H. Smith, who had resided at 1440 Kearney st. ne. The couple was discovered amid gas fumes in their home.

The company contended that the fatal gas leak resulted from settling of a concrete porch floor onto a service pipe into the house. Representing Smith were attorneys Mary R. Day and Charles E. Pledger, jr.

Man Who Stole Streetcar Gets Suspended Term

Daniel H. Napper, 25, of 4426 B st. se., was put on probation for a year yesterday for stealing a streetcar.

Sentence was imposed by Judge Walter J. Casey of Municipal Court who suspended a 90-day jail term.

According to police, Napper took a car out of the Capital Transit barn at 5th st. and Kenilworth ave. ne., February 21, and managed to get to 34th st. and Benning rd. ne., before it stalled. Napper claimed he had been drinking and didn't remember the incident, police said.

D. C. Sailor Held In Auto Plunge Killing Shipmate

San Diego, Calif., March 17 (AP). A young sailor was killed today when the automobile in which he was riding went out of control and plunged 300 feet to the bottom of a canyon.

Deputy Coroner Dave Bone identified the dead sailor as Seaman 2/c Audie I. Rosenban, 21. Bone said he carried a driver's license listing his home as Warren, Ark.

His shipmate, William E. Bladen, 21, of Washington, D. C., listed as the driver, was charged with felony manslaughter. He is held in the county jail in lieu of $2500 bond. Bladen escaped with back and hand injuries.

Feerick, Leg in Cast, Lost to Caps for Playoffs

This Morning

—With Shirley Povich

ORLANDO, FLA., MAR. 17.—Any day now, the American League pennant race odds will be announced and it is a certainty that the Cleveland Indians will be labeled the favorites. That's a fairly reasonable compliment to the Indians, who when last seen had just won the 1948 pennant and romped home in the World Series.

Around Florida's Big League training camps, though, there's a wide dissent. The bulk of the ball players don't think the Indians will repeat. The team they like is the Red Sox, and for reasons that are not illogical, either.

POVICH

They point to the fact that the Boston club took Cleveland into a play-off game before it was licked last season, and that the best club in the league after the first two months was the Red Sox. They came from 13 games behind the lead to tie the Indians on the final day of the regular season.

"The Red Sox don't figure to get off to that bad start again," says Al Simmons, of the A's. "I'm not admitting that the Athletics don't have a chance to take it all, but the club we'd like to finish in front of is the Red Sox, not Cleveland. The team that beats Boston will take the pennant."

SIMMONS SHARES the popular skepticism of the Indians' ability to repeat and points to the fact that six of the Cleveland players last year had the greatest season of their careers. They came along all at once—Bob Lemon, Gene Bearden, Ken Keltner, Joe Gordon, Lou Boudreau and Larry Doby. Terrific seasons they had, and then they just barely nosed out Boston. "If any of 'em slumps, the Indians can't win."

It is freely conceded that the Red Sox must outpower the Indians to finish in front. There is no attempt to rate the Boston pitching with Cleveland's superior staff. But this spring there is more respect for the Red Sox pitching than usual. From Sarasota comes the intelligence that Tex Hughson is throwing the ball hard again.

A bum elbow shelved Hughson for a couple of seasons and even dropped him into the minors for a spell and he was supposed to be washed up. But all of a sudden travelers from Sarasota have been bringing the news that Hughson's comeback is a certainty. He's buzzing the ball again and could give the Red Sox a 0-game winner.

AND THE RED SOX are bringing up the most talked-about rookie of the year who, if he justified even scantily his press notices, will add even more power to the thumpingest club in the league. He's Walter Dropo, the first baseman from Birmingham, who Manager Joe McCarthy is viewing with high pleasure.

Dropo is a big fellow, bigger even than Hank Greenberg, and the left field wall at Fenway Park will be his special target. Not that he needs a convenient fence, because a dozen of the home runs he hit at Birmingham were such enormous smashes they would have been home runs all over the world. But even his pop flies would hit the left field fence at Boston.

And Dropo is no green pea around first, despite his meager experience in organized ball. There is nothing ungainly about him, despite his size and Red Sox fielders call him as good a target as was the lengthy Greenberg.

JOE McCARTHY HAS a double rooting interest in Dropo and if he makes good it will be a two-pronged boon to the Red Sox. Bill Goodman did a fair job of it at first base last season, but he was at best a converted third baseman-outfielder, and defensively Dropo would represent any improvement.

McCarthy's program calls for Goodman to be switched to the outfield if Dropo makes the grade. Right field was a weakness last season with Stan Spence in a mysterious batting slump and Sam Mele a disappointment after his productive season in 1947. Goodman was a .310 hitter last year and a Ted Williams-Dom DiMaggio-Bill Goodman outfield is McCarthy's current dream.

The Red Sox have been a patient club with Dropo. In training last season, he was highly impressive and apparently ready but McCarthy wisely sent him out for more seasoning. He batted .359 at Birmingham and had the amazing total of 102 runs batted in, in 118 games. Even before that, he was somewhat famous. After graduating from the University of Connecticut in 1947, he was the Chicago Bears' No. 1 draft choice.

Yanks, Tigers Settle for 2-2 Tie After 17 Innings

St. Petersburg, Fla., March 17 (AP).—The New York Yankees and Detroit Tigers battled to a 17 inning, 2-2 tie in a spring exhibition game here today.

The contest, which lasted four hours and 24 minutes before being halted by darkness, matched an equally long game between the Yanks and Red Sox last spring.

The Tigers were outhit, 11 to 7, but after they scored in the top of the seventh the two clubs couldn't come close to getting a run across.

Forty-one players—24 Yankees and 17 Tigers—took part. New York used five pitchers including Ed Lopat and Allie Reynolds and the quintet gave up 16 walks. Four Detroit pitchers, headed by Hal Newhouser and Virgil Trucks, gave up 12 bases on balls.

Bosox Win, Ferriss Gives 1 Hit in 6 Innings

Sarasota, Fla., March 17 (AP).—Dave (Boo) Ferriss, question mark righthander of the Red Sox staff, yielded only one dinky hit in six innings today as the Bost American Leaguers tripped the Philadelphia Phils, 4-1.

Ferris, striving to make a comeback, might have blanked the Quakers without a hit had he attempted to field Gran Hamner's topped roller near the third base line in the opening inning.

Reds Trounce Braves, 9-4; Reiser Strains Groin

Bradenton, Fla., March 17 (AP).—With considerable help from Boston Braves pitchers the Cincinnati Reds trounced the National League champions, 9-4, today.

It was an unhappy twenty-ninth birthday for the oft injured Pete Reisr, now a Brave, who was forced to leave the game with a strained groin.

Lloyd Merriman, highly regarded Cincy rookie outfielder, hit a home run off Johnny Antonelli to deepest right center and made two startling catches of long center field drives by Al Dark and Sibbi Sisti.

Mort Cooper Sparkles But Cubs Lose, 6-5

Phoenix, Ariz., March 17 (AP).—The New York Giants rallied for three runs in the last of the ninth inning today to whip the Chicago Cubs, 6 to 5.

Joe Lafata's single drove in two runs and a walk to Willard Marshall by Ralph Hamner with the bases loaded forced in the winning tally. Mort Cooper, trying a comeback with the Cubs, worked the first three innings without giving up a run. He scattered four singles.

SIDELINED CAP STARS—Even though injuries will keep them out of the playoffs, Cap Stars Fred Scolari and Bob Feerick managed a smile last night. Scolari, nursing a broken finger, autographs the cast on Feerick's leg. Feerick suffered a torn cartilage in his left knee against Minneapolis here Wednesday

Scolari Also Definitely Out With Hurt Finger

By Morris Siegel
Post Reporter

Bob Feerick, with his leg in a cast, and Freddie Scolari, with a new splint on his fractured finger, returned home from Johns Hopkins Hospital last night and announced they definitely would be unable to play with the Washington Caps in the BAA playoffs which open Wednesday.

Feerick is sidelined with a torn cartilage in his left leg, received in the waning moments of the Cap-Minneapolis game here Wednesday.

Scolari cracked a finger on his shooting hand—the right one—two weeks ago and was hopeful he could rejoin the team next week. He was told yesterday, however, he couldn't play for at least another three weeks.

Feerick, all-league guard for two years and a wheelhorse of the current Eastern Division champs since they were organized three years ago, received his injury in a collision with Don Carlson, of the Lakers, in the last two minutes of Wednesday's 85-72 Cap victory.

Didn't Think It Serious

The leg was treated in Washington yesterday morning, but Feerick went to Johns Hopkins in Baltimore for a further examination later in the day. X-rays there revealed the torn cartilage. Feerick and Scolari were en route to Philadelphia to see the Caps play when they decided to stop at Hopkins in Baltimore.

Feerick had no idea that he had suffered an injury of such a serious nature until he visited Dr. David Filtzer, visiting orthopedic surgeon at Hopkins. The Cap star was under the impression that he had merely twisted his knee and "that it would be all right in a day or to."

Dr. Filtzer advised Feerick "you will be risking permanent injury and jeopardizing your career if you attempt to play before at least three weeks."

Feerick suffered an identical injury in a sandlot baseball game when he was 14 years old.

"I treated it myself for four days," he recalled last night, "but the knee turned on me and I had to wear a cast for six weeks."

With Feerick and Scolari on the sidelines, the Caps' chances of surviving the playoffs are dismal. The 6-foot 3-inch Feerick has been the mainstay of the Washington pro courtmen for three years. This was the first season in the three-year history of the BAA that the handsome Californian was not selected on the all-league first team. He was nosed out by Jim Pollard of Minneapolis.

It is an ironical twist of fate that benches both Feerick and Scolari for the playoffs. The two Californians were the leading members of the original Cap team which won the Eastern Division title in 1946-47, the year the Basketball Association of America was born.

Although only 5 feet 8 inches tall, the chubby Scolari was recognized as one of the best guards in the league and a deadly scorer with his one-handed set shot.

With Feerick and Scolari out, Coach Red Auerbach will have to reshuffle his forces. Kleggie Hermsen, Jack Nichols and Bones McKinney, who range in height from 6-foot-8 to 6-6, respectively, will make up the front court attack with Hertzberg and either Dick Schulz or Johnny Norlander in back court.

The playoffs have been a jinx for the Caps every season. After winning 49 out of 60 games in 1946-47, the Caps were eliminated in the first round of the playoffs by Chicago. Last year, they finished the season in a tie with St. Louis and Baltimore for second. Baltimore drew a bye when the hard-luck caps lost a coin flip, and Chicago promptly eliminated them.

San Francisco, Loyola Win; Gain Finals

New York, March 17 (AP).—Scrappy San Francisco snapped Bowling Green's imposing winning streak, 49-39- and Loyola of Chicago turned back hard-driving Bradley University, 55-50, tonight to push into the finals of the National Invitation Basketball Tournament.

Both went into the titular round the hard way, having to play and win three games. Loyola, a "rain check" team invited purely as an afterthought, had to dispose of Kentucky, the Nation's top-ranking team, 67 to 56, in the quarterfinals.

Towering Bowling Green, winner of 15 straight and conqueror of defending champion St. Louis in last Monday's quarter-finals, ruled a five-point favorite in tonight's game.

The twin bill brought 18,301 paying spectators to Madison Square Garden, surprising New Yorkers who figured the absence of the favored teams would cause the crowds to fall off. It was the biggest crowd of the tournament to date.

The odds-makers failed to reckon with the phenomenal one-hand push shot owned by one Don Lofgran, San Francisco's wiry, curly-haired forward.

The 6-foot-6 Don star pushed 24 points through the hoop to completely subdue the big Ohio team that had been favored for the championship after Monday's wave of upsets.

Bowling Green's giant "tip in" specialist—6-foot-11 Chuck Share scored 20 points, but was able to hit for only six field goals. Mac Otten, his 6-foot-6 mate, was held to one field goal, that early in the second half.

Chapman Calls on Peterson, Discusses Publinx Problem

By Jack Walsh
Post Reporter

Discussion of the District's complicated public links situation has reached the top-level stage and the word yesterday was that a contract won't be awarded until Congress looks into the matter.

It was learned that Undersecretary of Interior Oscar Chapman paid a visit to Representative J. Hardin Peterson (D., Fla.), acting chairman of the Public Lands Committee that's scheduled to start action today.

Peterson said he and Chapman talked about the golf concession problem "in an informal manner."

Peterson added that "no contract will be issued to anybody, for the time being, and Mr. Chapman will consult with us again before a final decision is made."

Chapman verified the fact that he had promised to talk to Congressman Peterson again before awarding the contract.

Peterson, 55-year-old veteran of 17 years in the House, said his committee will take up the golf course matter in an executive session this morning.

"I don't know whether we'll appoint a special subcommittee or not," Peterson explained, "but we'll decide procedure and probably will start hearings next week."

"You see, we've been thinking about the over-all problem of concessions leased by the Interior Department throughout the country and may go into the whole thing at this time."

The local golf courses have been operated by Severine G. Leoffler, sr., since 1921. His last contract expired December 31. After lengthy study, C. Girard Davidson, Assistant Secretary of Interior, recommended last Monday that it be renewed for another five years.

Chapman said that the department's negotiations with Leoffler now are in progress and will take at least 10 days to complete, if not longer.

Announcement of the renewal brought anguished cries from the District of Columbia Recreation Board that is anxious to run the courses and Ray Alvis, local promoter who currently is representing the Cleveland Concession Co. that submitted a bid for the business.

Meanwhile Harry Wender, chairman of the Recreation Board, charged that Leoffler had obtained a promise that his lease would be renewed by "lending" the Government $50,000 at a time when he was custodian of $56,000 in Government funds that could have been used for the construction of a clubhouse on the Fort Dupont course.

Wender said that the $56,000 was in what is known as the "Rehabilitation Fund." This fund is created by diversion of 5 per cent of the gross revenues of the golfing concession.

Irving C. Root, superintendent of National Capital Parks which directly supervises the operation of the golf courses, refutes Wender's claim.

Root said the fund was started by a "memorandum of understanding" between Leoffler and the Interior Department. He added that any money in it has to be used only for rehabilitation of old facilities and cannot be used for new construction.

Assistant Secretary Davidson, now recuperating from a tonsilectomy, has asked for a full report on the matter, Root said. After it's presented, he added, there will be a formal answer to Wender.

Dot Kielty, Babe Tie for Lead With 73s

Augusta, Ga., March 17 (AP).—Two golfing girls from the Far West, Babe Didrikson Zaharias and Dot Kielty, came to the Deep South today to take the lead after the first round of the Titleholders tournament with two-under-par 73s.

Mrs. Zaharias, a professional from Denver, Colo., and Miss Kielty, an amateur from Long Beach, Calif., shot nearly identical rounds. Miss Kielty had six birdies and an eagle. The Babe had five birdies. Both had sub-par first nines.

The similarity of their cards was marked. Each was one-under on the par-five third hole, the par-five fifth hole, par-five eighth and par-five seventeenth. Miss Kielty, a war-time Wasp flier and now a flying instructor, shot her eagle three on the thirteenth hole, a 455-yarder at the Augusta Country Club course.

The eagle, one of the few in the 10 tournament history of the titleholders, was sunk after a 260-yard drive, a five-iron shot to the green and a 25-foot putt.

Miss Kielty was well on her way to break the Titleholders' record round of 71 until she over-clubbed on three straight approach shots on the back nine. She was two under par at the turn on the 6627-yard course, then blew to one over on the next three holes. She settled down to sin't the eagle and then fired par or birdie golf the rest of the way, except on the sixteenth hole.

The record round of 71 was set by Mrs. Zaharias on the third day of the 1947 Titleholders which she won.

Warriors Win, 84-81, as Cap Rally Fails

Philadelphia, March 17.—Crippled by the absence of Bob Feerick and Fred Scolari, the Washington Capitols dropped an 84-81 Basketball Association of America game to the Philadelphia Warriors here tonight before 5000.

Feerick was out of action with a torn cartilage in the left knee and Scolari was still nursing a broken finger he received last week.

A fine performance by Center Kleggie Hermsen, who scored 26 points on seven field goals and 12 fouls, minimized the taste of the defeat for Washington.

Joe Fulks was high for the winners with 11 for 11 in fouls and seven two-pointers, 25 points.

Special Shoes En Route

If DiMaggio Takes It Easy He'll Be Ready, Doctors Say

St. Petersburg, Fla., March 17 (U.P.).—Two doctors today told Jolting Joe DiMaggio that a take-it-easy attitude for the remainder of spring training will permit him to start the regular season as the New York Yankee centerfielder.

DiMaggio has been bothered by his bad right heel since the second day of training despite an operation this winter.

Dr. George Bennett, who performed that operation, and Dr. S. S. Gaynor, the Yankee physician, examined X-rays today and then told DiMaggio he had nothing to worry about.

Dr. Bennett said DiMaggio is paying the penalty for having trained too hard the first day of spring training. It was after that opening workout that DiMaggio felt new pain in the heel and flew to Baltimore for an emergency examination.

Dr. Bennett suggested that the famed Yankee Clipper pace himself for the remainder of spring training, taking extra precautions not to strain the heel. "When you think you can run out a triple, be satisfied with a double," he told the slugger.

In addition, the doctor suggested that the third heel cleat be removed from Dimagio's playing shoe to cut down the jar. A special pair of shoes, constructed by an orthopedic specialist, is en route.

Dimaggio admitted to the doctors that he purposely strained the heel on opening day to see how much punishment it would stand.

Bowling Winners Will Receive Prizes by Check

Prize money to the 287 men and women winners in the third annual Washington Post benefit bowling tournament will be available next week.

Checks will be turned over to alley operators in the metropolitan Washington area who in turn will present them to the winners at their respective alleys.

The tournament committee pointed out last night that in addition to the $2,445.90 which the Metropolitan Police Boys' Club received, The Washington Post also is presenting $473.50 to the Arlington Recreation Athletic Association in Arlington, Va., and $238.75 to the Prince Georges County Police Boys' Club

Life Story Of Joe Louis Begins Sunday

Joe Louis' life story begins in The Washington Post next Sunday and will run for 15 days. The daily instalments were arranged through the permission of the New York Times and Life magazine.

Louis goes back to his early days in Alabama, and in his own words describes his life up to the present when he is embarking on a life as a boxing promoter.

It also tells of his breaks in attaining his position and gives an insight into some of the people who made those breaks possible.

But Joe Isn't Pleased

Hitting Doesn't Alarm Kuhel

By Shirley Povich
Post Reporter

Orlando, Fla., March 17.—Joe Kuhel gave his Nats a complete day off today and had ample time to survey the results of their first five exhibition games. He wasn't pleased, but he wasn't alarmed.

"We are not hitting a lick," said Kuhel, a fact also obvious to the customers at West Palm Beach and Orlando where the Nats blew three of their first four games.

The man in the worst slump is Eddie Robinson, who was supposed to add power to the Nats' lineup and was the chief reason for the Vernon-Wynn deal with the Indians last December. Robinson has yet to make his first hit of the year.

The closest Robinson came to making a hit was the loud foul he swatted against Fred Sanford of the Yankees yesterday. It was an enormous drive that cleared the right field wall by 30 feet, barely off limits.

"I'm not worried about Robinson, though," said Kuhel. "Ed Klieman tells me he never saw Robinson hit well in any of the Cleveland training camps. He's lunging and doing a lot of things wrong, but he'll get squared away."

Offsetting Robinson's futility has been the superb socking of Gil Coan, who has convinced Kuhel he is due for his first bright season in the majors. Coan has beaten out a bunt in every game, and when he chose to turn on the power has been rocketing hits into deep right field.

"If Coan doesn't make good that will be my biggest disappointment," said Kuhel. "You have to like what he has been showing us."

Kuhel is also looking for added power from Eddie Yost this season. Yost has changed his batting stance and apparently to tremendous advantage. He powered a batting-practice home run over the left-field trees the other day, a sector of Tinker Field that only three other men have reached.

THE NATS ENCOUNTER another open date tomorrow, but starting Saturday they play a game every day but one until April 13 . . . at Clearwater on Saturday against the Phillies, Mickey Haefner will get his first outing of the season . . . he and Joe Haynes have been brought along slowly following winter operations . . . the Nats have an offer from Detroit to trade them Second Basemen Al Kozar, and aren't listening . . . the Washington bosses motored to nearby Winter Garden this afternoon to watch their Chattanooga farm hands play the touring Quantico Marines.

Ferrells Celebrate Day With Arrival of Son

And a happy St. Patrick's Day it was, to be sure, for Mr. and Mrs. Rick Ferrell yesterday.

Their family was increased by the arrival of their first son, 7-pound Rick Ferrell, jr., yesterday morning. The Ferrells—he's the Nat coach—also have two girls, Maureen, 7, and Kerrie, 18 months. Rick, jr., was born in Greensboro, N. C., and he and his mother are both doing well, thank you.

Ring Names Strong Trio For Sprint

Bowie, Md., March 17 (AP).—Several winning performers on Florida's winter circuit are among the 16 horses nominated today for the $10,000 Rowe Memorial Handicap, opening feature of Bowie's spring meet on March 28.

Gustave Ring of Washington has a powerful trio of Kitchen Police, Rare Jewel and Top Pilot eligible for the 6 furlong race. Rare Jewel scored six victories in two months this winter.

The 4-year-old mare, Irisen, also comes north with success recently behind her. Mrs. O. L. Nyberg's mare won four races in Miami.

The other nominations are H. G. Bedwell's Daily Dip, Bobanet Stable's King Midas, Bomar Stable's Piet, S. Greenfeld's high Trend, Grandview Stable's Erigeron, Dion Keer, jr.'s Flying Weather, P. A. Rothiuss' Gain a' Foot, C. C. Tanner's Nearway, S. W. Laorot, jr.'s Repand and Datel, and Rarco Stable's Rarby D'Amour and Tight Squeeze.

Terp, C. U. Boxers Meet Foes Away

THE MARYLAND and Catholic University boxing teams face weekend opposition on the road.

An eight-man Terp delegation flew yesterday to the University of Miami, where tonight they face the Hurricanes. The Cards leave today by train for Cleveland, where on Saturday they crack knuckles against John Carroll.

The Terps have won two, lost three and tied one this season. Their best bets tonight are Capt. Eddie Rieder, 155-pounder, and Spence Hopkins, 130, both undefeated this year.

CU is undefeated and tied once. It's favored Saturday because it defeated Georgetown, 5-3, and the Hoyas beat John Carroll, 6-2. The Cards' best bet is Tom Cronin, Eastern Intercollegiate 125-pound champ, who fights Saturday at 130.

Hoyas' Mitchell Busy

Georgetown's crack hurdler, Billy Mitchell, will compete in two national indoor meets over the weekend. Tonight, the New Jersey sophomore will appear at the Cleveland Knights of Columbus games before performing in the Chicago Relays in the windy city Saturday night.

Mitchell has appeared in some 12 indoor meets this season and has never fared worse than fourth.

Weekend Bowling

The Bill Wood bowling tournament, open to men and women whose averages are less than 109, takes place today through Sunday at Lucky Strike alleys, 14th st and Riggs rd. nw.

Top award is $100 with other prizes depending on the number of entries. Entry fee is $5. Starting time each day is 2 p. m. Defending champions are Dick Milstead and Mary Scheer.

'C' Club Cancels Its Annual Track Meet

Rule Change Opposed by High Alumni

By Herb Heft
Post Reporter

The Central High Alumni "C" Club yesterday cancelled its 31-year-old track meet.

Bob Newby, secretary of the school's alumni athletic group blamed "pressure by the National Federation of State High School Athletic Associations upon school authorities in this area" for cancellation of the meet.

Newby said he hopes that the cancellation will be temporary and the meet resumed in 1950.

For the past several years, the Federation has refused to sanction th "C" Club affair because it permits high and prep trackmen to compete against each other.

This year, the federation schools threatened the District schools with a boycott unless the latter refused to participate in the meet.

D. C. Schools Nonmembers

Although Washington does not belong to the federation, the Virginia and Maryland schools do.

The local high school principals met hurriedly two weeks ago, and decided to withdraw their school from the meet unless the "C" Club changed the rules of its meet to conform with federation standards, e.g., to run the high athletes in one division, and the prep boys in another division.

In a letter to the principals yesterday, the "C" Club said it would not change its 30-year-old rules to conform with those of the federation, which is 27 years old.

Federation Blamed

In a letter to principals of schools which have already filed applications for the 1949 "C" Meet, the club blamed the federation for bringing an end to the meet.

It says, "During the time of its existence, the federation has generated controversies among public, private, parochial and prep schools by constantly changing rules and standards of equipment. During the same period, the schools in the Washington area have enjoyed the best of athletic relations."

Newby attacks a statement in the letter of withdrawal from the local principals saying, "We have purposely refrained from mentioning . . . any inter-scholastic governing body. We are primarily interested in equal and wholesome competition for our boys."

Says Newby, "the schools and the federation still condone competition between Virginia schools, whose age eligibility is 20½ years, and Washington schools, whose limit is 18½."

St. John's Barry Wall Favored To Win National Swim Crown

BARRY WALL, St. John's High senior, catches on quickly.

Three years ago, he took up swimming for the first time. His doctor prescribed the sport as an exercise cure for Barry's right arm, broken in a football game.

This Saturday he's favored to add the National Catholic interscholastic breaststroke championship to his Southern and Eastern interscholastic titles. Saturday's meet is at Philadelphia.

Barry, thanks to his pal Danny Callahan, now the freestyle star on Yale's freshman team, for stimulating his interest in swimming.

When Barry broke his arm scrimmaging with the St. John's jayvee footballers, his arm didn't respond properly to medical treatment. His doctor told him to lift weights and swim for exercise.

CALLAHAN, then a junior swimming star at the Ambassador Club here, and a St. John's schoolmate, made swimming more interesting for Barry. Barry already knew how to paddle, but Danny taught him the fundamentals, and young Wall became intrigued. He forgot football and within three months he was good enough to make the St. John's swim team.

Last year he had developed to the point where he placed in a few events. And this year he really blossomed.

At Chapel Hill, N. C., three weeks ago, he competed against the best breaststrokers in the Southern high schools, and won, breaking the 100-yard record in 1:06.6. The next week he won the Eastern crown at Trenton.

Those performances make him a favorite at the Catholic meet at LaSalle College in Philadelphia.

WHEN GEORGE WASHINGTON High lost out in the finals of the Virginia basketball tournament last week in Norfolk it wasn't a total loss for Al Doran, coach of the Alexandria school.

He had the satisfaction of seeing one of his former pupils make good as a coach. Leading the Lynchburg High team to the championship was Jimmy Bryan, who played football under Coach Doran at Lee High of Staunton 12 years ago..—HERB HEFT.

Warrenton's Races Listed

By Harry De Mawby, Jr.

The Warrenton Hunt's thirteenth old fashioned point-to-point races will inaugurate the hunt racing and showing season in Virginia on Saturday at Warrenton, Va.

In keeping with tradition, the time and starting place of the races will be withheld by the committee until 3 p. m. this afternoon.

Featured in this year's renewal of the Warrenton Hunt's meeting will be the first race, open to all individuals and will be run over about 5 miles of the Warrenton Hunt country. A perpetual challenge trophy will be held for one year by the victor regardless of hunt represented. In addition the first member of the Warrenton Hunt to cross the finish will receive the Mary Convers Cutting Memorial Trophy to be retained for one year in memory of the late ardent horse lover.

An "Old Timers Race," limited to ladies and gentlemen 40 years of age and older, riding at catch weights over 4 miles of the hunt country, will be substituted for the formerly run Pair race and will complete the day's two race card.

The committee is headed by the hunt's master of foxhounds, Armory S. Carhart, and assisting is R. D. McGrath, F. H. Prince, jr., Melville H. Bearns, W. Henry Pool, Arnold Scruton and Russell Arundel.

Information as to the time and place of the races may be obtained after 3 p. m. today by calling Warrenton 318 or 372.

Howard Bows, Virginia Union Wins in CIAA

The Colored Intercollegiate Athletic Association Basketball Tournament opened on a sour note for host Howard University as the Bisons were eliminated by Virginia State, 57-54, yesterday at Uline Arena.

In other first round games, Virginia Union defeated Hampton, Va., Institute, 65-56; defending champion West Virginia State routed Morgan State, 69-46, and North Carolina College smashed Chaw, N. C., U., 74-43.

In tonight's 8 o'clock semifinals at Uline, Virginia Union faces West Virginia State and Virginia States meets N. C. College.

The local team tied the score six times in the first half and rolled up a 42-36 lead after 10 minutes of the second half before fading.

Kovaleski, W. & M., Wins 2½-Hour National Net Test

Gonzales, Talbert Breeze; 2 Washingtonians Advance

New York, March 17 (AP).—Youthful, seventh-seeded Fred Kovaleski of William and Mary College had to struggle for 2½ hours before subduing 40-year-old Frank Bowden of Madison, N. J., in the National Indoor Tennis Championships which began here today.

The only seeded player to be extended, Kovaleski finally won out, 14—16, 6—4, and 6—1. Bowden forced the play in the early stages, but Kovaleski's stamina decided the issue in the third set.

Defending champion Billy Talbert, and the man most likely to succeed him, Richard (Pancho) Gonzales, breezed through the opening round.

Talbert, seeded second behind Gonzales and ranked fourth in the country, eliminated a fellow New Yorker, Bradley Browne, 6-1, 6-3.

Gonzales, the 26-year old Los Angeles youngster, who skyrocketed from seventeenth to first in the national rankings by winning the national outdoor title last September, had an even easier time. He humbled big Ed De Gray of New York, 6-0, 6-2. De Gray complained afterward that he was bothered by poor lighting.

Two Washington, D. C., standard bearers also advanced. Burke Wilkinson defeated John B. Dunkle of Lewisburg, Pa., 7-5, 6-2. Orme Wilson, jr., won by default from Francis Broida of New York.

AAU Swim Meet Listed Tomorrow

District AAU indoor tank competition for the season will be climaxed tomorrow night by the senior men's and women's championship meet at American U. pool. Trial heats for the 15-event program will open at 2 p. m. tomorrow, with the titular races scheduled for 8 p. m.

With a stellar field of some 100 entered, including a host of last year's winners, some record-breaking performances are anticipated.

As a feature novelty the meet officials will compete in a 200-yard freestyle relay. One group of "exhausted roosters" includes "Captain" John Molyneaux, Lawrence Buscher, Bob Hogan, Joe LaSalle and Jake Hengstler, while the opposing camp lists "Captain" Beverly Carter, Max Rote, Johnny Broaddus and Karl Ahlenfeld.

Aggies Choice Over Wyoming In NCAA Play

Kansas City, Mo., March 17 (U.P.)—Four fine basketball teams, with wins totaling 81 against 32 defeats, open the NCAA Western playoffs tomorrow night with the Oklahoma A. & M. quintet from Stillwater the favorite.

Hank Iba's Cowpokes, however, meet Wyoming in the opening game and Ev Shelton said today he believed his current team was the best he had coached since 1943, when Wyoming won the NCAA finals and defeated the NIT winner, St. John's.

In the second game it will be the Arkansas Razorbacks versus Oregon State. Oregon State has a record of 21-10, against Arkansas' 14-10. But Arkansas' tall team has been coming fast since a dismal start. It lost six of its first eight games, including a pair to Oklahoma A. & M., but won 10 of its last 11 starts.

Wyoming and Oregon State are old rivals this year. They split a pair, Wyoming winning, 53-52, in an overtime game, after losing, 50-55 to the Beavers.

Wyoming has the tallest man in the playoffs in Ron Livingstone, a 6-foot 10-incher with a 10-point-per-game average. But the Cowpokes boast a great pivot man in Bob Harris, often mentioned in All-American ratings.

Judge Divides Georgetown for Squad Game

THE NEW
Plymouth-now on display

Now there's more difference than ever in low-priced cars—and the great New Plymouth makes the difference!

New Beauty

There's beauty in every sweeping new low line of it—and throughout its brilliant new interior. And this is beauty that's built on advanced engineering . . . to give you a great new automobile that handles easier, rides smoother, performs better—the greatest in a long line of great Plymouths!

New Vision

The greatly increased glass area is exactly where you need it—in the windshield and rear window. And the new design of the hood and the entire body gives the driver a clear, undistorted view of the road—in all directions—day or night—rain or shine! Blind spots are practically eliminated.

New Features

You just turn the ignition key and the engine starts! No buttons to push, no choke to pull. You save on oil and get longer engine life with new oil control piston rings and the brand-new chrome compression ring. These are just two of the great new features in the great New Plymouth.

New Comfort

Talk about room for comfort—the New Plymouth has it! Those famous chair-height seats are now even wider, and deeper from front to back. Long legs can stretch out and hats stay put. Diagonally mounted rear shock absorbers reduce sidesway. You can drive this car for hours and still feel fresh.

THE BEAUTIFUL NEW PLYMOUTH SPECIAL DE LUXE 4-DOOR SEDAN WITH LONGER 118" WHEELBASE

New Safety

Safety has always been first with Plymouth—and this new car is safer than ever! It has a lower center of gravity. It hugs the road better. A completely new body construction makes it a sturdier automobile. Body and frame are 23% more rigid. You drive with a great new sense of security.

New Convenience

Because of less overhang, the New Plymouth is easy to park, easy to put in the garage. Fenders flow into the body but they're separate and detachable—and it doesn't cost a fortune to repair them! Windows lift and lower easier. Doors open wide—you get in and out of this car with ease!

New Performance

There's brilliant new power in the New Plymouth engine. This comes from a newly designed cylinder head, a higher compression ratio and a new intake manifold. When you step on it, you'll instantly feel this new surge of power. Here's the best performer of all the great performing Plymouths!

Greatest New Value

The only way to discover all of the great new things in the great New Plymouth is to see it—to sit in it—to drive it. Do this and you'll be convinced that—feature for feature—dollar for dollar—here's the greatest value of all! Compare it to any car at any price. Stop at your nearby Plymouth dealer's NOW!

O'Malleys, Flynn Void Court Fight For St. Patrick

Baltimore, March 17 (AP).—The case of Patrick F. and Edward F. O'Malley against Gately Flynn came up in City Court today.

Flynn is an attorney and the O'Malleys are suing him over a $200 insurance account involving several of his clients.

Up rose Z. Townsend Parks, attorney for the O'Malleys.

"Your honor," he said, "since today is St. Patrick's Day it wouldn't be right for good Irishmen to fight this out in court. So we will work it out, or maybe fight it out, amongst ourselves."

Judge Emory H. Niles: "Case dismissed."

Woman Loses Battle For Neighbor's Baby

Chicago, March 17 (U.P.).—Childless Mrs. Natalie Whalen, 38, lost a court fight today to win custody of a neighbor's baby fathered by her husband, Joseph Whalen, 41.

Circuit Judge Julius Miner flatly refused to let Mrs. Whalen have the 7-months-old baby girl of Mrs. Lillian Willie 36, a widow neighbor of the Whalens. Then he informed Mrs. Whalen that Mrs. Willie is going to have another child as the result of Whalen's activities.

WASHINGTON SUBURBAN SANITARY COMMISSION
CONTRACT NO. 630-WAS WATER MAIN AND SEWER CONSTRUCTION

Sealed proposals for constructing in Connecticut Avenue Estates, II, approximately 4560 feet of 6-inch to 12-inch cast iron water mains and 3740 feet of 6-inch to 8-inch plain concrete pipe sewers, will be received at the office of the Washington Suburban Sanitary Commission, Hamilton Street, Hyattsville, Maryland, until Tuesday, March 29, 1949, at 1:40 P. M., Eastern Standard Time, at which place and time they will be publicly opened and read. Plans and specifications may be obtained from the office of the Chief Engineer of the Commission, Hyattsville, Maryland, upon deposit of $5.00, which deposit will be returned to bidders or to those returning plans and specifications in good condition. DWIGHT B. GALT, LACY SHAW, LELAND G. WORTHINGTON. Mar.18.24.

Drawings and specifications for the construction of a Consolidated High School at Montevideo, Virginia, near Harrisonburg, Virginia, will be available for distribution to General Contractors on or about March 21, 1949, by Clarence Wenger, Architect, 65 West Market Street (second floor), Harrisonburg, Virginia. Applications from Contractors interested in bidding this work should be filed promptly with the Architect, and the bidding material will be forwarded as soon as possible. The Architect will furnish to each prospective bidder one complete set of drawings and specifications for a deposit of $75.00. The full amount of this deposit will be refunded only to prime contractors who submit a bonafide bid and who return the documents in good condition. If no bid is submitted, the refund will be $35.00. Additional sets will be furnished to prime contractors, subcontractors, and suppliers for a deposit of $75.00 per set, of which $35.00 will be refunded upon the return of the documents in good condition. All Plans and specifications must be returned to the Architect. No split sets will be issued. Attention of prospective bidders is called to the Code of Virginia requiring the registration of Contractors. Bid Bond or other acceptable surety in the amount of two (2%) per cent of the bid is required with all bids. Performance Bond and Payment Bond each in the amount of fifty (50%) per cent of contract will be required as a condition of signing a contract. Bids will be opened and publicly announced at 2:00 P.M. Thursday, April 28, 1949, in the Assembly Hall, third floor of the Rockingham County Court House. GEORGE S. [illegible] 2D, Chairman, Rockingham County School Board. Mar.11,15,18.

Mary Haworth's Mail

Man Courts Intrigue With Sister-in-Law, Telling Her He Has Never Loved His Wife; Girl Asks How to Bring Him to His Senses

DEAR MARY HAWORTH: I am in a very perplexing situation. My sister's husband—I shall call him Grant—has tried to force his attentions on me. He says he is in love with me and has never cared for my sister, Myra.

She, however, is very much in love with him and has been a wonderful mother for his two children, and I know that she would be heartbroken if I were to tell her of his childish actions; but I also feel that I am doing her a grave injustice by not telling her.

Myra and I are very close, and above all, I don't want her to be hurt. I am sure that if the difficulty were correctly handled, Grant would come to his senses and realize what a marvelous wife he has.

Girl Has Lost Respect for Man

GRANT HAS become completely unbearable and although I have tried to avoid seeing him, he makes a point of meeting me when I am alone. I am completely sickened by his behavior and I have lost all respect for him.

I have no ties here, and if it would be of any help in straightening out the problem, I would leave; but I don't believe it would help. Please try to help me bring our family relations back to normal. E. S.

Man Is Acting Out Fantasies

DEAR E. S.: This is indeed an ugly situation for Myra and you; and it seems you are living in her home, which suggests that the only honorable remedy—protective to yourself and loyal to her—is to move out, as smoothly and quickly as possible.

It has been said that "Temptation comes more from within than from without—," which doubtless explains Grant's predatory behavior. It isn't uncommon for a certain type of married male, psychologically immature, emotionally unstable, without a good foundation of moral grounding in his character, to give expression, involuntarily, to polygamous "designs" on any personable young woman who has an insider-status in his household.

His problem-behavior, which has its rise in his own nature, may focus on a sister-in-law, or maybe a stepdaughter, or the family maid, or his wife's closest friend; and when it does, flurried protests or argumentative attempts to discourage him are seldom successful, so long as circumstances continue to foster "propitious" opportunity for making improper advances.

Destroy Illusion of Easy Opportunity

THE REASON is that this type of male is too self absorbed, in an infantile way, to distinguish between his sex fantasies and the realities of the situation, once his unruly primitive impulses have begun to ferment with the notion that here, maybe, is a chance to outwit society's moral tabus. He blindly acts as if his intended prey

Give Him Room

Encourage, Don't Hamper Tiny Dynamo

By Myrtle Meyer Eldred

Parents know, by watching the baby, that the largest portion of his waking hours is spent in vigorous, physical exercise. Even the tiny baby moves his arms and legs like dynamos. He turns in all directions, even pushing himself to the top of his head to look backward.

It becomes important, then, to dress the baby and put him in an environment where he can satisfy this craving for muscular exercise. This means short clothes. It means no garments on baby or over the baby which will tend to hamper his ability to toss his legs or arms when he is awake.

He should be on a wide bed, or on the pad of his playpen, or on the floor on a pad, so that he can roll from side to side, or even from back to front and engage in the kind of pleasurable activity which is part of the growing process.

When he gets old enough to pull himself to his knees he should be encouraged to crawl. Put a plaything ahead of him so that he will reach to get it and try to move one knee after the other to further himself along.

Too many babies are kept penned up too many hours of their day so that they do not have an opportunity to develop those large muscles which the act of crawling exercises, and which should be developed before the baby walks. It is often the fault of his environment that it is made easier for him to pull up and walk than to get on his knees and creep.

When he is old enough to walk give him the run of the house sometime each day so that he will have the space to move from place to place. Let there be sturdy tables and chairs to which he can cling. Give him a helping hand when he needs it.

The Fashion In Diamonds

The fashion in diamond engagement rings has undergone many changes, according to the Jewelry Industry Council. During Colonial days, cluster rings were fashioned after the manner of a floral bouquet with a rose in the center, the rose being represented by a large diamond. These bouquet or cluster rings frequently were designed so that the gems folded back on a tiny hinge to reveal a depression just large enough to hold a few drops of perfume.

In early American history there are frequent references to "hoop rings" which, while used for engagement purposes, looked much like the present-day diamond wedding rings. They consisted of metal bands set with rows of small diamonds.

Queen Victoria favored what came to be known as the "Victorian" ring. These were like the hoop rings, but were larger and more ornate, with black enamel embellishments on yellow gold.

While the marquise cluster was devised in the time of Louis XVI, it enjoyed considerable popularity for the next two centuries and probably will always be an accepted fashion. This ring is a long pointed oval of clustered diamonds.

The princess ring, an English fashion extremely popular in this country until the advent of the solitaire, had three to five sizable diamonds in a row across the top.

The solitaire is undoubtedly the queen of engagement rings. Originally this was a ring with a single diamond set in a mounting of four or more prongs, but the most popular fashion today is a larger diamond set off by a baguette or small round diamonds on the side.

AOP Alumnae Set Reception

The Washington Alumnae chapter of Alpha Omicron Pi will hold an informal reception at the chapter house of the University of Maryland at 8 p. m. today in honor of Mrs. Darrel B. Rasmussen, Alpha Omicron Pi delegate to the National Panhellenic Conference.

Receiving with Mrs. Rasmussen will be Mrs. William D. Fixer of Alexandria, director of the southeast district of the sorority, and Mrs. William Katzenberger of College Park, president-elect of the alumnae chapter.

Mrs. James S. Dietz, chairman of arrangements for the reception, will be assisted by Mrs. F. E. Godfrey, Mrs. Harlow May, Mrs. James J. McFarland, Mrs. Charles W. Poole and Mrs. Robert J. Chaney.

World Affairs Group Are Entertained

MRS. GIFFORD PINCHOT'S house on Rhode Island ave. was the scene of the Washington World Affairs Center's reception yesterday for delegates to the National Conference on American Foreign Policy.

Besides these delegates, guests at the reception included Cabinet members, members of the House and Senate Foreign Relations Committee, Supreme Court Justices, several representatives from embassy row and their wives.

The United States Ambassador to the United Nations, Philip C. Jessup, received guests with Mrs. Pinchot and officers of the World Affairs Center.

Helpful Household Hints

A piece of art gum should be in the glove drawer to take away any smirches on the otherwise clean light kid gloves. Frequently if these spots are rubbed off, the gloves are immaculate.

If you use a number of soft pillows on the couch in the play room or den with covering of an informal nature, such as cretonne, chintz, why not put a zipper on one edge, just long enough to enable you to remove the pillow and wash the casing? They are very convenient for this type of pillow.

Serve stew in a noodle ring made by packing cooked noodles in a greased mold for two minutes, then turning out on a chop plate.

If new shoes have raised blisters on your feet, don't keep right on wearing them and expect any degree of comfort. Wear your older shoes until the blisters have healed, then break in the new ones gradually, wearing them for short periods until they are less stiff and you have adjusted them to your feet.

Chicken Rio Grande is made with a frying-sized chicken, rice and tomatoes, and seasoned with a bit of chili powder

How Will You Have It?

Chicken Can Be Tasty Every Sunday

By Lucia Brown

WHETHER you eat chicken every Sunday or just now and then, it's apt to be a symbol of the season in your mind's eye.

Think of fried chicken and you're likely to think of a summer's day, with heat waves rising over the fields and cicadas buzzing in the dusty trees.

Think of roast chicken and you remember cold winter Sunday's, with you snug inside the house, a fire crackling on the hearth, and the fragrance of sage and onion dressing drifting from the kitchen.

The spring chicken, though a standard ingredient for wisecracks since time immemorial, doesn't fill nearly so definite a role on the dinner table. The term "spring chicken" (considered rather old-fashioned by modern poultry experts) can be applied to either broilers or fryers.

The young birds needn't even be broiled or fried to be in step with the season. They can be prepared in a variety of other ways that show up their tenderness and delicacy to good advantage. Here are two savory suggestions:

Barbecued Chicken

One young chicken (about 3 pounds), cut in half
2 tablespoons salad oil
2 tablespoons brown sugar
⅛ teaspoon allspice
⅛ teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon cloves
¼ cup Worcestershire sauce
½ lemon (juice and rind)
½ clove garlic
1 tablespoon vinegar
1 teaspoon mustard.
Dash of cayenne pepper

Salt and pepper chicken and brush with oil. Broil under high flame until chicken is about half done. Reduce flame to low. Sift dry ingredients. Mix remaining ingredients and combine with spice mixture. Cook over slow fire 7 to 10 minutes, until thoroughly blended. When chicken is half done, begin basting with sauce. Turn chicken and baste again. Continue until chicken is tender.

Chicken Rio Grande

Seasoned flour
1/3 cup fat
1 medium onion, chopped
1 green pepper, diced
2 cups tomato juice
½ cup raw rice
2 chicken bouillon cubes
1 cup boiling water
Salt
Pepper
Chili powder

Market Memo . . .

ONIONS are taking a strong lead over other abundant vegetables this month of March, 1949. There are lots of them on the market, particularly the yellow kind. They provide a thrifty way of pepping up early spring meals, for they team up well with all sorts of foods.

CANNED CORN and lower grades of canned peas are mentioned by the Department of Agriculture among the especially plentiful foods this month. As far as fresh vegetables go, cabbage, potatoes, carrots and spinach are in large supply. Green beans and limas are plentiful, considering the time of year. Lettuce, which dropped at wholesale last week, went up again this week so you'll be finding it pretty high at your grocery.

PORK is featured by a number of stores this weekend. The price has dropped a little at wholesale, while beef prices have remained the same. Veal should be a little cheaper at retail this weekend, too, but lamb prices have risen again. Frying and broiling chickens are a good buy at about the same prices as last weekend. Ham prices are tending upward; they usually do as Easter approaches.

BUTTER has dropped about 2 cents at wholesale this week. Cheese, dried beans and peas, and peanut butter are all in good supply at reasonable prices, worthy of serious consideration in planning Lenten main dishes.

To Make Even Cake

Be sure your tins of cake batter are placed evenly on the oven shelves. The least tilt caused by careless placement means an uneven cake. If this should happen, rather than have a lop-sided cake, slice a piece off the uneven layer to make it straight and use this layer for the lower layer. A very sharp knife must be used for success.

Bryn Mawr Club Plans Benefit Fete

"Child care in the District" was the topic on which Dr. Ella Oppenheimer spoke Tuesday at the meeting of the Bryn Mawr Club of Washington. The meeting was held at the home of Mrs. James Lawrence Houghteling.

Mrs. James Pomeroy Hendrick reported on the club's fashion show and dance which will be held Saturday night, March 26 at Abremont, the home of Col. and Mrs. Henry Parsons Erwin. Elizabeth Hawes will bring her spring collection from New York for the event. Following the show there will be dancing until midnight to Jack Morton's orchestra.

Presiding at the tea table yesterday were Miss Carolyn Nash, Mrs. Harry L. Grant, Mrs. Farnham Blair and Mrs. Robert F. Woodward.

Stuffed Prunes Add Zest to Meals

Stuffed prunes take a little extra time to make but look so good and make such good eating that they are well worth the trouble. Mix cream or cottage cheese with a bit of mint jelly or a drop of mint flavoring. Stuff pitted prunes with a generous amount and serve on garnished salad plates with a tart French dressing to give a very delightful sweet-sour taste.

A COTTON polka-dot print in white on flamingo red, is used in this evening frock from the Maid of Cotton's wardrobe.

King Cotton's Queen Arrives Sunday

By Peggy Preston

TOTING a cotton wardrobe fit for a queen, the 1949 Maid of Cotton will arrive in town Sunday for her annual visit.

She is Miss Sue Howell, tall, blonde and lovely 19-year-old, who was selected last January by the American cotton industry as its goodwill and fashion ambassador. Her arrival here will climax a six-weeks tour of Eastern and Southern cities. A whirl of parties and sightseeing awaits her, to be concluded on Wednesday, March 23, with a congressional reception and fashion show presented by Jelleff's in the Sapphire Room at the Mayflower Hotel. Mrs. Clifford Davis of Memphis, wife of the Representative, will be official hostess at the 5:30 to 7:30 p. m. event.

From Here to New York

The following day Miss Howell will enplane for New York, and thence to London and Paris. In the latter cities her aim will be to let designers see what America does—fashion-wise—with its fabulous cotton crop. Then, with a pretty hands-across-the-sea gesture, our maid will pick up a few wardrobe items from the French and British couturiers. Cotton, of course.

The first Maid of Cotton was chosen in 1939. Principal requisite for the title is that the contestant come from one of the 18 cotton producing States. So far as the general public is concerned this automatically places her well below the Mason-Dixon line. However, Miss Howell, who has not a trace of a Southern accent, disproves this notion. She hails from California, fifth State in the Nation in total production of cotton, and first in yield per acre.

As were her predecessors, this year's maid was chosen on the basis of personality, intelligence, poise and background. A sophomore at the University of California, she is a member of Kappa Alpha Theta Sorority; a member of the Symphony Forum and a sports enthusiast. On October 25, 1948, she appeared on a Life magazine cover, as the typical American college girl.

She Wears Clothes Well

Wearing clothes well is a special talent of this young lassie, who stands a slim 5 feet 7½ inches. She adds a special dash and style to the extensive travel wardrobe made up for her by more than 30 leading American designers. It is entirely of cotton and ranges from winter street wear to summer evening gowns.

The cotton fabric story portrayed in the maid's wardrobe is refreshing and different. New developments in textures, finishes, patterns and colors of cotton fabrics are apparent in the various costumes. Included are such fabrics as iridescent chambrays, wrinkle-resistant tweeds, metallicized cottons, batik prints and pin-check denims.

Nor does the story stop with the dresses, coats, and suits. The maid will be truly cotton-clad when she comes to town—wearing cotton shoes and carrying luggage covered with plastic coated cotton!

Luncheon Honors Congressional Wife

Mrs. Winfield Denton, wife of the Representative of Indiana, was guest of honor at a luncheon yesterday given at the Water Gate Inn by Mrs. Edgar B. Jackson.

Among the guests were Mrs. Martin Smith, Mrs. Percy Phillips, Mrs. H. F. Buchholz and Mrs. James Davis.

Returns From Panama

Miss Lyda Mae Francis has just returned from Panama, where she was a house guest of the United States Ambassador and Mrs. Monnett Davis. She is stopping at the Mayflower Hotel.

were secretly responsive to his "imaginings," regardless of her defensive reactions.

Thus to clear the man's head, she must, if possible, destroy the illusion of easy opportunity which incites his misconduct—as can be done by removing herself from his daily orbit. And in the event this isn't feasible, she has the alternative of bluntly refusing to skirmish in a hushhush manner.

So, to be explicit: If you've been staying with Myra, it seems a worthy idea to move out, giving a diplomatic excuse for going, and nicely refusing to be judged from it—if you think Myra won't be hurt by the "mystery" of it. Or, if that can't be managed, then you ought to discuss Grant's problem-behavior with her, and ask her to help you manage him. And supposing you aren't living with them, and Grant is courting you across town, you might as well put her wise and let her know you're on her side, before she gets a wrong impression of you—which would be the worst blow to her, I'm sure.

Colgate Varsity Glee Club to Sing For Bethesda Woman's Club

Final arrangements are being made by the Bethesda Woman's Club and the Colgate University Alumni in the Washington area to present the Colgate University Varsity Glee Club in a concert at the Woman's Club, Sonoma and Georgetown rds., Bethesda, on Saturday evening, March 26 at 8 p. m. The Glee Club includes 40 men from the sophomore, junior and senior classes. Dr. James Sykes is the conductor. The Bethesda concert is the first on the club's 1949 spring tour, which includes some nine or ten other engagements.

The club leaves by chartered motor coach from Hamilton, N. Y., where the university is situated, and will arrive in Bethesda Saturday morning. Club personnel will be met at the Bethesda Woman's Club by members and officers of the Colgate Alumni Association of Washington and the Woman's Club, and will be taken to the homes of various alumni in and near Washington where they will be entertained over Saturday and Sunday.

Colgate University is an all men's school located in Hamilton, N. Y., some 40 miles south of Syracuse. With Cornell and Syracuse universities, it makes up what is known as Central New York's "Big Three" colleges and has long been nationally noted for its football and other athletic teams. The Glee Club is one of the major non-athletic activities on the campus and the organization might be referred to as a major, non-athletic varsity.

On the Capital Party Calendar . . .

GEN. AND MRS. DWIGHT EISENHOWER nearly stole the spotlight from St. Patrick yesterday at a party given in their honor by Maj. Gen. and Mrs. Henry B. Sayler.

It was a combination St. Patrick's Day party and anniversary celebration of the Eisenhowers' engagement announcement several March seventeenths ago.

The Saylers' daughter, Mrs. Dale Sayler Hull, and daughter-in-law, Mrs. Henry Sayler, jr., greeted guests at the door and promptly pinned bright green carnations on them. All the decorations followed the Irish motif.

Among those assisting the hostess were Mrs. Kenneth Royall, Mrs. George Mesta, Mrs. George Allen, Mrs. George Tyson, Mrs. Wade Haislip, Mrs. Thomas Larkin, Mrs. Everett Hughes, Mrs. Arthur Nevins of New York, Mrs. Alfred Gruenther, Mrs. William Kasten, Mrs. Ruth Butcher and Mrs. John Shugrue.

Mrs. Eisenhower was lovely in a lavender gown and her hostess wore a charming dress of white beaded crepe.

The Belgian Ambassador Baron Silvercruys was there, as were Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Biffle, Miss Bertha Joseph, Misses Elizabeth and Mary Howry, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Fleming, Mrs. William Pope Anderson, Mr. and Mrs. William B. Kerkham, Jr.; Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Gill, Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Graves and Mr. and Mrs. Bert Andrews.

Among others who came were Gen. and Mrs. Carl A. Spaatz, Gen. and Mrs. Edmond Leavy, Gen. and Mrs. Lauris Norstad, Gen. and Mrs. Frank Everest, Gen. and Mrs J. Lawton Collins, Gen. and Mrs. Hobart Gay, Gen. and Mr. Douglas L. Weart and Col. and Mrs. Leigh Wade.

MRS. NATHANIEL B. DIAL was hostess at the first in a series of spring luncheons yesterday at the Congressional Club and her second party will be given today.

Her guests yesterday included Mrs. Fred Vinson, Mrs. Tom Connally, Mrs. Allen J. Ellender, Mrs. Homer Ferguson, Mrs. George Malone, Mrs. Frederick M. Gould, Mrs. Albert Cox, Mme. Rybar, Mrs. Nat Townsend and Mrs. R. B. Newgarden.

Today's luncheon will take place at the Shoreham Hotel in the Blue Room. Among those attending will be Mrs. Eugene Millikin, Mrs. Henry Cabot Lodge, Mrs. Edward Everett Gann, Mrs. Wallace White, Mrs. Carter Glass, Mrs. George Barnett, Mrs. W. T. Gibb, Mrs. Guy Despard Goff, Mrs. Joseph Graham, Mrs. Edward Stitt, Mrs. Paul Linebarger, and Mrs. Dial's daughters, Mrs. Matthew White Perry and Mrs. Harold Ogden Smith, jr.

Mme. El-Khouri Entertains Ladies From Middle East

MME. EL-KHOURI, wife of the Syrian Minister, entertained during the tea hour yesterday for a group of ladies, most of whom were from the Middle East.

Mme. Ala, wife of the Ambassador of Iran, was a guest, as well as Mme. Malik, wife of the Minister of Lebanon, and Mme. Bakr, wife of the Minister Plenipotentiary of Iraq.

Others included Princess Zohra Naim, wife of the Ambassador of Afghanistan, Mme. Koo, wife of the Ambassador of China, Mme. Corea, wife of the Ambassador of Ceylon, and Mrs. James Edwin Webb, wife of the Undersecretary of State.

From residential Washington came Mrs. Kermit Roosevelt, Mrs. William Smith Culbertson, Mrs. Martin Vogel, Miss Nan Garcia, Mrs. James Souby and Mrs. Leland Morris.

Norwegian Envoy Honors Icelandic Minister

IN HONOR of the Icelandic Foreign Minister, Bjarni Benediktsson, a luncheon was given yesterday by the Norwegian Ambassador and Mme. de Morgenstierne. Bermudezes Are Honored By Mrs. Hayes

Senor and Senora Antonio Bermudez, house guests of the Ambassador of Mexico and Senora de la Colina, were honored yesterday at a cocktail party given by Mrs. Theodore Hayes at the Georgetown home of her twin sister, Mrs. Richard Harless. Sharing honors with Senor and Senora Bermudez were Senor and Senora Francisco Buch de Parada, also of Mexico.

Among the guests were Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Woodward, the Secretary of the Army and Mrs. Kenneth Royall, the Secretary of Agriculture and Mrs. Charles F. Brannan, Mr. and Mrs. George Allen, Admiral and Mrs. Clark Woodward, Admiral and Mrs. Ruthvan Libby, Senator and Mrs. Brien McMahon, Brig. Gen. and Mrs. Albert L. Cox, Mr. and Mrs. Julio Heurtematte, Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Bell, Col. and Mrs. Leigh Wade and many others.

Yesterday's party was the last to be given in Mrs. Harless' house as she is moving to Phoenix, Ariz., and Perris, Calif., and Mr. and Mrs. Hayes are moving to the Woodley Park Towers.

Mrs. Harless entertained at a dinner last evening in honor of a newly engaged couple, Miss Letitia Knox and Comdr. William Ruffin Cox. The dinner was given at the United Nations Club for a company of 20.

Dinner guests included Maj. and Mrs. William Lively, Mrs. Pembrooke Nash, Capt. Robert Peden, USN; Miss Lucy Knox, Comdr. William Robards, Mr. and Mrs. William W. Walker, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Dodge, Comdr. and Mrs. Sam Moncure and Mr. and Mrs. George W. Petticord, jr.

A Son Is Born To J. E. Palmers

Mr. and Mrs. James E. Palmer, jr., of Fairfax County announce the birth of a son, Carter Randolph Palmer on March 14 at Arlington Hospital, Arlington. Three other children in the Palmer family are James E. Palmer, 3rd, Lela Henrietta Palmer and Charles Jefferson Palmer.

The baby is named after the late Senator Carter Glass of Virginia, a close friend of the Palmers, and about whom Mr. Palmer wrote a biography entitled "Carter Glass, Unreconstructed Rebel."

Mrs. Palmer, a native Washingtonian, is the former Miss Suzanne Kappler. Mr. Palmer is special assistant to Attorney General Thomas Campbell Clark.

Justin Millers See Old Friends

DELICATE plum blossoms and camellias flown from their California home lent a springtime air to Mr. and Mrs. Justin Miller's tea yesterday at the Wardman Park Hotel.

The Millers, who make their home now in Pacific Palisades, just outside of Los Angeles, are visiting in the Capital for a few weeks and renewing many old friendships.

At yesterday's tea approximately 200 dropped in to say "hello." Taking their turn at the tea table were Mrs. Fred Vinson, Mrs. William O. Douglas, Mrs. Robert Jackson, Mrs. Riley Rutledge, Mrs. Harold M. Stephens, Mrs. Tom Clark, Representative Helen Gahagan Douglas, Mrs. Harris Ellsworth, Mrs. Chet Holifield, Mrs. John Phillips, Mrs. Wayne Coy and Mrs. Sam Bass Warner.

Among those assisting the hostesses were Mrs. Montfort Moodie and Mrs. A. D. Willard, jr.

Col. Howard Kenyon Ordered to Guam

Col. Howard N. Kenyon of the United States Marines has been ordered to Guam to command the Marine Barracks and his position as Governor of the Society of Mayflower Descendants in the District of Columbia has been assumed by Deputy Governor Leigh L. Nettleton.

Bridges Banter

Filibusterer Is Abashed That He Fed a Squirrel Without Federal Advice

By Mary Van Rensselaer Thayer

FUN ON THE HILL DEPARTMENT (Continued): It's impossible to resist the temptation to pass on some more of the gobbets of enchanting knowledge acquired so pleasantly merely by relaxing through Senator Bridges' two hour and fifty-eight minute filibustering talkathon. Material for our hero's stint was gathered from some 83,000 Government publications which he coyly titled, "Uncle Sam's Book-of-the-Minute Club, Unlimited." Here's what entertaining Mr. Bridges unearthed on subjects close to home.

After touching on "Techniques of Fishpond Management" and "Estimating the Muskrat Population by House Counts," which was far too erudite for even so skilled an explainer as Senator Bridges, he flourished a pamphlet titled "Fish for Breakfast—and Why Not?"

This is chatty, rather like "Breakfast with Tex and Jinx." It says, in part: "The national standby of bacon and eggs is all very well, but some people find that such a breakfast dish is too rich, and, in any case the possibilities for variety are strictly limited." Unfortunately, though Mr. Bridges admitted to a weakness for fish (and got in a plug for New Hampshire fish), he didn't give any recipes.

Before taking up more practical things, the Senator relapsed momentarily into the esoteric. "Here is another (pamphlet), one that really gets home. Its title is: 'Care of Parrots.' The care of parrots is probably one of the major problems of the country. The pamphlet contains 16 pages and deals with parrot fever. It also deals with the difficulty of refeathering after molt. It speaks of egg-binding. I do not know what is meant by that. It must be something new in the science of caring for parrots. There are all kinds of angles to the parrot situation.

"FROM parrots the switch to "Feeding and Caring for Squirrels" was a natural progression. Here Senator Bridges reminisced on what was obviously a childhood packed with thrills. That (i. e., feeding squirrels) should not be a major problem, because I can remember that when I was a small child—I could not have been more than 2 or 3 or 4 years of age—I used to go out in the backyard and feed peanuts to squirrels. I had not had the advantage of having read a United States Government booklet on how I should feed squirrels."

In spite of being thus underprivileged, Mr. Bridges, on a quick trip to Boston, took a gander at the squirrels on the Common. Addressing Senator Saltonstall (R., Mass.), he continued wistfully, "I saw beautiful squirrels there and I saw little tots feeding peanuts to them. I do not know whether the Senator knows, and I shall not ask him here, whether the people of Massachusetts have read about how to feed squirrels—it must be a very efficient Government operation."

Not Enough Light

THE SENATOR turned to home furnishings and funked rather badly on how to make a table lamp. The only fact presented was, "Be sure to buy a socket with a three-position switch if you use a three-light bulb (50-100-150 watt)," leaving us high and dry with a three-position switch.

He was more concrete quoting from a booklet aimed to tell settlers in the Columbia Basin how to be their own Elsie de Wolfe: "The average ruralist seems to feel his daily routine to be rather unexciting and in selecting home furnishings he is likely to satisfy his consequent craving for glamour by choosing flashy pieces." Mr. Bridges, in a biting mood, said this was a slur on the taste of the people of Washington State by Washington bureaucrats.

Mr. Bridges finished his fun with some pamphlets on sex. He touched upon the courtship of the band-tail pigeon (nothing but bills and coos, as far as we could see), then on how to determine the sex of a watermelon. About 20 pages are devoted to this exceedingly abstruse subject.

Miss Hoffman Entertains for Mr., Mrs. Ives

Miss Lucy Hoffman entertained at a small party last evening in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Gaige Ives, jr. Mrs. Ives, sr., has been visiting her son and daughter-in-law at their home on 16th st., and has gone to Florida to join her husband for a few weeks' vacation.

Mr. and Mrs. Ives, jr., were married February 12 at Trinity Episcopal Church in Arlington. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Francis Alden Niccolls of Boston, Mass. Plans had been made for a Boston wedding, but a small family wedding was held instead in Virginia owing to the death of Miss Holly Ives, sister of the bridegroom.

The bride was graduated from Bryn Mawr College. Mr. Ives attended Cornell University, Stanford University and the Institute of International Relations in California. At the San Francisco World Conference in 1945, he was assistant to Dr. Rudolph Holsti, former Foreign Minister of Finland.

Parties to Fete Gen. Costa Here

Brazil's Minister of War, Gen. Canrobert Periera Costa, is due to arrive in town on March 30 and his three-day visit to the Capital will be filled with parties in his honor.

On Thursday, March 31, the Brazilian Ambassador Mauricio Nabuco is making plans for an embassy luncheon for the general. The fete will be followed by a cocktail party at which Gen. Willis D. Crittenberger, chairman of the Inter-American Defense Board, will be host.

Secretary of the Army Kenneth Royall will fete the Brazilian visitor at a dinner on the same day. And then on April 1 General Costa will give a luncheon at the Shoreham for Secretary Royall. Later that day the visitor will leave for New York and another round of welcoming parties.

Other Brazilian officers who will accompany General Costa are Gen. Fuiza de Castro, chief of supply for the Brazilian armed forces; Gen. Candido Caldas, chief of the Department of Technical Production; Lieut. Col. Predro Geraldo, assistant to the Minister of War, and Capt. Oly Lund, General Castro's aide.

Brazil's new Military Attache, Gen. Edgar Do Amaral, and his assistant, Lieut. Augusto Fragoso, have been assigned to the Minister of War during his stay.

Spring! . . . It Means A New Hat

Spring can mean a lot of things—but to a woman it is usually a new hat.

With this in mind one of the F street stores, Raleigh Haberdasher, is putting the accent on its spring millinery Saturday by declaring it "Know Day." Miss Nancy Shaunessy of the famous hatter firm in New York will be in the shop on that day to assist customers in making the right selection for their Easter suit or frock. She will have with her all the 1949 spring styles by Knox, including picturesque sailors, those perennial favorites which have a new slant on life this season; cartwheel straws, pretty bonnets, close fitting cloches and many more.

Paint for Luminous Clock Hands

The coating or paint on the hands of my alarm clock visible at night in the dark was knocked off by a fall and I am wondering if such a liquid paint could be purchased in small quantity that could be put on the hands at home. Have tried paint stores and jewelry shops around here and cannot get the desired information, nor is there a clock repair man around here who can do the work for me. L. L. L.

There is a luminous paint on the market which is designed for this and similar uses. One firm puts out this paint in a complete set which includes the undercoater, the luminous paint and a clear paint to put over the luminous paint to protect it. This set sells for around a dollar. Since there are several companies who have luminous paint on the market now, you should have no difficulty in finding one of these products in a large hardware or paint store in your town. If you cannot find it, your paint dealer should be able to give you the name of a manufacturer so you can order it direct.

and top of shade. It is badly soiled from smoke, etc., as it is about 3 years old, but I hate to throw it away because it is good, only dirty. Please tell me how to clean it. R. A. M.

If the fabric is sewed to the frame and not glued, you can probably improve the appearance of the shade by shampooing it. Since it isn't possible to know just how a shade fabric will react to washing until attempted, you are always running some risk in shampooing them. But if the shade is so soiled it is not usable as it is you have everything to gain by attempting it.

Fill a laundry or bath tub with luke-warm water and add a generous amount of mild soap flakes. Whip up a good suds. Hold the shade by the top of the frame and plunge it up and down in the suds. If soiled spots show up, brush them gently with a soft brush. When the shade is clean, rinse by plunging up and down in clear water. Rinse twice to be sure to get out all of the soap. Now, pat away all the moisture you can with a clean bath towel. Hang out-of-doors or turn an electric fan directly on it to dry. One secret of success is to dry it quickly so that the wire frame cannot rust onto the cover.

My spring coat is too short, so I'd like to shorten it to three-quarter length. Could you tell me the proper length for this type of coat? L. C. J.

The three-quarter length coats this spring measure about 30 inches from the back of the collar to the hem. Since, of course, the length varies with the size of the coat, perhaps a better way to determine the length would be to have it measure halfway between the hip bone and the knee.

Could you give me a recipe for popovers? The ones I have don't give the oven temperatures, which are, of course, important. I had been using the ready-mix kind with fine results, but don't find it in the stores any more. G. L. S.

POPOVERS

1 cup sifted all-purpose flour
¼ teaspoon salt
2 eggs, beaten (3 if small)
1 cup milk
1 tablespoon shortening, melted

MIX AND SIFT flour and salt. Combine eggs, milk and shortening; add to flour mixture, beating until batter is smooth. Grease bottom of custard cups or heavy iron muffin pans, fill 1-3 full and bake in very hot oven (450 degrees F.) about 15 minutes; then reduce heat to moderate (350 degrees F.) and continue baking 20 to 25 minutes, or until popovers are firm. Approximate yield: 8 large popovers.

Can you tell me where shelf dowel pins can be obtained, or what could be used as a substitute therefor to hold shelves? I have tried numerous hardware stores without success. H. W. I.

There is a hardware store on 14th st. which has a shelf rest which fits into a hole in the wood. Also, they have a pin and metal strip arrangement for holding up shelves. For further information, I suggest you call the store at North 6300.

On the Town

The Mayflower Lounge (Mayflower Hotel), which makes a habit of coming up with entertainment pleasing to its patrons, has done it again — but this time it was surefire from the start.

Za Bach

In a business as touchy as the stock market, the lounge has invested in performers who were a hit there not so long ago: the dance team of Artini and Consuelo and Violinist Florian Za Bach and his orchestra.

The thing about Artini and Consuelo—lacking in all to many other dance teams—is that they are not only excellent terpsichoreans but engaging personalities to boot. Here are no smooth-stepping automatons. In fact, when they've finished their routine, they'll ask what you'd like in the way of an encore—and do it.

Violinist Za Bach, a flaxen-haired young man who made his concert debut at the age of 12, leads his orchestra through music for Artini and Consuelo and then turns into a performer himself in classical and popular selections.

It was his rendition of "Hora Staccato" and "Smoke Gets in Your Eyes" which attracted Arthur Godfrey's attention recently and resulted in his guest star appearance on Godfrey's coast-to-coast morning broadcast.

Jan August, the man of the magic piano, opened last night at the Statler's Embassy Room. The Brooklyn-born ivory tinkler, a self-taught musician, drew praise from another pianist named Harry Truman while playing at a Press Club dinner not so long ago. He'll be at the Embassy Room through March 26.

With August is a young woman billed as "the comedy find of the season"—or, if you like, "the female Frank Sinatra." She is Louise Howard, an Illinois-born comedienne whose pretty face has a funnybone-tickling mobility. She writes her own material, 'tis said. Can sing, too.

For those who like curry, the Colony (De Salle st. across from the Mayflower), has a dish guaranteed to please. Felix, the chef, doubt the hand is quicker than the makes it with chutney, current jelly, onions, banana, celery, mangoes, leeks, bar-le-duc, apples and so on. But, says Felix, that's only two-thirds of it—the rest is his business.

The Colony's owner, Alex Stuart, asserts a quiet pride in the food served there, reports the prices are reasonable, and then switches his attention from the spacious lounge to the cocktail lounge downstairs.

A week from Monday, according to Stuart, he hopes to install Songstress Dona Mason there. While dickering has not been completed, he says that the lounge—done red leather throughout—is a natural for a gal with Dona's talents.

Dona Mason

Meantime, Dona, who just finished a stint at the Blue Angel in New York, is singing at Al Smith's Crossroads nightery at the Peace Cross in Bladensburg. Also on the entertainment lineup are Bill Norvas and his Upstarts.

One on the Aisle—

A Mature Story At the National

By Richard L. Coe

A SOBER AND MATURE idea is the basis for the National's new picture, "An Act of Murder."

Sobriety and maturity are so exceptional qualities for a movie that they amount almost to a recommendation, so pat and contrived have become what passes for drama from Hollywood.

Another quality outstanding in this adaptation of Ernst Lothar's novel, "The Mills of God," is fine acting. One can always rely on Fredric March for even capability, but this time we have Mrs. March, Florence Eldridge, giving a performance that to my mind quite outshines the madness of Olivia de Havilland in "The Snake Pit" and the mute appeal of Jane Wyman in "Johnny Belinda."

The fact remains, however, that "An Act of Murder" is not a completely satisfactory picture. After setting up the pros and cons of mercy killing, it suddenly becomes terrified of its own audacity and argues, quite speciously, that a husband's mercy for his wife's suffering did not result in her death after all.

Now in making such a picture as this, Universal-International has got itself on a paradoxical spot. The germ of this picture is just the sort of thing critics of Hollywood describe as lacking in the colony's immature output. It treats a middle-aged couple in an adult manner, it soft-pedals the glamour and it tackles a human problem that might happen to any of us.

"ACT OF MURDER," a Universal-International Picture produced by Jerry Bresler, directed by Michael Gordon, screenplay by Michael Blankfort and Robert Thoeren, based on the novel, "The Mills of God," by Ernst Lothar. At the National.

THE CAST.

Judge Calvin Cooke.....Frederic March
David Douglas.....Edmond O'Brien
Catherine Cooke.....Florence Eldridge
Ellie Cooke.....Geraldine Brooks
Dr. Walter Morrison.....Stanley Ridges
Judge Ogden.....John McIntire
Charles Davton.....Frederic Tozere
Judge Jim Wilder.....Will Wright

Mr. Pope.....Clarence Muse

We meet a respected Pennsylvania judge and his wife on their twentieth anniversary. The judge is inclined to respect the letter of the law more than he does the consciences of the lawbreakers. He is a stern man and this characteristic becomes an integral part of the story.

The wife, after having had dizzy spells for some months, consults a physician, an old family friend. He discovers that she has an incurable illness, but keeps this knowledge from her. Instead, he reveals the truth to her husband. Knowing the full facts of her imminent death and its unavoidable suffering, he takes her on a second honeymoon.

By chance the wife discovers that her husband is hiding the truth from her and, with another attack on the way, she begs to be taken home to be with their daughter. Her suffering is evident and the judge runs the car off the rain-drenched highway.

But though he indicates he wanted to kill both himself and his wife, he lives and a high conscience makes him insist he be tried for murder. By plot manipulation, his guilt is resolved and the ending comes with several empty speeches about mercy killing.

While I'm not familiar with the Lothar novel on which this is based, I can't help feeling that somebody put the brakes on while forming the picture. The central idea is not faced squarely and even the highway accident seems more contrived melodrama than what this judge would logically have done. He speaks with the tongue of maturity, but he acts with the mind of a movie hero.

Therefore, I didn't believe that Mr. March's judge would have behaved as he did. The story makes every effort, including a romance between his daughter and a zealous young lawyer, to suggest the judge is too cold to be human and that, suddenly faced with a personal problem, his reaction is confused.

But for a film about mercy killing this character of the judge is quite beside the point. It is a surface acceptance only that paints this mature, experienced man as confused in trouble. And it is foolish melodrama to suppose he would not have taken his daughter into his confidence about her mother's condition.

Had these unlikely aspects been kept out of the story, "An Act of Murder" might have been the picture it aimed to be. But these very ingredients by which the writers hoped to give conventional drama to an unconventional theme are precisely what mar its effect.

Miss Eldridge's mature, troubled wife is a performance that redeems a good deal. Several of the scenes of this husband and wife, together, yet alone in their individual troubles, are film acting of the best sort.

Mrs. March may often have played second fiddle to her husband's notable acting career, but in the National's film she reveals a sincerity and depth our Hollywood ladies seldom achieve.

JUST TRUST RANDY: Nancy Olson seems to have the same confidence in Randolph Scott that the rail officials do; he's helping them lay tracks in the Rockies for "Canadian Pacific," the color film on the Capitol screen

Shot in Egg Makes Chick Grow Faster

By Harmon W. Nichols
United Press Staff Writer

You can argue until you're blue about which comes first—the chicken or the egg.

But as of now, I'm here to report, the egg and the chicken are running neck and neck.

At Beltsville, Md., where the Department of Agriculture experiments with parsnips, sows, cows and hens, they are "souping up" chicks long before they peck through the shell and start to scratch for a living.

Agricultural specialists are giving the eggs a hypo of a millionth of a gram of crystalline B-12, which is a form of the well-known vitamin B.

H. L. Shrader, who calls himself the world's champion carver of poultry and eyes everything from egg to white meat with anticipation, explained that this B-12 stuff is full of "animal protein."

"It helps to produce growth," he said.

It's part of the program to grow bigger chickens quicker. To give the housewife a break, and at the same time help the man who runs the hen house to make a decent living.

"It all ties in with the chicken-of-tomorrow program," Shrader said.

That program was started at a meeting of the chickenyard set in St. Louis a few years ago. The A. & P. food stores put up something like $8,000 in prizes.

The climax came at Georgetown, Del., last spring when the Department of Agriculture and others proudly put on parade a flock that had grown to 4 pounds in 12 weeks. The normal time for that sort of performance in a chicken is 16 weeks.

In the 12 weeks, these prize chickens, with eight slices of white meat to the breast and drumsticks as big as a young turkey, ate 3 pounds of food per pound gained since birth.

"The rate used to be twice that—and it took 16 weeks to get 'em up to 4 pounds," Shrader said. "It's like a man doing two days' work in a week and saving the money he would have spent on transportation to and from the job."

The eggs for the 1949 chicken-of-tomorrow contest will be placed in the incubators or under the feathers on March 30 in 23 States.

The AG men at Beltsville already are giving hatchable eggs a pinpoint dose of the magic B-12.

According to Shrader and Dr. H. R. Bird of the United States Department of Agriculture poultry husbandry department, by the time the chicks are 5 weeks old they have perked up. They are already—at that tender age—one-fourth of a pound heavier than the poor chick which didn't get a needle when it was just a poor egg.

By six weeks, the super-chick has gained a little more, and by the time it is 7 weeks old it is nearly one-third of a pound heavier. A chicken eater can lick his chops at this point by just looking through the wire.

THE DISTRICT LINE by Bill Gold

Inside Story of Why We Go Around in Circles

Herb Harris of 1121 N. Kensington st., Arlington, Va., calls attention to a parking bargain I didn't know about.

The inner side of the roadway around the Ellipse is restricted to 2-hour parking. But along the outer side, you can park as long as you like.

Muses Herb: "I can't understand why everybody is always so anxious to get into the inner circle."

FINE IDEA BUT THEY STILL WOULDN'T BUDGE

Jim Wiliong, jr., of 1541 Montana ave. ne., wonders whether transit radio can be made to serve a useful purpose.

Jim thinks that maybe the operators of Capital Transit vehicles could be equipped with microphones and cut-in switches which would permit them to reach their passengers with such messages as:

"Operator to standees; operator to standees. Plenty of room reported in rear of car. How about moving back so that we can take on some more passengers up front? Over."

DEFINITION

Seven-year-old William S. Baker, jr., of 60 Randolph pl. nw. has a ready explanation for rain. "It's the sun crying."

Listen to Bill Gold's "This Is Washington," the District Line on the Air. Monday through Friday, over WTOP, from 10 a. m. to Arthur Godfrey time at 10:30.

CONFUSION, UNLIMITED

The District Recreation Board and the Department of the Interior are currently locked in one of the silliest misunderstandings of the season. What's worse, no visible effort is being made to dispel it.

Led by Recreation Board Chairman Harry S. Wender, four members of that group called on Assistant Secretary of the Interior C. Girard Davidson the other day, to discuss the possibility that Interior would turn over its local golf courses to the Board.

What was said at that meeting depends on who tells the story. It goes like this:

Davidson: I told them I'd be glad to turn the courses over to them if they'd agree to run them on a non-segregated basis.

Wender: We assured Davidson that we'd abide by all rules and regulations he'd set out for any other concessionaire.

Davidson: I asked Wender whether he was speaking for himself or for the Board, and he admitted that he was not authorized to commit the Board on that point. Besides, the Board has never been known as a very ardent advocate of an end to segregation.

Wender: I told him I couldn't speak for the Board at that time, because the Board hadn't taken formal action. But I assured him that if he'd offer us the courses on a non-segregation basis, the Board would accept with alacrity.

Davidson: Why don't they write me a letter to that effect, in the name of the Board?

Wender: Why doesn't he make us an offer of the courses, so that we'll have something to act on?

MISCELLANY

Uncle Bill Jenkins switches his early-morning corn shucking to WEAM in a few weeks . . . Eli Danneman of 3958 Ames st. ne. reports that March is getting to be a mighty important month in his family. Mrs. Danneman gave birth to a boy at George Washington University Hospital on the 15th—the only boy born there that day. Three years ago, on March 21, she gave birth to a girl at Providence Hospital—the only girl born there that day . . . Mrs. Frank Gibbs of 3645 Veazey st. nw. checks in with a story that stops me cold: It's about a laundress who requests her employer to switch from Linit to Argo starch, because she prefers the taste of Argo when she eats it . . . Surprise! I received St. Patrick's Day greetings from Ernest, Stella, Reid, Joe and Georgia Warder of 419 Mellon st. se. . . . Dorothy Malone, the gorgeous dish who appears in the movie "Flaxy Martin," is getting married this June to a nephew of Mrs. Henry Whelan of 3225 17th st. nw. The lucky bridegroom is a Dallas physician, Dr. Philip Montgomery . . . Doris L. Carlin of 1420 16th st. nw. says that I may think there are a large number of green coats around this winter, but as far as she's concerned, there are too many gray ones. Her gray coat has been carried off twice by strangers who thought it was theirs. Fortunately, she got it back both times . . . It didn't take the Nats long to round into mid-season form.

Leonard Lyons . . .

NEW YORK.—Robert Morley, who soon is retiring from "Edward, My Son," was asked one day about his prized notices. Morley recalled the rave reviews he received playing "Oscar Wilde," "The First Gentleman" and "Edward, My Son," but decided that his best notice came in a London courtroom where a defendant was being sentenced for a crime. Morley sat alone in a box reserved for visitors . . . The judge sentenced a man to six months and a fine. The defendant wasn't listening to the sentence. And as he was led off to jail he asked his lawyer: "Wasn't that Robert Morley?"

Michael Todd, the producer, went to New Haven to see "South Pacific," and returned to New York to keep an appointment with Charles Friedman, who directed "Pins and Needles" and "Carmen Jones." Friedman wanted to discuss a new show with the producer . . . Todd, still stunned by the perfection of "South Pacific," ranted about its wonders—the singing, the acting, the songs, the staging, and vowed it's the greatest show he's ever seen . . . "Well, like they say after a funeral: 'Life must go on'," sighed Todd, then turned to the visiting director and said: "Let's hear your proposition."

While Charles Laughton, Burgess Meredith and Franchot Tone were in Paris doing "Man in the Eiffel Tower," there was a report in the American press that the three stars were fighting among themselves. Their press agent learned that a Hollywood columnist was in Paris, and arranged for the three stars to go with the columnist to a Paris night club and prove thereby that all was amicable . . . They took the columnist to a colorful, dirty, smoke-filled club in Montmartre and reveled in camaderie. At midnight Laughton whispered: "Now may I go home. I'm due on the set at 8 a. m." . . . Tone and Meredith tried to dissuade him. And when, at 2 a. m., Laughton left despite their protests, the columnist notified the press that it was true—the movie stars were fighting among themselves.

It's a recorded fact! Many a thankful Mother has brought her children to us for Pre-Tested Poll-Parrot shoes, since birth. You, too, will sing the praises of Poll-Parrot's roomy comfort, sturdy support and long lasting fit and wear.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

Wiretap Web Spreading Out

By Drew Pearson

If a grand jury ever gets to the bottom of the New York wire-tapping scandal, it will find that it was about as safe to talk on the telephone in Manhattan as to dodge across 5th Avenue in the middle of the traffic rush. So many big-wigs are involved, however, that it's highly doubtful whether all the facts will ever be made public.

Pearson

However, it can be revealed that the confidential wire-tapping notebook carried by detective Kenneth Ryan listed the name of Bernard Baruch as one whose phone either was being tapped, or about to be tapped.

Furthermore, General Motors had retained the law firm that employed Ryan—John G. Broady—to tap the wires of its auto dealers, presumably t see whether they were selling cars on the black market. Other clients of Broady were Martin Straus of Eversharp Pencil, James Cromwell in his divorce suit against Doris Duke, and Mme. Patino, wife of the Bolivian tin millionaire.

Ryan, who works for Broady, used to check the wires of the late Franklin D. Roosevelt's New York home to make sure they were not tapped. In brief, no one's wires in New York were considered safe.

One point of interest to Government wire-tapping experts is where the Ryan-Broady combine got their telephone equipment, since it is not easily obtainable. Ryan has indicated to New York officials that he obtained it from the telephone company through underground channels. Clendenin Ryan, incidentally, recently took over the chairmanship of International Telephone and Telegraph.

Clendenin Ryan, who donated one million dollars to clean up municipal governments from coast to coast, is a rich man's son who has tried with varying success, to do something for his country. The trouble is that he has tackled a mayor who himself has tangled with Tammany. And Ryan hasn't known where the power of private money should stop and the Government should step in.

Young Ryan is a close friend of fellow Princetonian Secretary of Defense Forrestal, under whom he served in the Navy. And when Communist-inspired strikes paralyzed France in November, 1947, Forrestal asked his young friend to raise money to help break the strike. Ryan did so. He passed the hat among New York friends, came back with $25,000.

This was distributed among certain French Communist leaders. And, though other factors helped, the French strikes evaporated.

Later, in February 1948, Italy was in the throes of her first real election in two decades. The Communists were bent on winning. Again Secretary Forrestal came to his young friend.

Ryan called a meeting of New York friends. A Forrestal representative described the situation in Italy. Seventy thousand dollars was raised—most of it in $5000 lots. Of the $70,000, a total of $30,000 went direct to Premier De Gasperi as a political slush fund.

Afterward Forrestal arranged with the United States Treasury to permit contributors to make charity income tax-deductions. But Ryan and most of his friends declined. They wrote it off as a contribution to their country.

Young Ryan is now head of a clean-up conglomeration of Park avenueites, ousted Tammanyites and real reformers. In the latter category are Adolf Berle, former Assistant Secretary of State, and William Chadbourne, Wall Street attorney. In the former category is John Jacob Astor. And in the former Tammany category are Clarence Neal, the Harlem leader whom Mayor O'Dwyer kicked out of Tammany, and James Brannigan, head of the National Democratic Club.

Irish aristocrat Ryan has now taken on an Irish-born, former Brooklyn cop who, as mayor of New York, has already battled Tammany and who has a forthright record for honesty in city management. O'Dwyer has an easygoing manner, and acts as if everyone were his friend. But he earned his spurs tackling the Christian Front in Brooklyn, later as investigator of corruption in the Army, and he isn't going to lose those spurs now.

At any rate, when Mayor O'Dwyer finally broke up the telephone network of his fellow Irishmen, he discovered, among other things, an apparatus for listening to private conversations without even using wires. All you had to do was sit in an automobile several hundred feet away from a conversation and listen by means of a newfangled radio eavesdropper.
